Kris,

May 1982

Well kiddo, here we are ^{up} up, same height, just a lot thinner. We've been through ^{} a lot together between Madonlane, Central, and at last — Palm Bay! Wow, I can't believe the school is still standing! I know we've been through some tough + difficult times, but we've managed to come out of them still lovin' each other. I'm very honored to have you for a cousin (and I know the feelings mutual — ha!)

Well cuz, let's get to the point — I love ya kid + I want to thank you for all of the pep talks, "W@#$" talks, guy talks, I'm in love with — talks, I talk — talks, and all of the other fab. talks that we've had in the past 4 years and 2 months, 1 week and 5 days. Not that I keep track...

Well cuz, I wish you a lot of luck. You have fantastic talent that you should take advantage of. Maybe one day we'll hit the Big Raspberry! Right now I can see our name in lights —
Cricket + Sneakles! or Sneakles + Cricket!

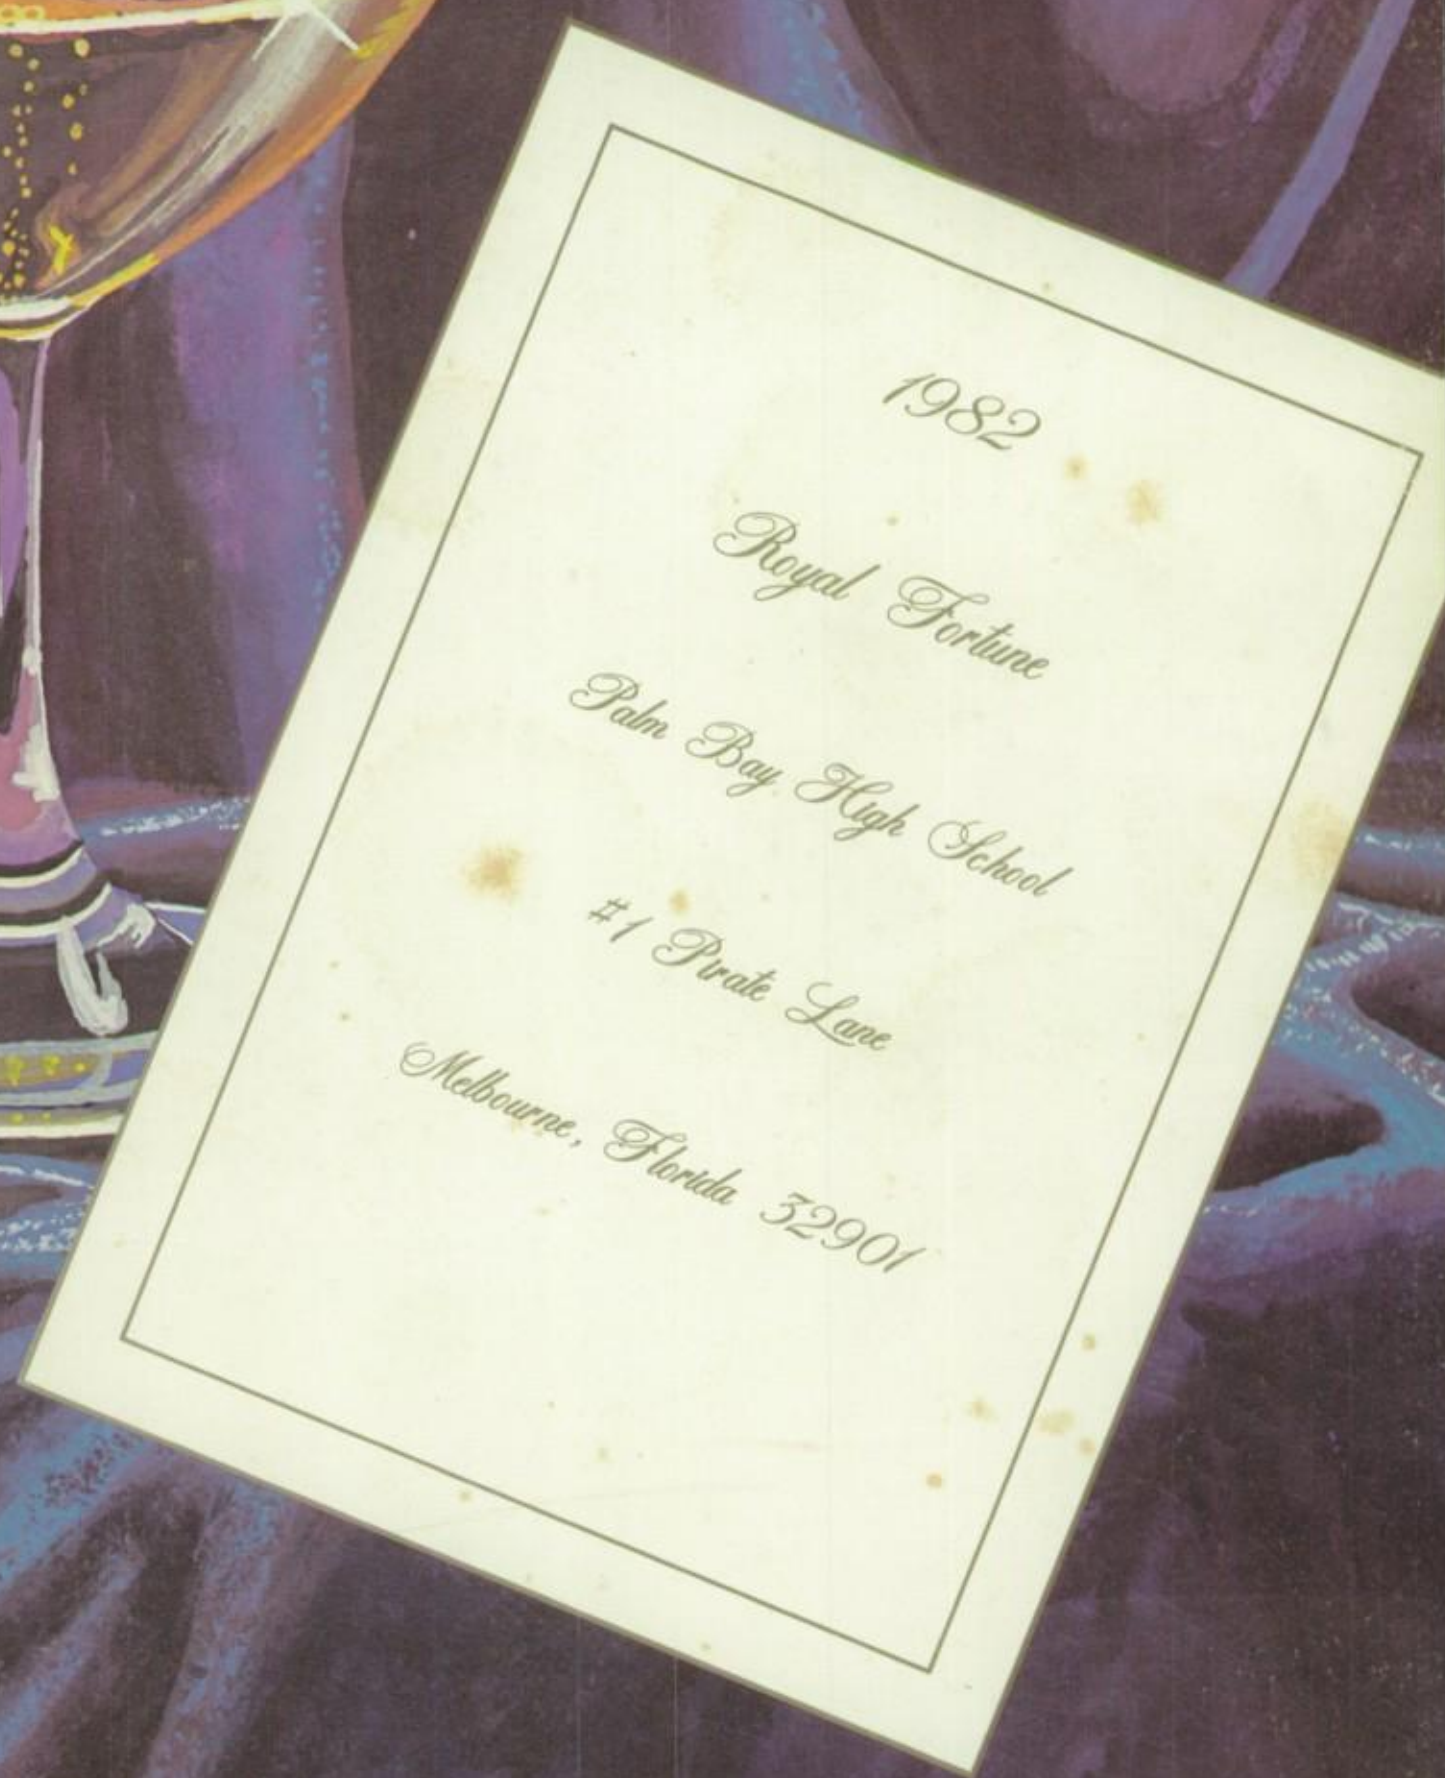

Classy, huh!

Lastly, good luck in your future. Wherever our paths may lead us, whether together or apart, I know that my memories of us two dingies will never fade.

I love ya and God bless.

through the 1981-82
school year. We hope that somewhere within

BON VOYAGE!

Classy people have classy leaders. Janis Fladmark, with her "bubbly" personality, never failed to be a favorite. Although Tim Huffman may not always dress this way, his senior year will always be remembered for days such as this. Football games always seem to bring out the ultimate in Pirate Pride. Melanie Mansfield is one of the many students who made those nights memorable.

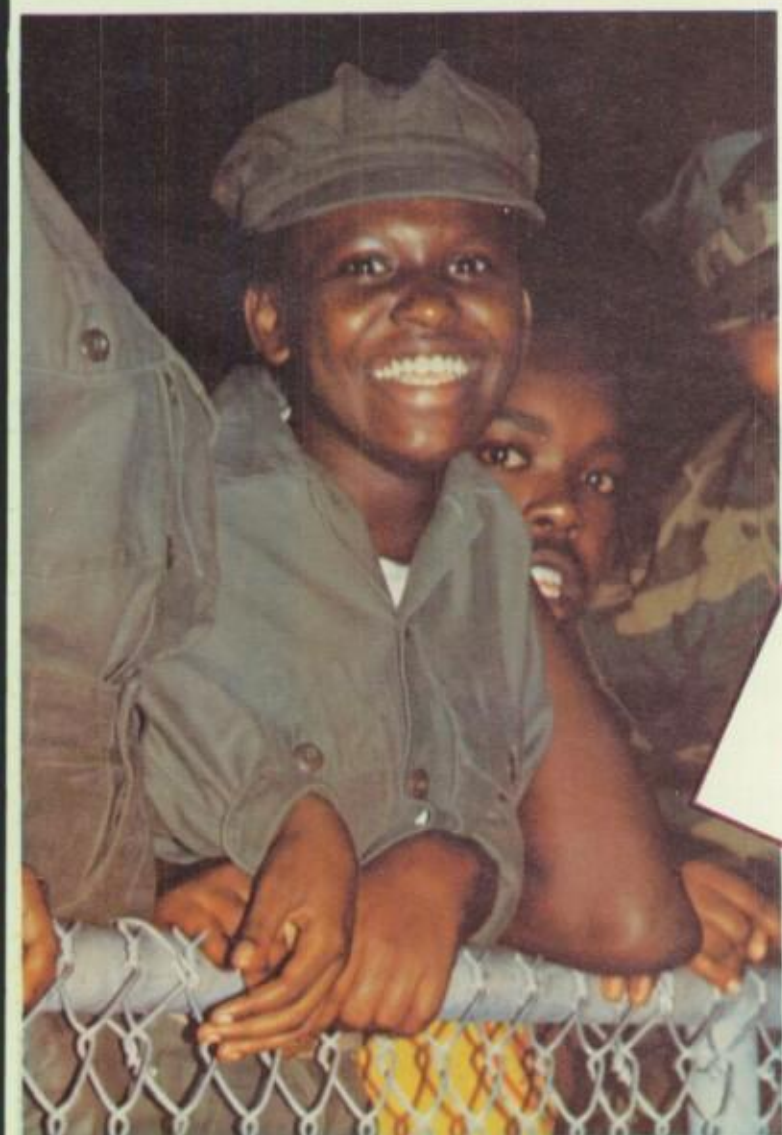

Kris,
 You are a very sweet and cute person. It's too bad we couldn't meet each other under better circumstances (CAKE EIGHT)! I hope next year or over the summer we can do something. We'll remember you are a real cool "punk"

 luck in everything.

Unity at it's finest was demonstrated by all seniors, not only on Punk Rock Day, but all year. Members of most organizations developed a special closeness. Hap Thompson and Gary Anderson waited patiently with the band by the sidelines. To promote participation in the magazine sale, Steve Meyer played "Carla Carwash" in a spirit-boosting skit. Sharing in an explosion is something only few Chemistry students experience. This year's mad scientists of Mr. Pekich's mystery lab were Mike Pokorny and John Struckman. Lunch was one of the few times during the day that Terri Shaw, Donna Hawk and Rudy Tuten could lean back and let their hair down. Seniors punked it up. Michelle Banks, Ginger Barnhill, Jackie Seman, Priscilla Bennett, Martha Kurth, Kelly Coble, Elizabeth Trifibio, Debbie Russell, Denese Williams, Robin Harrison, Jimmy Alderman, Frank Marcyan, Peggy Leigh, and Maria Ramos made Senior Punk Rock Day one for really showing senior pride.

Kind,

Although a sense of unity has been developed, this past year, individuality still had its place. Confidence was shown daily by off-the-wall surprises. It seemed as if no one was afraid to stand out. It takes people to make a school, and all the fun and excitement found there. Our people were exceptional; Cheers to us all!

Sporting one of the most unusual hairstyles of the year, Peggy Leigh was certainly hard to miss. Journalism student, Veronica Jackson, wears her dreams on her chest. The band always provided great spirit and entertainment. They were an important part of all football games. School proved to be a hair raising experience for Marianne Rosaci. Satisfying that after-school urge, Donnie Davidson chugs one down.

Kris,

well, our Sophomore year is 'bout over. I've really enjoyed having Geometry class with you. Mrs. Brandt and her tests always seem to get us. we've got two more high school years to go so lets make the best of them. Hopefully we'll have some classes together next year. Maybe Algebra II! And hopefully Jeff Korte will be in there.

All the girls enjoyed looking at his legs all year long. I hope we'll be able to see each other over the summer. I hope you'll be able to come to youth activities over the summer we've got Life a lot of things planned. well take care and stay as loony & fantastic as you are now. Love ya,

No Ghouls here — Just Girls

There was one Halloween gathering in town that didn't have a wicked witch. The crowning of our fourth homecoming court may have been held on the bewitching date, but the howls heard certainly weren't those of werewolves.

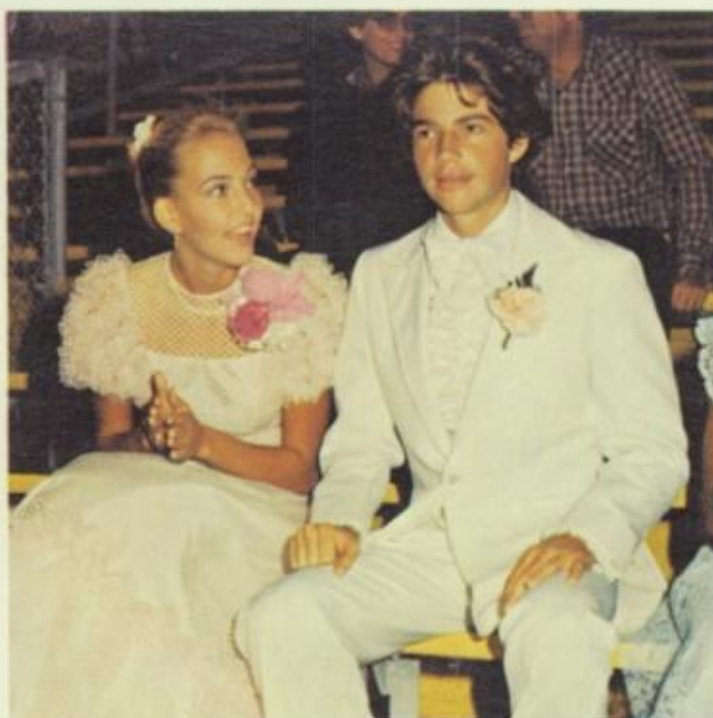

The winner of the honorary position of homecoming queen was Leah Borie. During her four years here, she participated in such organizations as: cheerleading, F.H.A., softball, and served as president of her class. The court consisted of: Carla De Crescenzo, Senior Princess; Stacy Brannan, Junior Princess; Betty Whedbee, Sophomore Princess; and Karen Batten, Freshman Princess.

Returning queen, Dena Hall, congratulates Leah with an affectionate hug. Newly crowned queen, Leah Borie, accepted her bouquet with the glowing smile of a true winner. As Senior Princess of the court, Carla De Crescenzo was a glamorous representative for the Class of '82. Junior Princess, Stacy Brannan, and escort, Ernie Alvarez, both seemed quite pleased as they strolled through the arches to the crowning. As she was chauffeured off the field, Betty Whedbee looked proudly up at the audience who elected her Sophomore Princess.

Being crowned Freshman Princess made Karen Batten's first year at high school an especially memorable one. She and escort, Stanley Sheffield, anxiously awaited the crowning ceremony.

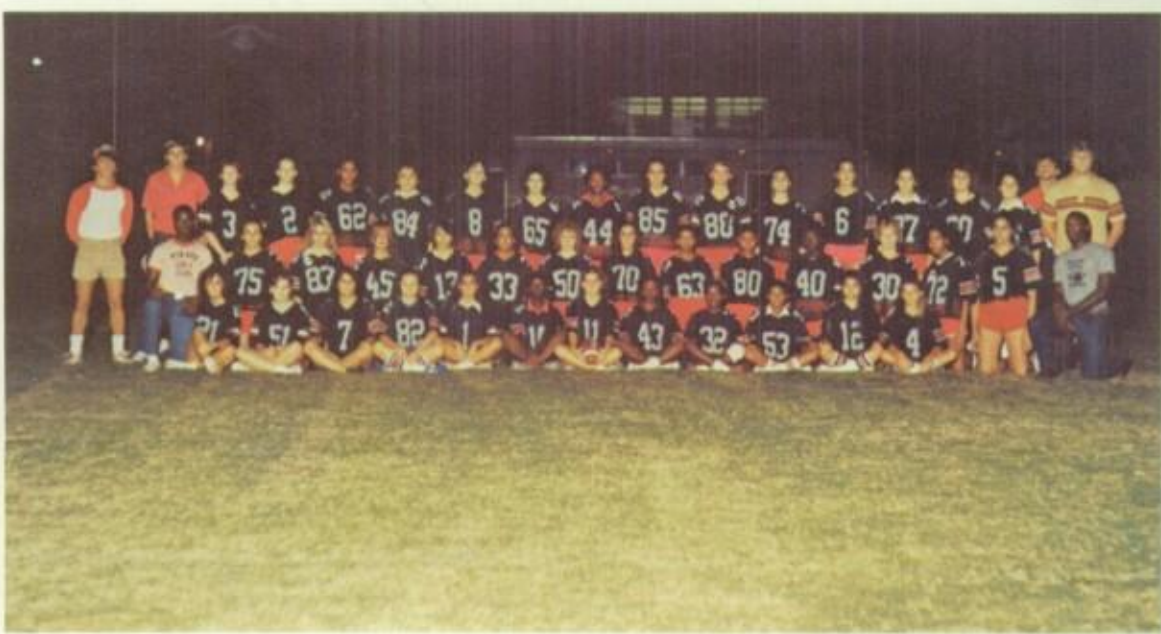

The nominees were as follows:
 Jeannie Jackson, Robin Moore, Kathy
 Howerton, Betty Whedbee, Jackie
 Seman, Carla DeCrescenzo, Leah Borie, Mable Chaparro, Stacy Brannan, Yolanda Smith, Alicia Terry, Karen Batten, and Paula Alderman.

From Leather to Lace (and visa-versa)

A homecoming tradition, the Powder Puff game, was a big event of the week. All students involved spent weeks training and getting enthusiastic for the game. It was a huge success with over 1,000 people involved, including female players, male cheerleaders, coaches, and spectators. It was a close and highly emotional game, ending in a victory for the Juniors. It's not every day that girls get to play football competitively or boys to cheer, so the event was enjoyed by all.

Senior, Elise Vaughn, confidently strides through the Junior defense. Junior Cheerleaders, Andy Vajani, Gary Anderson, Glen Evans, and James Stammer entertained the crowd by leading cheers and doing stunts.

The Senior team consisted of: Back: Tommy Morissette, Mike Tillema, Bonnie Bonsteel, Elise Vaughn, Josephine Peterson, Austintina Spagnuolo, Laura Hamilton, Rhonda Bookstein, Cassandra Terry, Cheryl Symmonette, Julie Palmer, Robin Harrison, Gina Perrone, Jackie Seman, Anne Richter, Kathleen Spychalski, Kent Cooper, Carl Johaneson, Middle: Greg Taylor, Ann Jones, Crystal Hogan, Martha Kurth, Vicky Elhue, Nelsie Rivera, Lynn Westemburger, Connie Walker, Angela Byrd, Suzette Russell, Tammela Warren, Lisa Jackson, Marianne Rosaci, Front: Liz Wilkenson, Laura Culberson, Denise Witte, Sheila Orfield, Carla DeCrescenzo, Suzie McCray, Michelle Pitts, Jackie McMillan, Shon Hardison, Melissa Nelems, Jackie Taira, Karen Homerding.

The Senior team courageously charged onto the field, fully psyched for facing the Juniors. The Senior defense rushed up in hot pursuit, Yolanda Smith gracefully reaches for the pass. Even a tough player like Cassandra Terry didn't quite make it through the Junior defense.

Stepping Out with Spirit

The combination of efforts from students, faculty, clubs, and administration made this year's homecoming parade the best yet. The spirit was high as Pirate fans gathered to show their loyalty. The theme, "Torpedo the Commodores" could be felt in the air all over Palm Bay. The great spirit and support expressed that afternoon helped the Pirates not only "torpedo the Commodores, but sink and destroy them also."

The R.O.T.C. Color Guard added a touch of class as they displayed our national and Marine Corps flags. Rowing their way to victory, the Pirate Anchor Crew showed their brand of Pirate Pride. An unusual, but much enjoyed entry in this year's parade, Jimmy Alderman led the convoy in his four wheel drive. With his trusty saber at his side, Kent Cooper set out to strike fear into the hearts of the Commodores.

As one of the head Pirates on the Senior float, Elise Vaughn and friend added an authentic look. Taking honors as the second place float, the Spanish Club displayed their version of torpedoing the commodores. Manning the Pirates Warship, Michelle Banks and crew proudly took first place in the float competition with the Senior Class float.

Spirits Danced The Night Away

Homecoming week is always the most eventful one of the year. Student government sponsored all the activities many of which brought some unusual results. Along with the crowning of the queen, powder puff, and the parade, there were various dress up days. Sock and hat Day, Halloween costumes, and Red-Black* and Silver Day gave students a chance to test their wardrobe creativity. Ending the week's festivities was the Homecoming dance where students, faculty, and alumni gathered to dance and reminisce.

Swaying in the spot light, are Shantell March and Darryl Coleman.

Looks like a Commodore after meeting up with a Pirate, he won't be tripping the light fantastic tonight.

Displaying his homecoming spirit is Donald Mills in a futuristic way.

Striking the pose that gave him his "Big Man on Campus" fame is Carl Fischer.

Smiling up a storm are Donna Roberts and James Stammer as they dance the night away.

Overlooking Sarah Cleavers drinking habits are Ms. Gordon and Pam Mitchell, good thing it's only Diet Pepsi.

No drought about it — they had a ball

On a rainy November evening, the ROTC Ball marked the twentieth anniversary of the U.S. Marine Corps. The formal banquet was held at the Port Malabar Country Club, and the official ceremony on its back lawn. After the damp reception, everyone moved inside for dancing entertainment.

A traditional night of dinner and dancing, the celebration was enjoyed by all.

Enjoying an upbeat dance, Stoney King and Sonya James really got into the "swing" of things. The wife of 1st Sgt. Byer showed Kenny Karnetsky that she still has it! Finishing the banquet, Jeff Higginbotham prepared for the dance floor. When the pace slowed down, Kendra Clark and Dennis King took to the floor. Prepared for an eventful evening, Greg Taylor arrived eagerly at the ball. A romantic moment for Buddy Bonsteel and Lynn Sinex took place that night. On the crowded dance floor, Alex Beaufort fought the rest of the guests for a place to strut his stuff.

Varsity cheerleader Kim Sepelyak shows her pirate pride as she leads the new pirate renegades to victory. J.V. cheerleaders Yolanda Smith, Denise Nickle, Cheryle Davis, Michele Vitaliano, Debbie Keuthen, Julie Baker, Deborah Shackleford, Jennifer Roberts, and Elisha Terry helped pep up the pirates, in slow motion, at the pep rally preceding the football game against Mel-Hi.

I remember
this pep rally. It was great, wasn't it?
B.

Peppy Pirates on the Rise

Though a young school, the students at Palm Bay High are Pirates through and through, and the pep rallies held at PBHS are not soon forgotten. An amazing amount of spirit and togetherness is displayed at these gatherings. Practically everyone participates, the cheerleaders try to make sure a good time is enjoyed by all. Many innovative students, as well as teachers, perform entertaining skits, all of this by Pirates, for Pirates.

Posing as Mel-Hi supporters, Melissa Nelems and Carolyn Gordan perform at the pep rally before the Mel-Hi, Palm Bay Game.

Advocating a worthy cause, the Palm Bay Pirates, are Butch Gerhard and Margie Coehler.

Showing their good sportsmanship, varsity football players Paul Bouvier, Karl Johannessen, Norman Frazier, Tom Brady, Mike Davis, and Matt Carter carry a deceased bulldog (Kent Cooper) to his funeral; the mourners include Elise Vaughn and Mary Zepp.

Showing her ability as a maid, Kriss VanScoy has an urge to serve tea to Corporal Clive Winton, (Ron Kohel) Applying the finishing touches Mrs. Reynolds prepares the make up for Joe Pibella.
 In the midst of an argument Kent Cooper, Lionel Toop, tries to persuade DiAnn Hundt, Penelope Toop, to see his point of view.
 Looking for a possible solution as to who decorated the pulpit, Kent Cooper, Lionel Toop, and Yvette Lovett, Miss Skillon, attempt to straighten things out.

You did some
 super work this year, Kriss. Let's keep up the fun.

Kris, It was fun doing the show with you even though we only made a profit of about ten bucks, to split between nine people. Why won't you let me write "asshole" across Joe, Tony, and John? See you

Bill

See How They Run

A three act farce by Philip King, was performed on November 19th and 21st. curtain time was 8:00 p.m. Galloping in and out of the four doors of an English Vicarage were an American actor and actress (he was then stationed with the Air Force in England.) a cockney maid who had seen too many American movies, and an old maid who touched whiskey for the first time. Four men in clergy mens suits presented the problem of who was an incognito Communist escapee.

There were certain conflicts with the play, but all ended well. Because of the Friday night football game the play had to be on Thursday and Saturday nights, but both had good turn-outs.

The cast as well as crew worked hard on the show for nine weeks. There were just a few problems facing the show, but as soon as technical week came around everything seemed to fit into place.

The new drama teacher, Sharon Reynolds, was extremely pleased, as were all who saw the show. A special performance was made for those who couldn't attend the regular performances.

The cast was as follows:

Penelope Toop	DiAnn Hundt
Ida	Kris Van Scoy
Miss Skillon	Yvette Lovett
Reverend Lionel Toop	Kent Cooper
Corporal Clive Winton	Ron Kohel
Bishop of Lax	Tony Hudson
The Intruder	John Clements
Reverend Arthur Humphrey	Joe DiBella
Sergeant Towers	Bill Erwin
Stage Manager	Kelly Guffy
Asst. Stage Manager	Martha Owens

Sergeant at arms, Sgt. Towers (Bill Erwin) used military tactics to force Rev. Humphrey (Tony Hudson) to tell him where the mysterious vicar is.

Listening to some constructive criticism from the director Ron Kohel, DiAnn Hundt, and John Clements took a break from their rehearsal.

The Thrill of Victory and the Agony of Defeat

Some students like sports but don't want to commit themselves to a heavy practice schedule. Because of this, intermurals came about. This type of team sport enables friends, clubs, and organizations to bind together and enjoy a bit of friendly rivalry. Annually, football, soccer, basketball, tug-of-war, and volleyball are competitive events that occur. Participation in these games is not forced, the teams are organized by individuals; anyone and everyone can play.

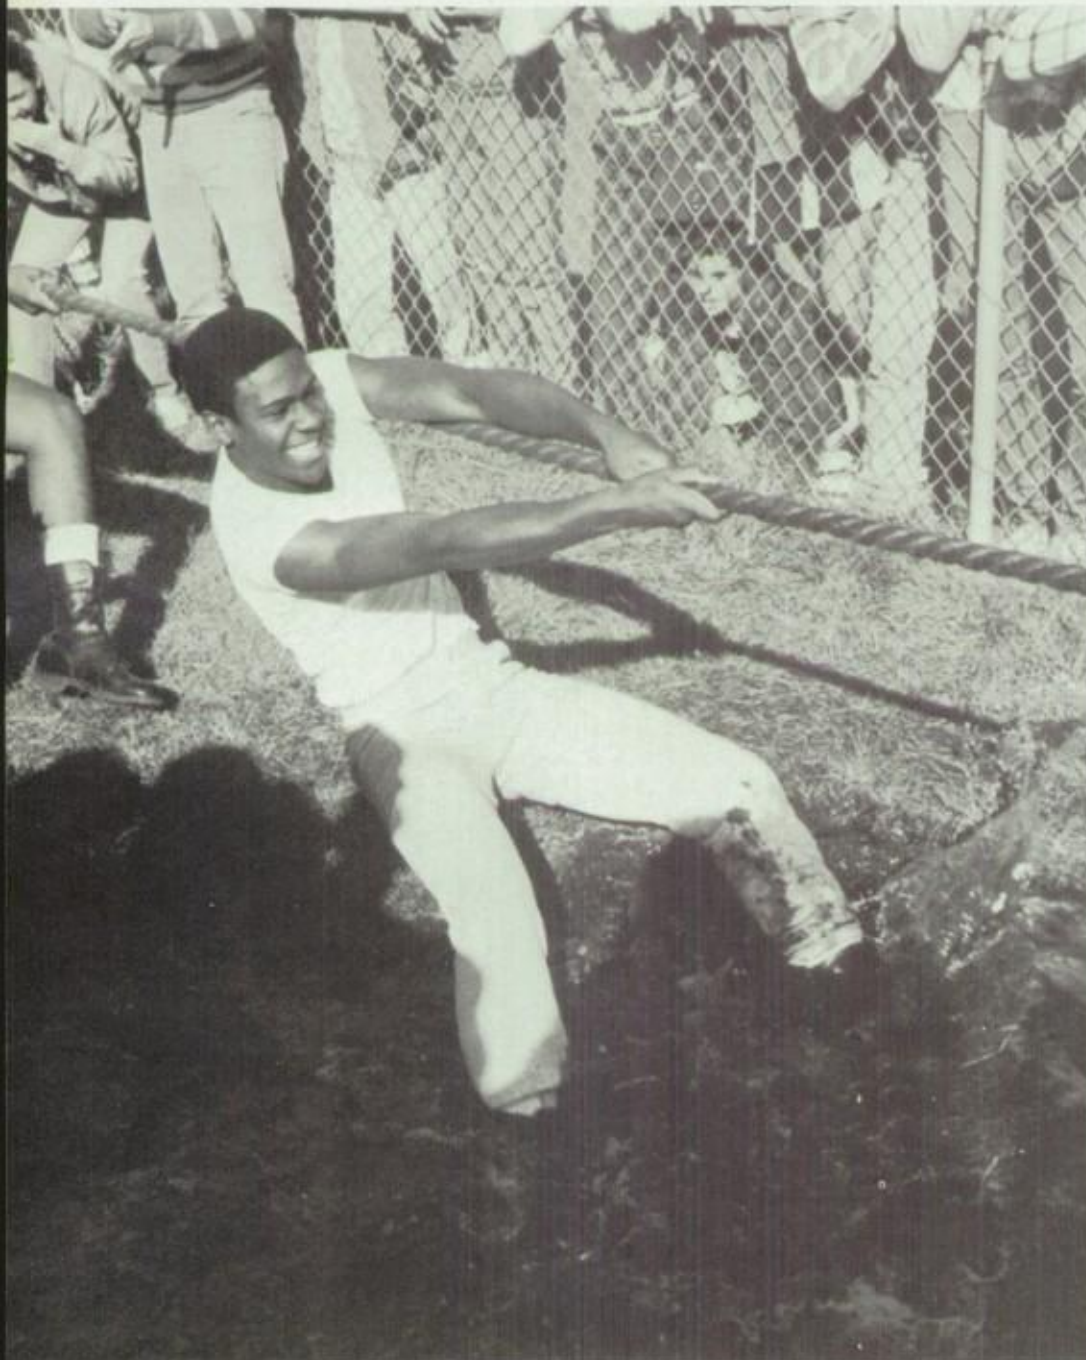

The soccer intermurals were held September 3—October 30. "The Team" emerged victorious over six other teams playing. Phoenix II was defeated by "the Team" in the final game.

The second annual 'Great Palm Bay Tug-Off' was held December 15-17. Sixteen teams, comprised of 148 students grunted and groaned as they each put forth all the effort they had to pull the other team headlong into the mud. The team at the origin of the final winning tug was X-Country. They defeated the Rhinos who was made up of members from the varsity football team.

Those who participated in any intermural enjoyed the fun, sportsmanship and camaraderie that took place at these events. At last, high school sports for fun, not profit.

Girls have muscles too, and here Linda Burnes shows just how many muscles she has as she tugs her way to victory. The agony of defeat struck once again, this time it hit Kelly Miller and McCove Sutton. The force was enough to knock them clear off their feet. Fighting what seemed to be a losing battle, Russ Manion was pulled nearer and nearer to the losing line. It was the splash heard around the world, as senior Paul Tolbert was dragged down in the mud.

They may not have won, but Jeff Hribal and Kim Wagnerowski sure put up a good tugging battle for their team, "the Cheeseheads." The concentration needed for the grueling game of tug-of-war was shown here by Steve Terry as he put forth a winning effort for his team. Here, poised to pull with all his might for the cross country team is junior, Andy Vajanyki.

No Scrooges Here!

One of the most fun filled times during the year is the short few days before Christmas break. The work load is lightened, and there is a mad rush to hand in last minute assignments.

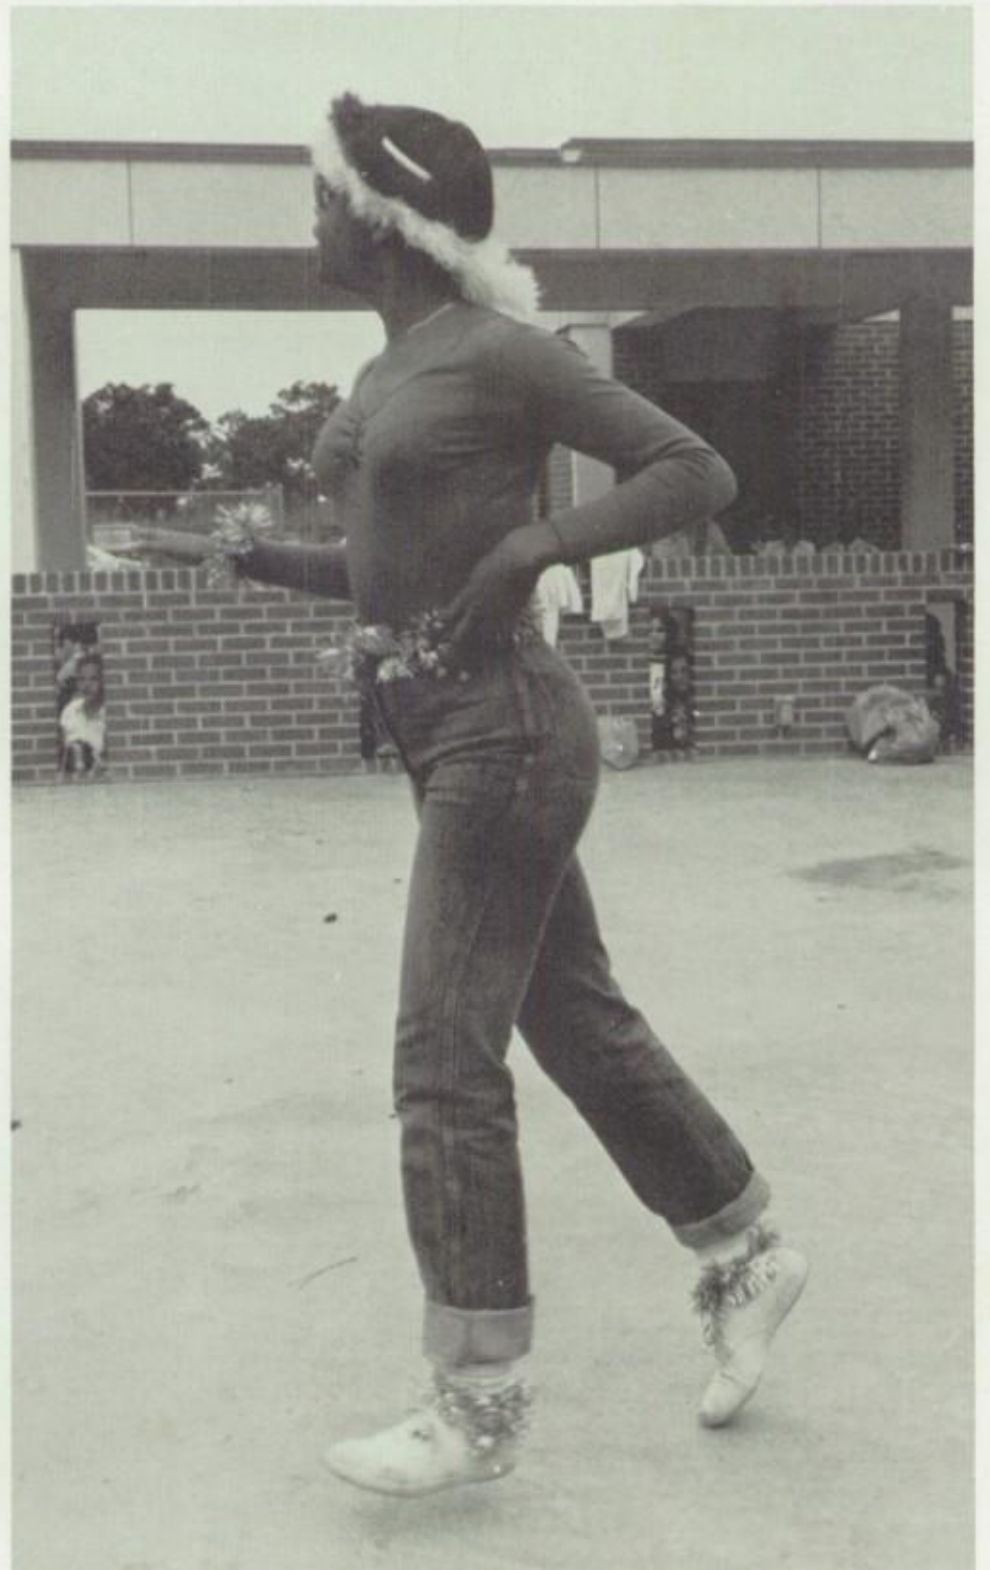

A lot of good deeds are done during this time, one of the biggest is when the faculty and administrators get together and host a Christmas Party for the entire student body. All the hassels of the past are forgotten.

Here Jennifer Swasezy, and Mitch Garner discuss Lynn Westenbargar's new fad, balloons instead of bells. Modern dance students, Valerie Johnson, Jennifer Johnson, Kim Sepelyak, Annette Maraki, Bonnie Lucci, and Vicki Ellul strut their stuff during the Christmas Party, as a going away present for the Holidays. Walking out of the party area, Joe Vitalliano was caught red handed, cokes, candy canes, and all. Ready for the Christmas hunting seasons, Terry Tenpenny, Tim Huffman, and Carry Moorehead show off their army fatigues.

Caught in the turmoil of the Christmas Party is Francie Bianco wondering where to find the goodies. Showing their great dancing skills are Annette Maraki, Cheryl Davis, Bonnie Lucci, Betty Wheedbee, and Marietta Wilson and the rest of the dance class, they also show how much fun and easy it all seems. She might be their teacher but Rhonda Gordan likes to get in on the fun too. Here she performs along with Zina Walker and Deliah Shackelford in the dance routine at the Christmas Party. The first to do her thing is Yolanda Smith and dancing is the one thing she does best!

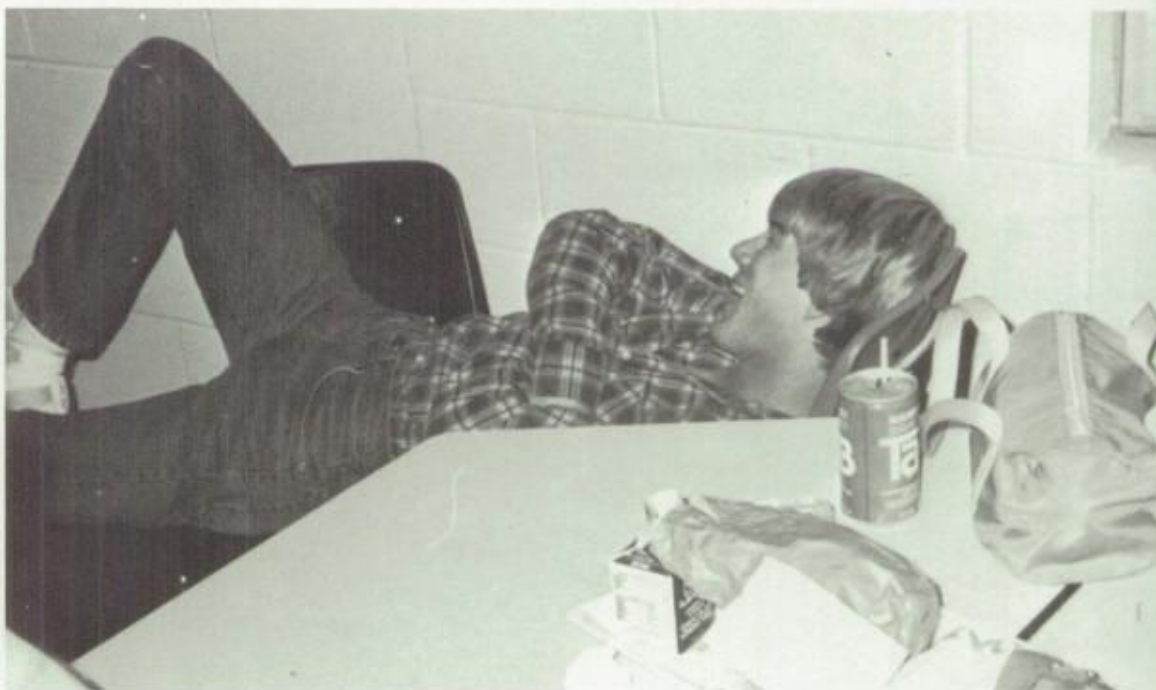

Everyone's Favorite Class

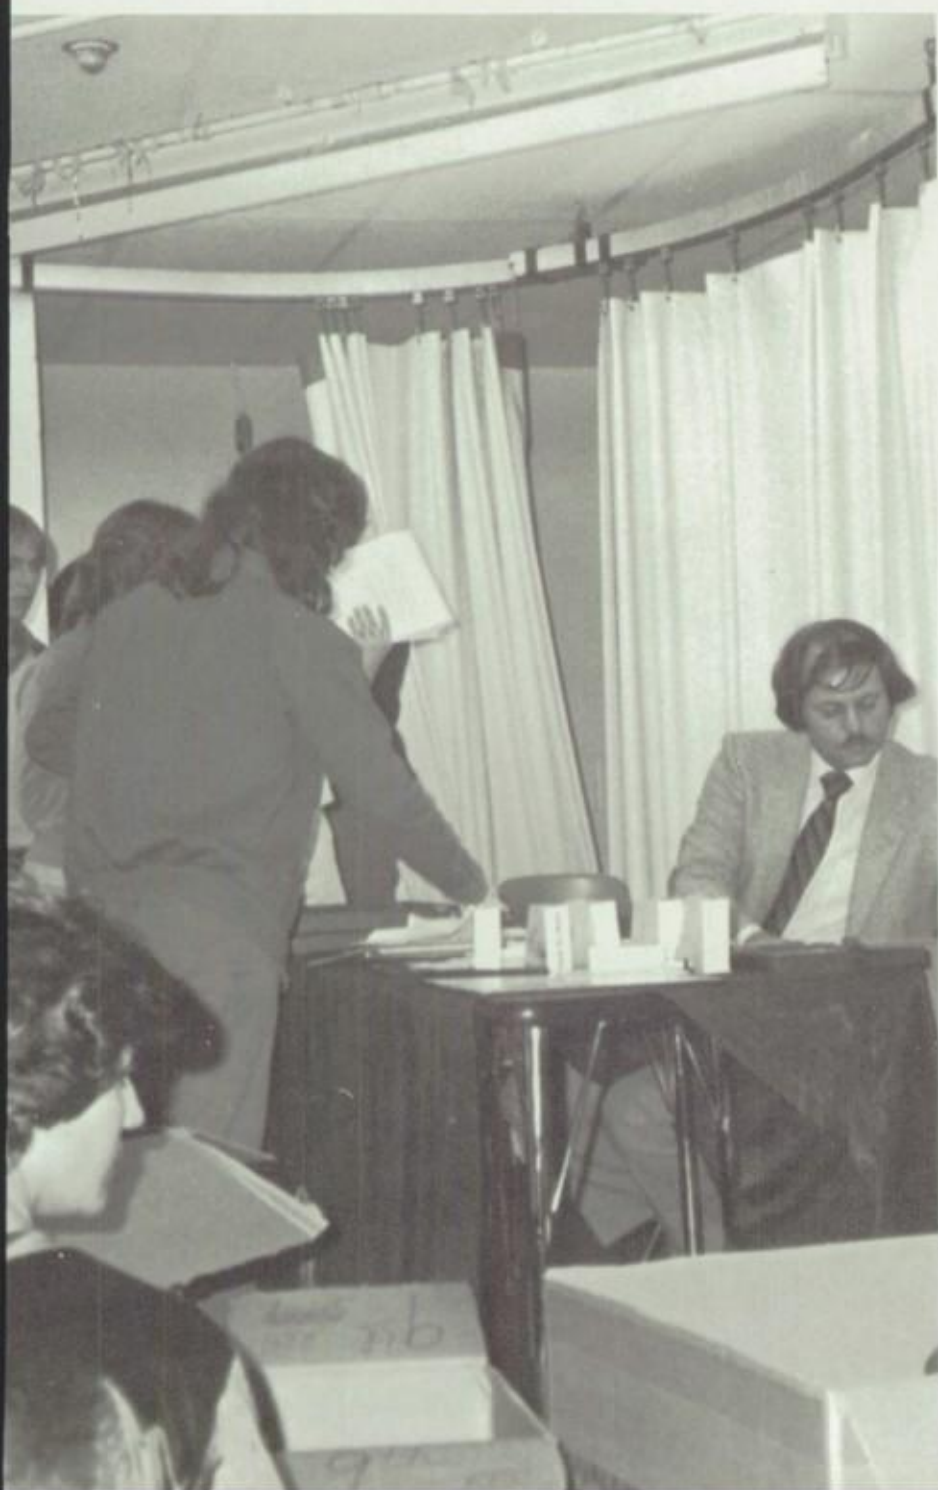

The cafeteria is a place we all know and love, for it is the one area in school where students are able to relax, catch up on the latest gossip, and finally eat after being awake since about 6:00. It deserves some special recognition since it is the one class that all students have.

What a wide variety of activities a passerby would encounter on an average day. People playing cards, sleeping, studying, or even trying to sun bathe in the commons area are all quite normal ways of spending those two "free" lunch mods.

Lunch was a great time to get in on all the girl-talk. Just ask Ginger Barnhill, Grace Jones, and Kim Sepelyak. Stocking up before football practice, Russ Manion, Joe Vitaliano, and Tim Spears, accompanied by Kim Keith, and Angie Gerhard, had a relaxing lunch. After a hard two classes, 5-6 came just in time for Brian Allen to get a re-energizing, mid-morning nap.

A favorite pastime for many, John Clayton, Lorenzo Robertson, Keith Jackson, and Bobby Clayton played a quick game of cards. The cafeteria is an important center for information, also. Class ring sales, game and activity tickets, and the annual Spirit chain competition are just a few of the many ways that the stage is used. In the outside patio, Amy Chenevert grabs a bite to eat.

Tricks Are For Kids

Magic seems to be everyone's bag these days. Especially for Bill Clary, magician, mime illusionist, and singer. Clary gave an in school performance in late January. It wasn't just a magic show, it was a mysterious mime, crazy comedy, total audience participation, amazing illusions, and also incredible magic! This event was sponsored by the Beta Club.

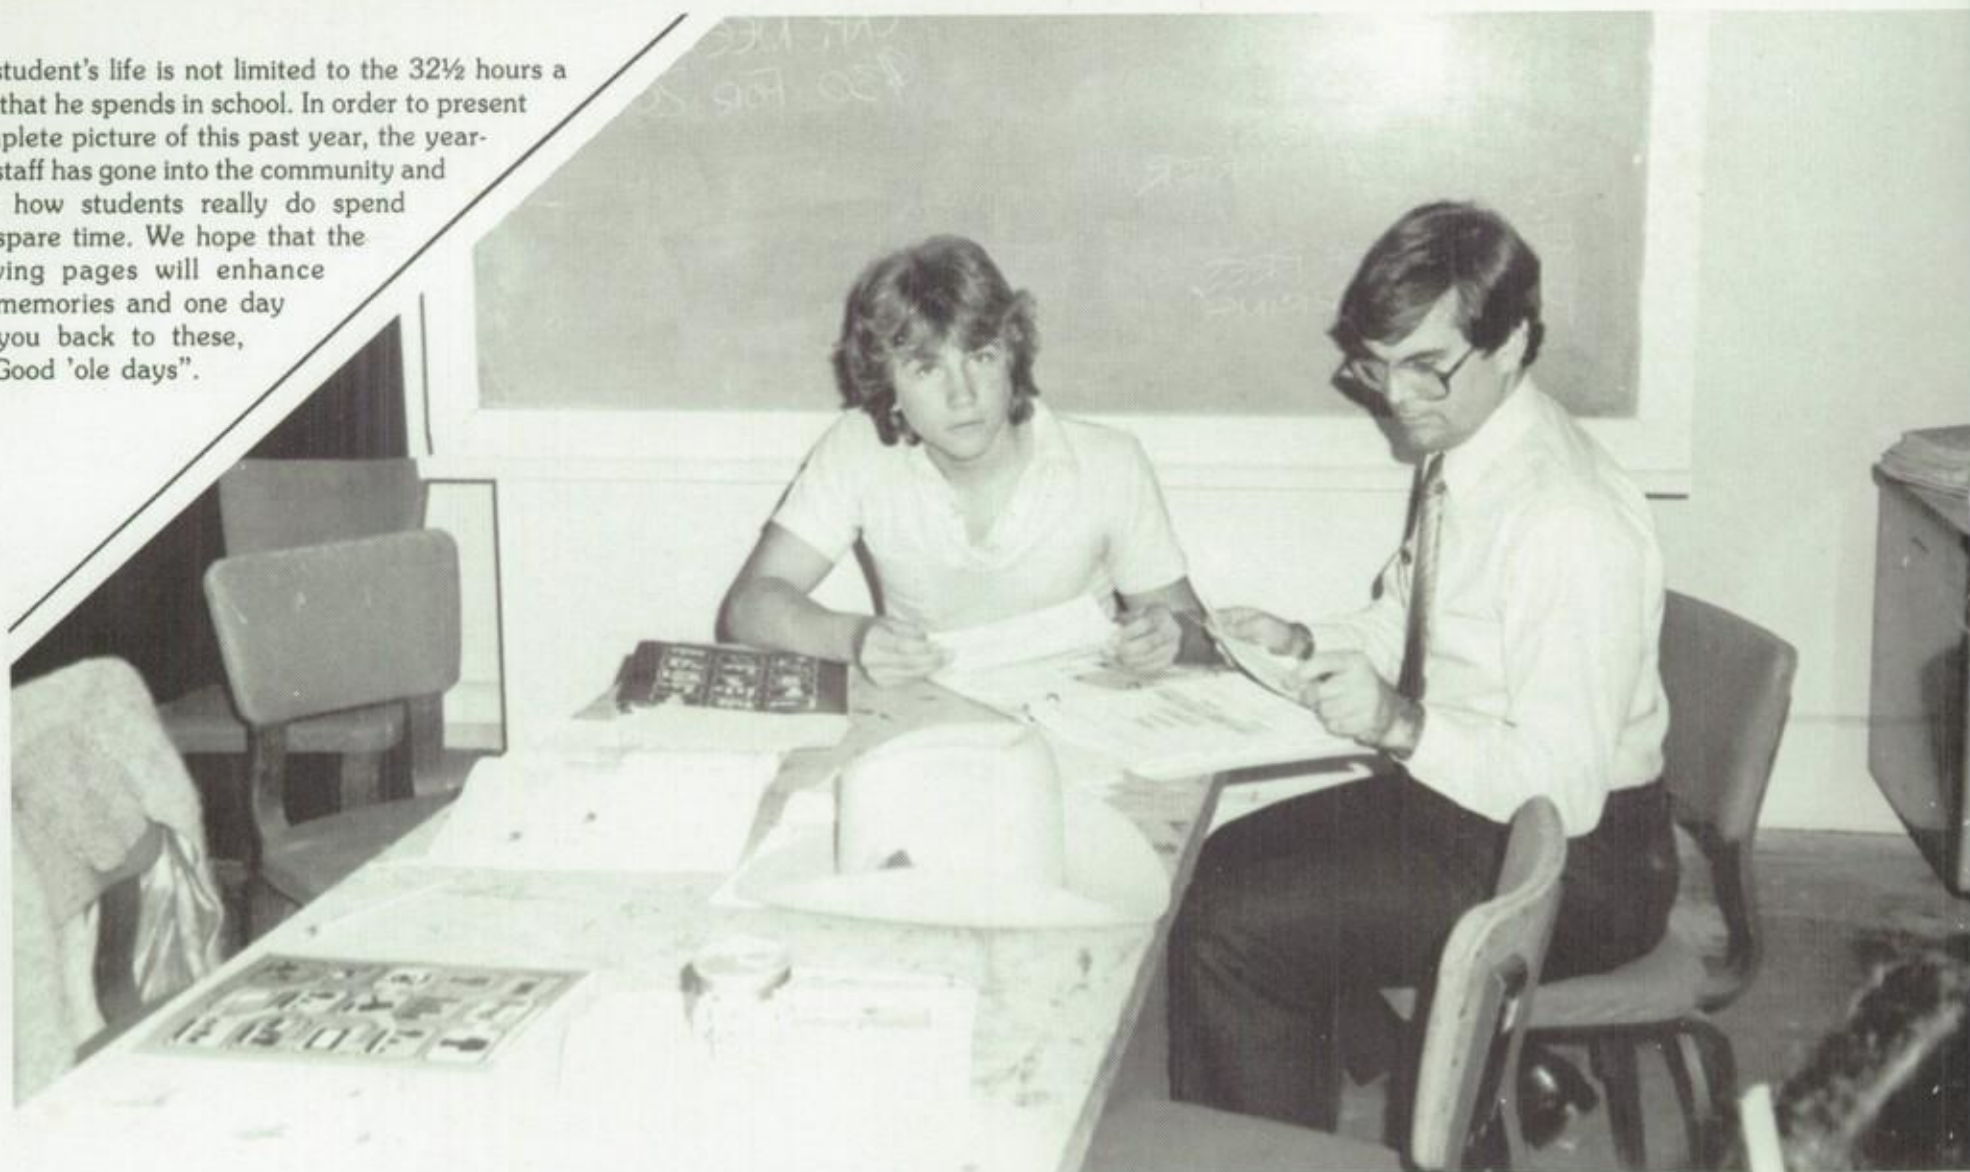

Not only does Bill Clary perform amazing feats of magic, he also does a little picking and strumming. This is not an actual operation, but a demonstration of Clary's outstanding ability as an illusionist. Knowing that she won't be left in stitches, Mrs. Stewart assists Clary to make his illusion successful.

Wonder what Bill Clary has up his sleeve, Diane Levesque assists Clary in an attempt to mystify the audience. Freshman basketball player, Darrin Miller, seems to be surprised as to what magically appeared in his hand.

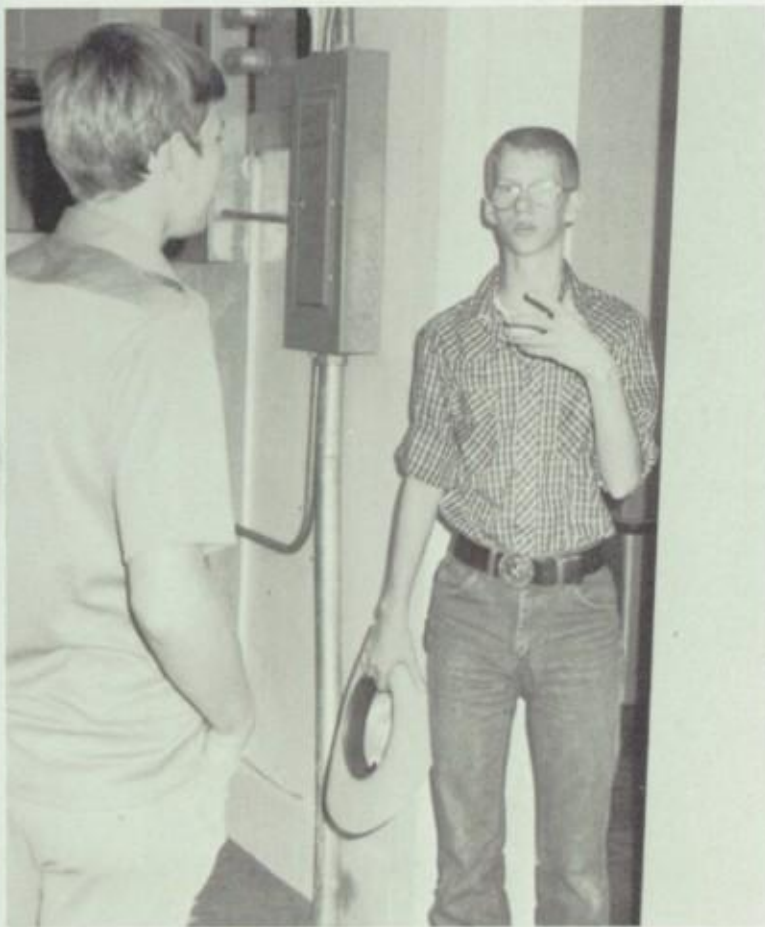

A student's life is not limited to the 32½ hours a week that he spends in school. In order to present a complete picture of this past year, the year-book staff has gone into the community and found how students really do spend their spare time. We hope that the following pages will enhance your memories and one day take you back to these, the "Good 'ole days".

Being the President of a corporation when you're only a Junior takes a lot of hard work. Mark Loetscher, and one of his advisors Dan Stevens, discuss the possible problems JA's Scientific Systems Specialties company could face. Looking over the plans for the upcoming weeks Tamara McCartney prepares herself for the work that lies ahead. Corporate involvement takes a lot out of a girl ... here Karen Rimkus and Isla Ingah take time to freshen up before the meeting continues.

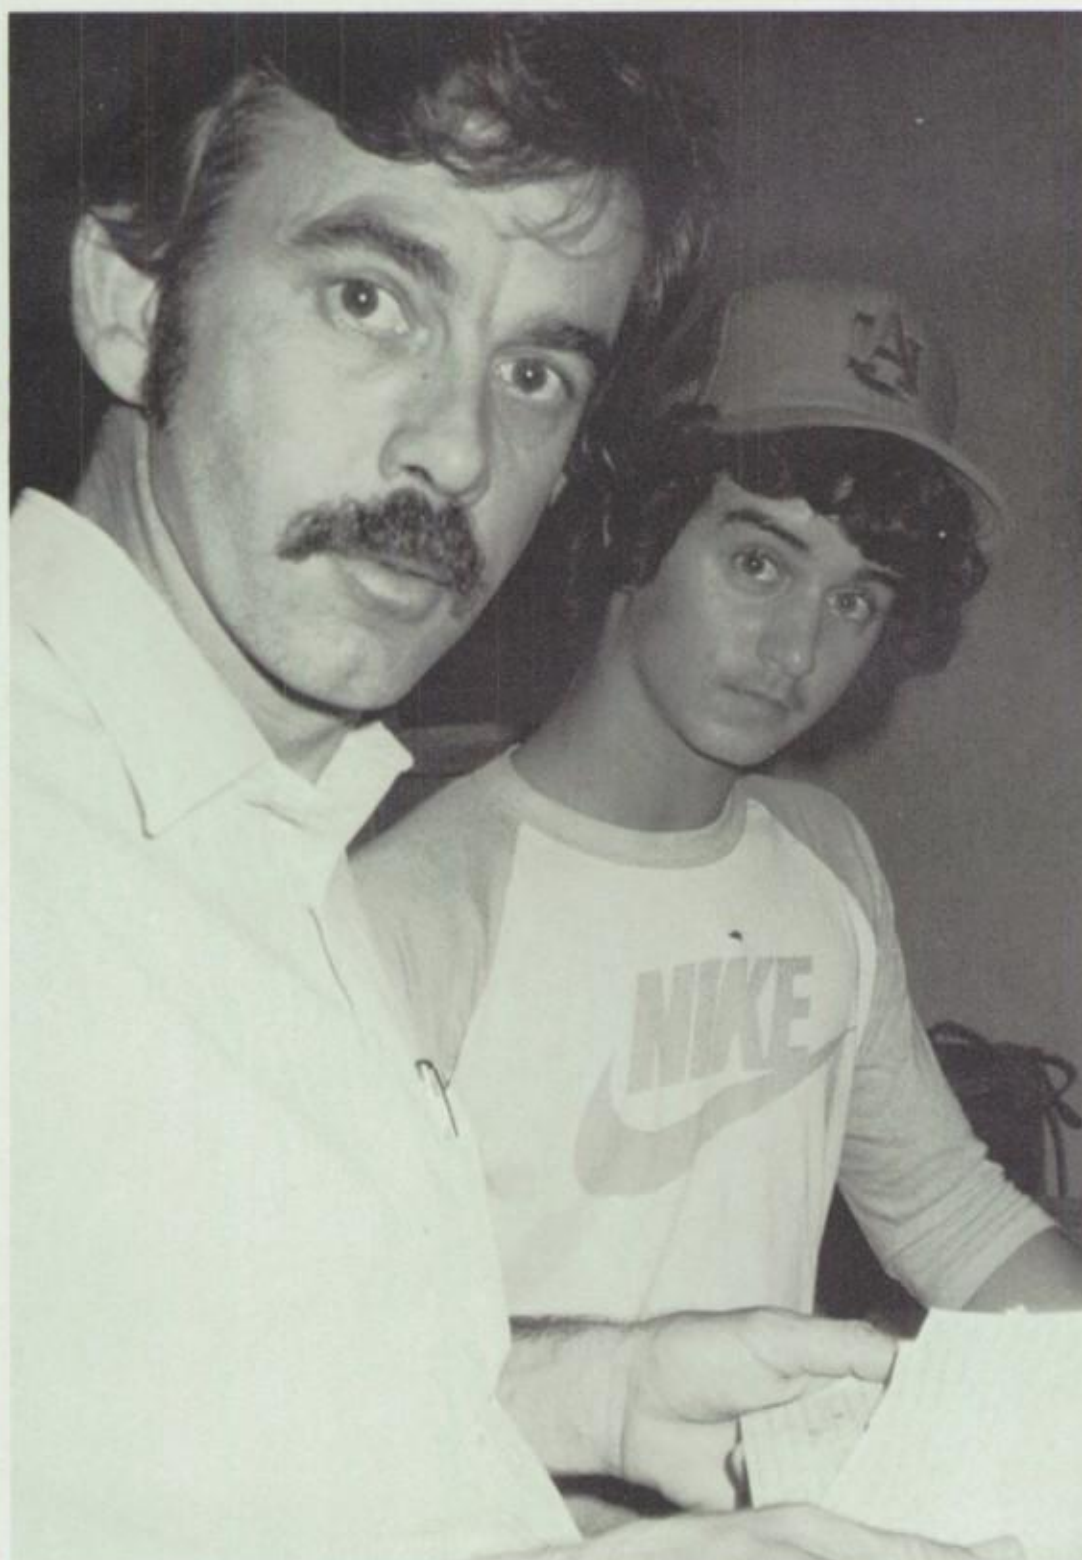

Achieving In The Business World

Junior Achievement is an organization of students from area high schools who are interested in running a business of their own.

J.A. selects businesses from the area to sponsor groups of students so they can form their own companies. Each student group selects the officers of the company and also makes any necessary decisions about the operation of the business.

Along with the responsibility of keeping up a business, each group is responsible for producing a product that is to be sold on the market.

J.A. meets every Wednesday in the Ruth Henegar Building in Melbourne.

Making his final argument before the JA meeting started was freshman Buddy Bonsteel. Trying to separate your company into successful working groups is a hard task. Here, Richard Crain, president of Southern Bell and his advisor Joe Bailey tackle that job. Vice President of finance Rajar Melarm gets some tips on how to deal with "big money" from Rich Hall.

Bringin' Home the Bacon

As soon as a "HELP WANTED" sign appears at a store, high school students flock to its doors in search of part-time employment. Such was the case with Publix, Super-X, The Store, Red Lobster, and good 'ole McDonald's. The extra cash may be the great advantage of being employed, but it takes a lot of dedication to one's job to give up weekend and afternoon spare time.

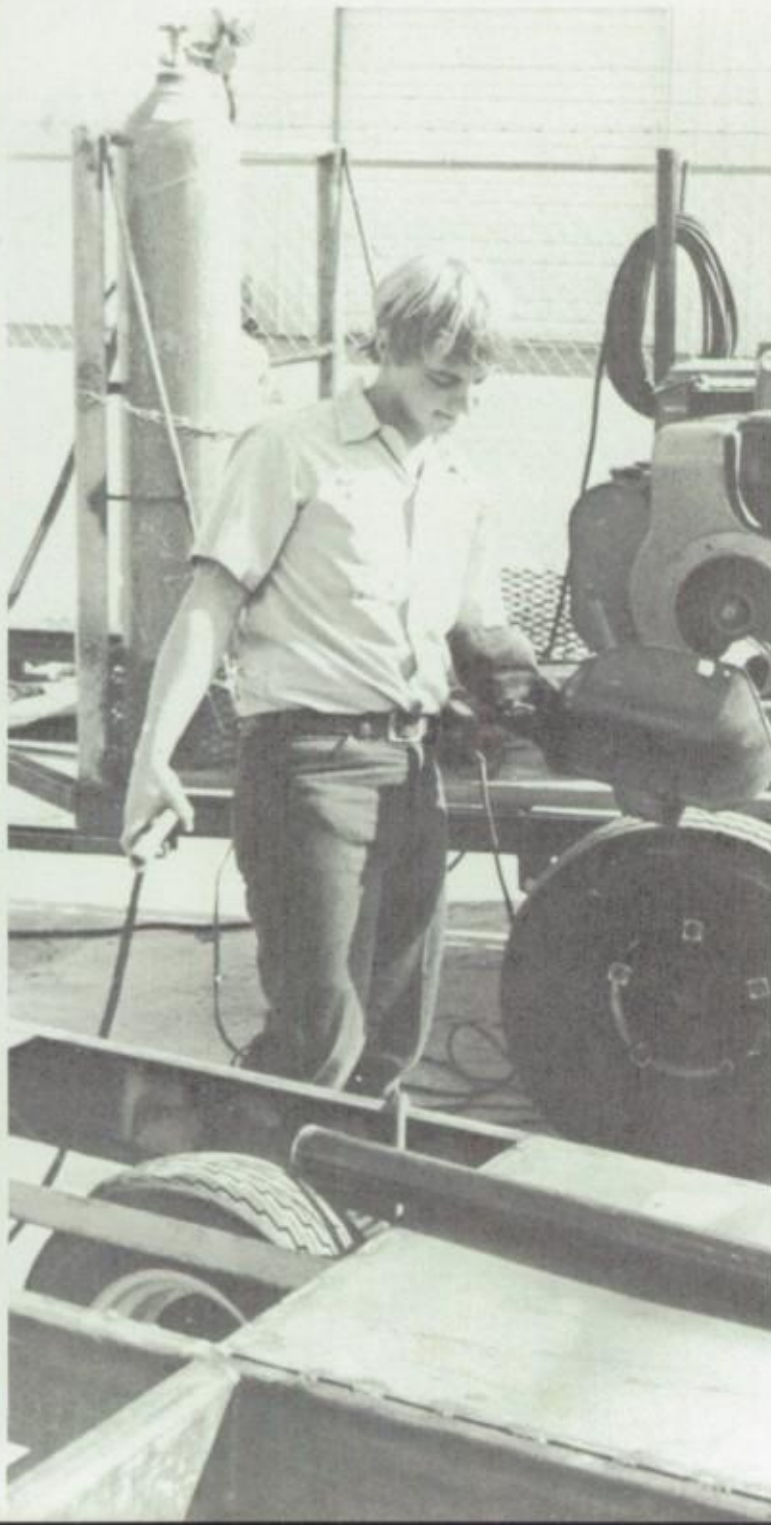

On his return trip from delivering groceries, Joe Vitaliano has a big grin on his face — possibly the reaction to a nice tip. From the Drive-thru window at Wendy's, Sharon Gaines is seen at work on the grill, slingin' some patties.

Orville's chief helper, Danny Figuriedo, stocks shelves at Publix to earn his pay.

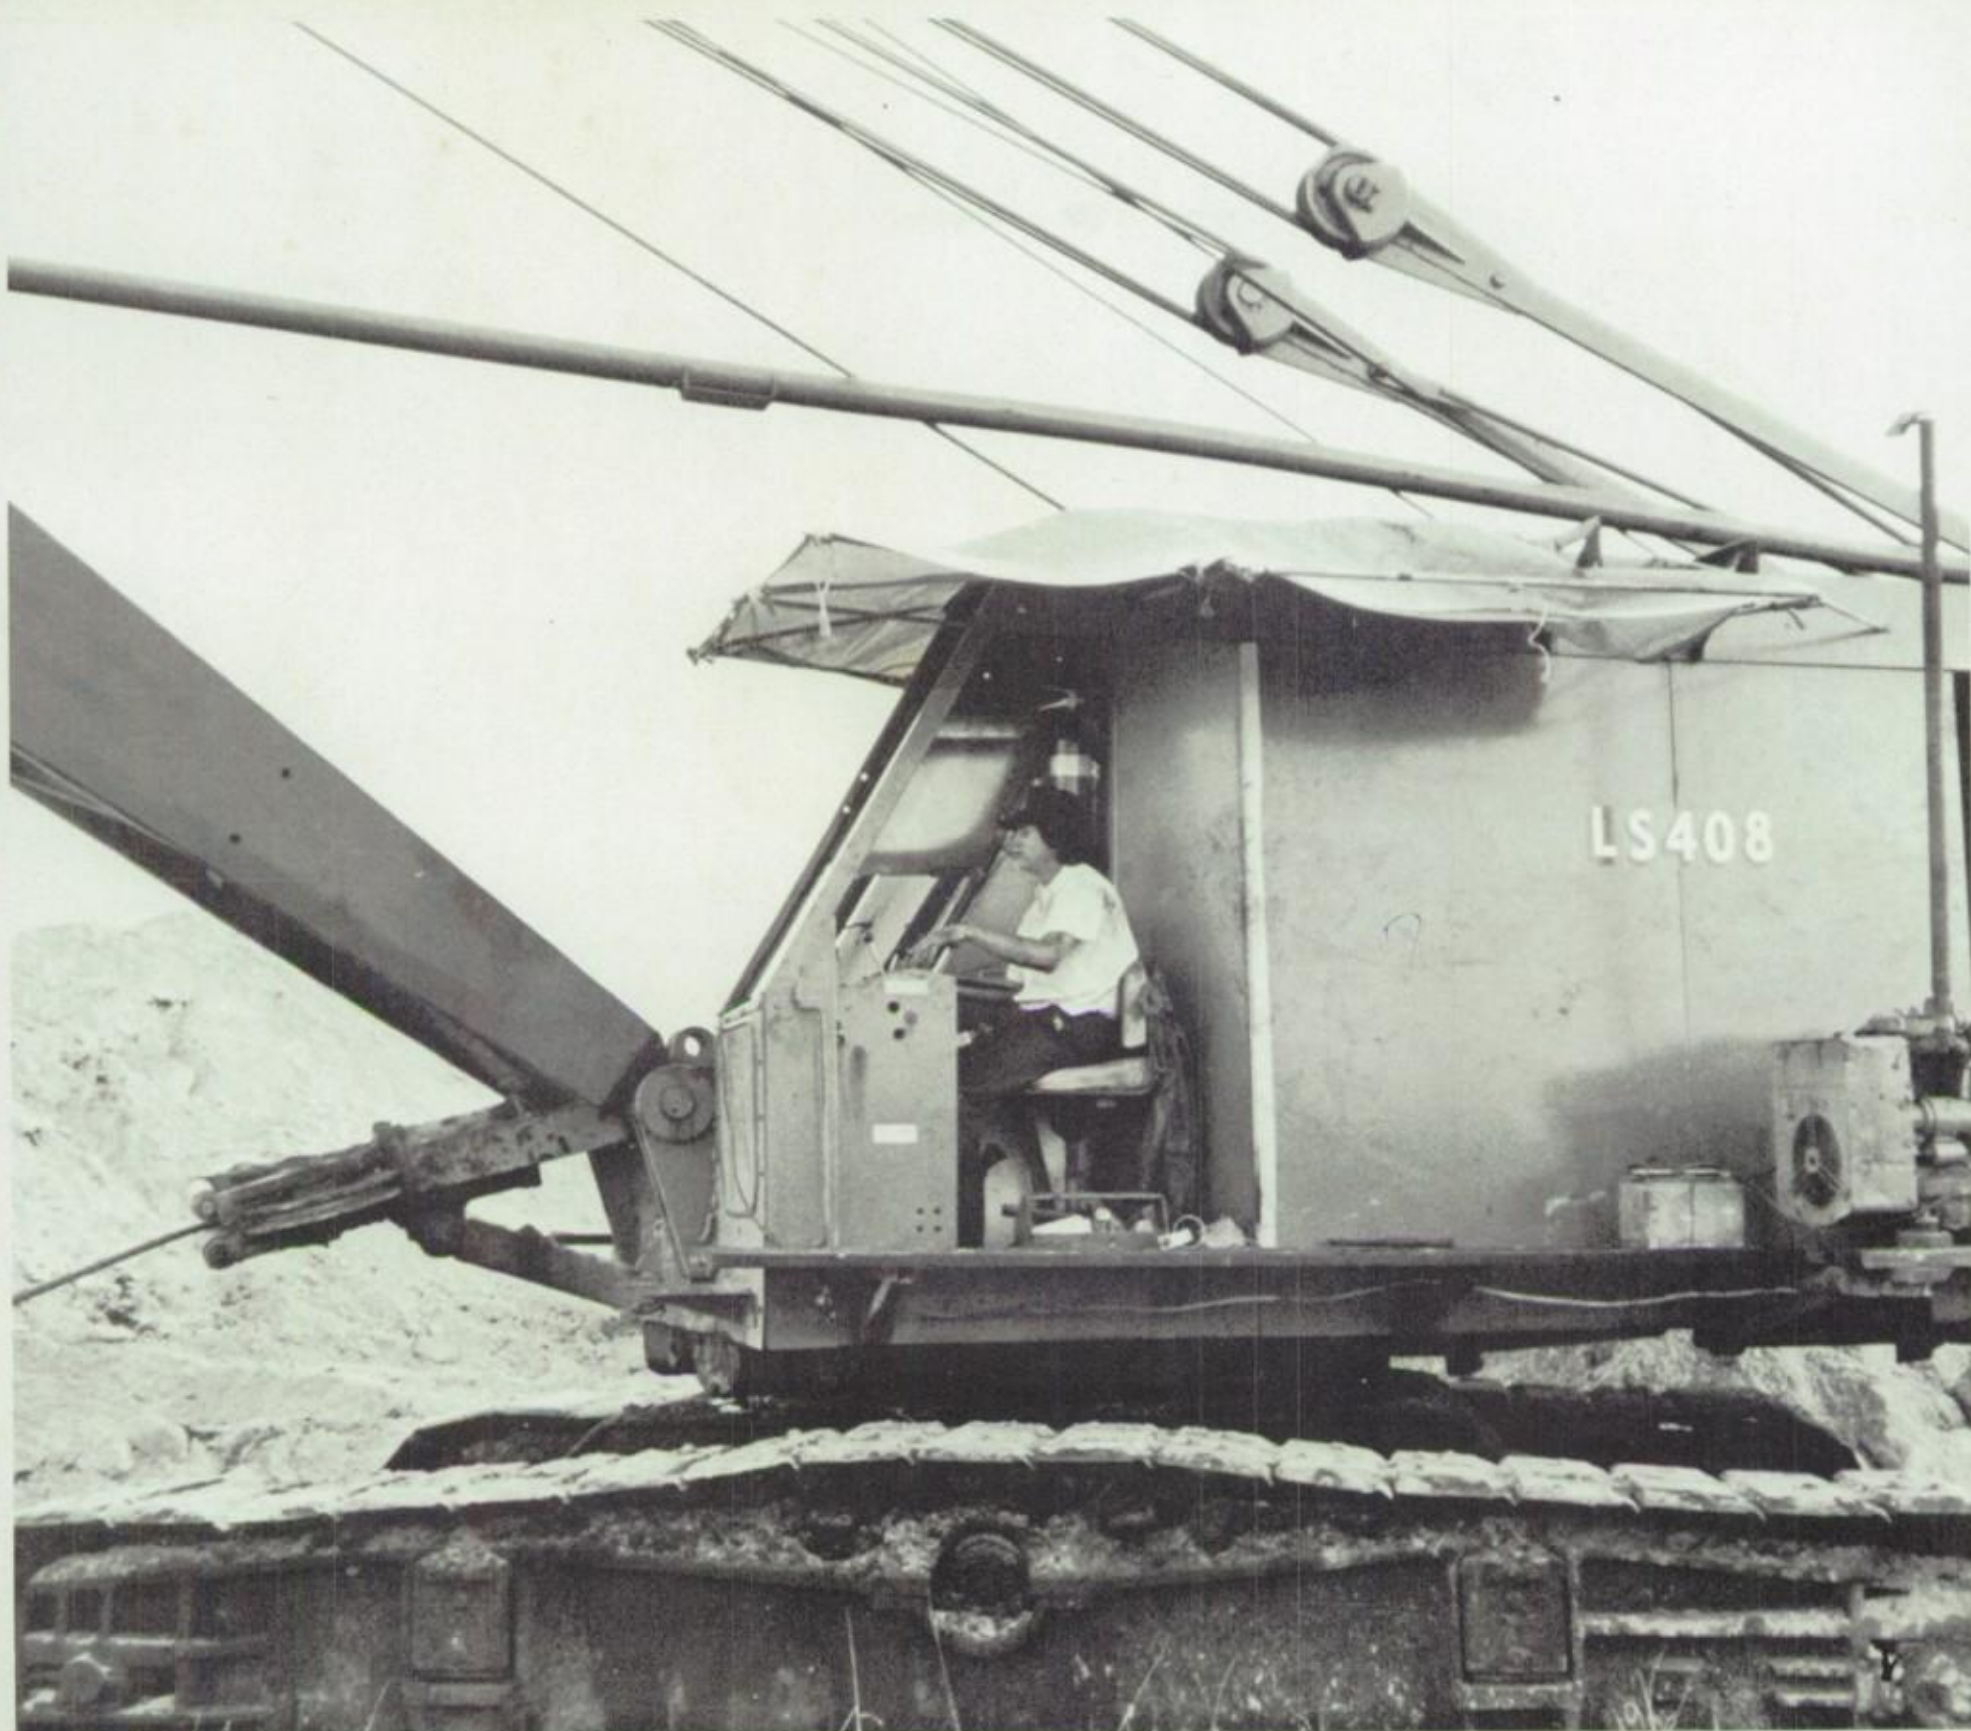

Working for the family business is one way to earn and learn all at once. Kevin Traylor may one day be a professional Traylor trailer welder. Job Entry is a program that allows students to take morning classes and leave for work in the afternoon. Elizabeth Trifibio seems to find her Mickey Mouse ice cream break a lot more interesting than the class she would normally be in.

Kris
 I be this going to with nice working glad you next year.
 hope we are friends and friends have a great year.
 next year. I hope you summer. See ya!
 the Playboy Preacher

Making a Leaning Tower pizza may look like a tough job, but Mark Scott carefully arranges his meatballs with the expertise of a pro. Peeking out from the kitchen of The Store, Ron Carl awaits his next order. Walking into Publix, a Palm Bay student may think for a moment that he is back at school. A great percentage of their part time workers are our students, like Sharon Hills. Another Publix employee, Buddy West, keeps his produce department in order.

Operating a dragline is a job for a real man, and Fred Sanderson certainly possesses this quality. After a hard day's work at The Store, Billy Burton looks like it's time to call it quits.

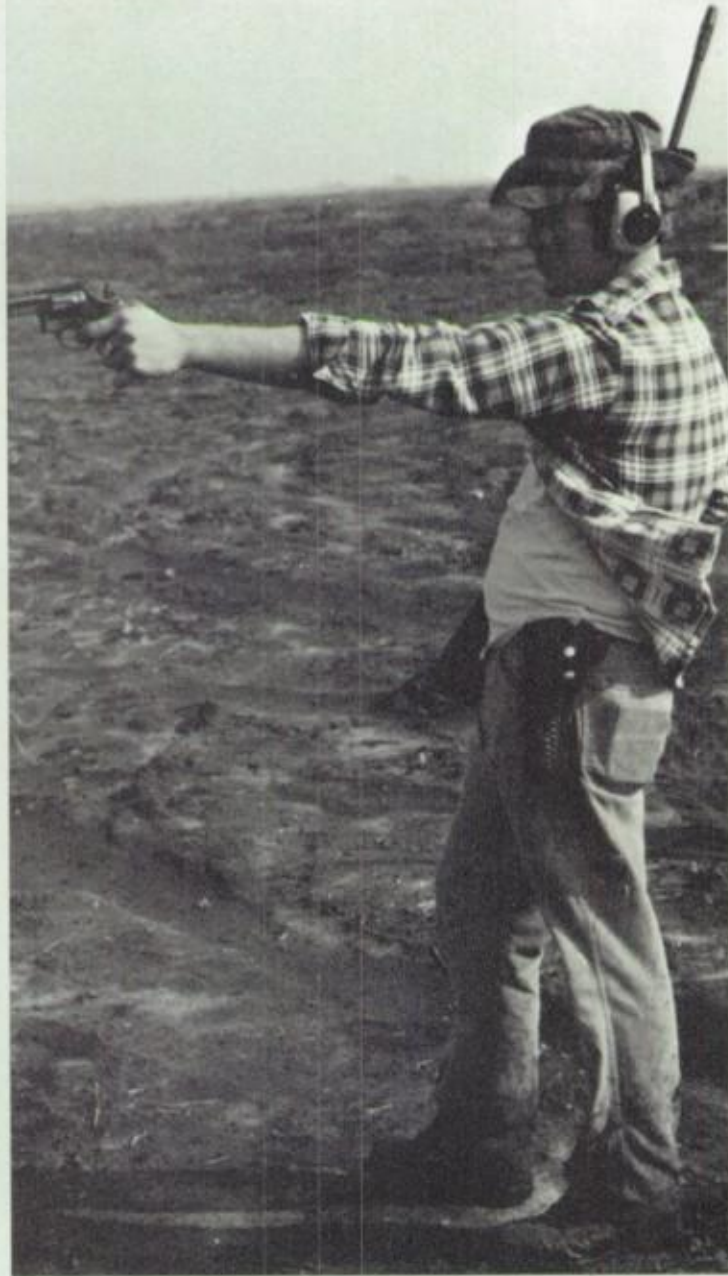

A Behind-the-Scene Look

When the final bell rang every day at 2:00, the students headed for various afternoon and weekend activities. Many went to the beach if the weather was favorable, others worked on hobbies, and a few would (yes, some actually did) go home to study. During hunting season, truck loads of boys decked in camouflage, ventured into the woods. Models, athletes, dancers, horse-back riders, and musicians attended practice sessions and competitions. School was a place for togetherness, but it was after school hours that many memories were made.

Practicing for the weekend hunt, Tim Pasonski, Jimmy Alderman, Tom Brady, Eric Drack, and Craig De Jager shot a few targets after an afternoon of four-wheel drivin'. Many hours of dance practice were in Suzie Snell's afternoon schedule. Port Malabar's Senior Babe Ruth team gave baseball players like Joe Vitaliano a chance to practice and have fun even after the school's season. The Port Malabar ball field was a place where students, parents, and friends gathered in the spring to cheer for their city's team. It was "Ready, Aim, Fire!" as Jimmy Alderman challenged his victim. Members of the Erika Rappa Dance Company, Barry Ford and Suzie Snell, participated in the ballet, The Nutcracker.

Let the Good Times Roll

Parties, dances, dates, camp-outs, barbeques, and concerts were just a few of the big events this year. Everyone pushed to get through the week, but knowing that five days of hard work would be paid off by a weekend with friends made the wait a little less painful.

Word of mouth traveled rapidly in the parking lot on Friday afternoons. Great spur-of-the-moment gatherings made places such as The Drive-in, The Rocks, The Land, Bernie's Bluff, The Tracking Station, and, of course, The Lake, memorable.

Parties just seem to bring out the animal in some guys.

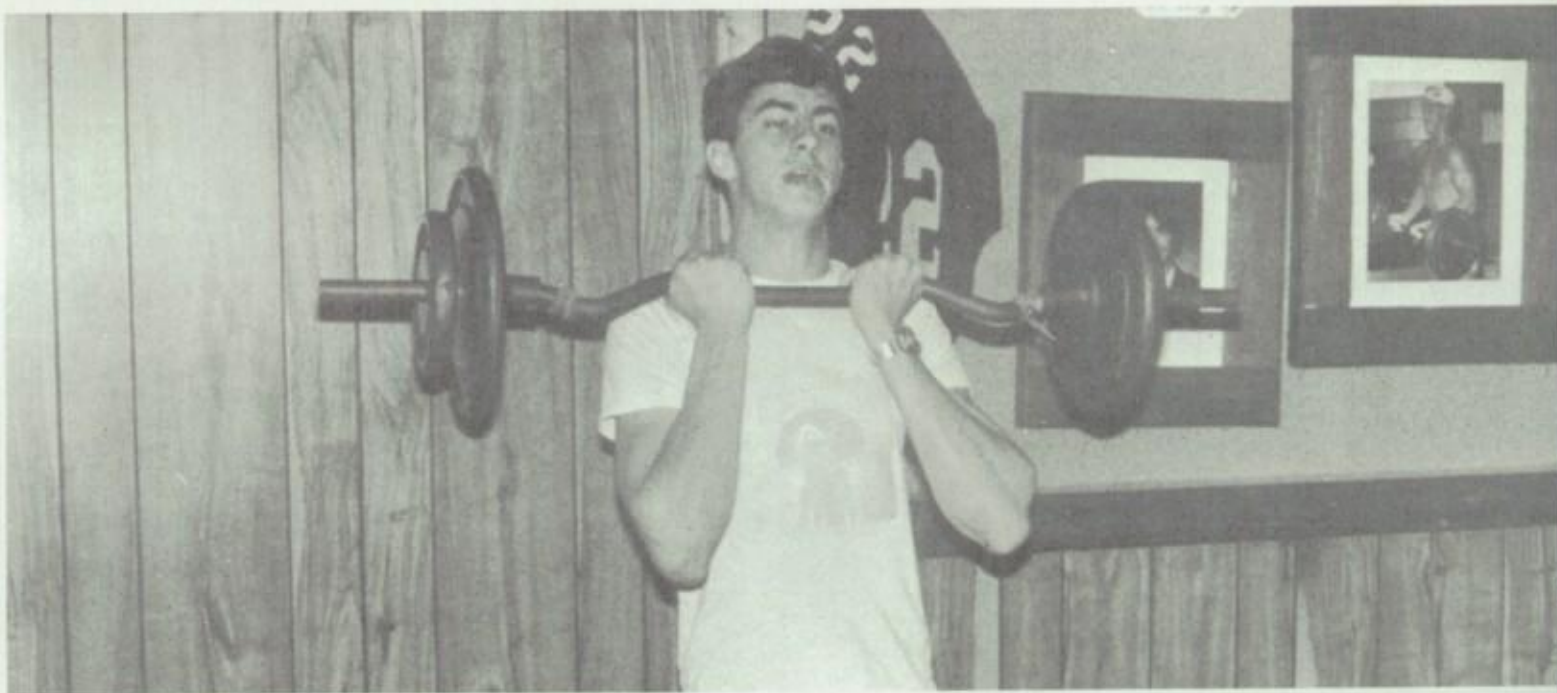

Jimmy Alderman, Tim Pasonski, Brian Fein, Russ Manion and Steve Meyer did some "monkeying around" of their own at Bernie's Bluff. One learns to expect the unexpected. Martha Kurth may have had the experience of boys falling at her feet, but on her head? At Dennis Lemming's toga party, Jodie Cox plays the "Caesar look".

Sock hops always got people rollin'. Ernie Alvarez, a regular at such events, really stood out in the rink. The toga party was "fit for a queen" — queen-size, that is. Clad in their queen size sheets, Priscilla Bennett, Danna Humphrey and Dana Swalla enjoyed the unusual party.

He may not look like it, but Arthur Iocobix is not a person to mess around with. Strong arms are an important part of being a swimmer. Karen Homerding works on building her arms for the upcoming season. Weightlifting takes a lot out of a person. Tom Raulen began to feel the effects of a hard workout.

Determined not to be left behind, many students have joined the physical fitness craze. With incredible dedication they arrive religiously to keep in shape. The place many of these students go is not a gym; it's the weight room at school. Housing an extensive nautilus program, it is a perfect place to pump iron.

When one enters the weight room they are greeted by an overpowering physical atmosphere. One the machines, students as well as adults, can be seen grunting and groaning, hoping to attain that long lost goal of physical fitness.

For some, that goal is lost forever, but weightlifting does help a little. The weight may be on forever, but "pumping iron" can help redistribute it. Lifting weights is hard work and sometimes even torturous, but every plate that is added brings one closer and closer to that final goal. Hopefully, in the end, through all the torture and pain will emerge a happy, hard working, physically fit person.

When you're a freshman on the wrestling team, it takes a lot of hard work to keep up. Here, Joe Vaccarelli keeps his upper body toned and ready. The hip and back machine can be fun as well as strenuous. Kelly Bartholomew flashes a smile as she works out.

HIYAH!!!!

Illustrating his Running Jump Side Kick, Larry Dalton shows how much power the foot alone can "pack" as he successfully broke through the board. Every girl must know how to defend herself in a time of need, here Renee Clary practices for that important moment as she throws an Outside in Crescent to her "attacker" Larry Dalton. To keep from getting knocked off his feet Larry Dalton had to defend himself against Philip Kundrat during free spearing.

The Board that was at the receiving end of Paul Kundrats Running Jump Side Kick ended up broken at Larry Dalton's feet. Here four of Palm Bay's TaeKwonDo students Eric Cline, Renee Clary, Larry Dalton and Philip Kundrat execute a double knifehand block. She may be little but Renee Clary had enough power to break this board in half using a Twist Kick.

One of the more interesting extracurricular activities that some of Palm Bay's students participate in is TaeKwonDo. These students study the Korean martial art at The Melbourne TaeKwonDo & Nautilus Fitness Center.

The students pictured here are: Larry Dalton 1st Degree Black Belt, instructor trainee; Renee Clary, 1st Degree Black Belt, instructor trainee; Philip Kundrat 1st Degree

Black Belt, and Eric Cline, now a green belt. The belt rankings in TaeKwonDo progress from white, to yellow, to green, to blue, to red, and finally to Black. There are nine degrees of Black Belt.

These students put in between two to six class hours a week. They often attend local, regional, and national tournaments.

Ridin' the Horizon

Dropping in on a good clean face, cutting it up, pounding off the lip and then a clean cut back, all of these terms make up the language of the art of surfing.

Generally speaking, surfing is a one man sport. It's the surfer and the waves. Most people enjoy the art of surfing for these basic reasons. There are other things about it, like the freedom of riding a smooth clean wave or the aggressiveness that a person feels when they pound a fast moving shore break tube.

Surfing has a lot of fringe benefits — the warm water, the sun, the surf, the sand, and the scenery. Surfing is a Natural Art.

The water may have been too cold for Martha Kurth's blood, but a dedicated surfer can always be found on the board walk "checking out the waves." The weekend of a typical surfer — sunrise to sunset, riding the waves. It looks like Tim York caught a good wave, good enough to take him into shore, as a matter of fact. Breaking through the tube, Scott Altenhof heads toward the shore.

Proving that he can hang "10", Scott Altenhof rode the waves. Leaning into the waves is an in born skill for Tim York. One of the Boardwalk's more permanent fixtures, Tim York heads toward shore and a nice cool drink. With his best friend (his board) at his side, there's no way that Jim Valley can lose.

Beach Bummin' Days

Drying-out under the sun, Steve Zemkosky and Tim Huffman soak up the rays. At one of her favorite summer hang-outs, Lori Johnson waits to meet friends on the Boardwalk. It is difficult to find Billy Burton and Todd Taylor at home during the summer, they're usually out strolling along 5th Ave.

Living on the east coast, the beach has become a meaningful place to us all. How many weekends have we spent sprawled under the sun on sandy blankets, surfing from sunrise to sunset, or playing football or frisbee up and down the shore? Fifth Avenue, Indialantic has been a summer-home away from home for many of us. It has served as a place for solitude; for peaceful, calm meditation or as a group gathering place with bonfires at Barnie's Bluff or rows of sunbathers at the Boardwalk. Some days it seemed as if half of the school was lined up, blanket to blanket, straight down the coast. We may go our separate ways, but the sight of an ocean shore will always take us back to 5th Ave. and our days here at Palm Bay.

Through School With Honors

The most highly respected club of merit is the National Honor Society. Our branch of this group has been active in school and in the community. These scholarly students have been leaders in school. A commendable group of people doing a commendable job.

The Honor Society proudly displays their spirit car around the football field during half time at this year's Homecoming game against Eau Gallie High. The whole school awakes to the cheerful voice of Crystal Hogan on the morning announcements. The thought of going hungry during the holidays doesn't leave anyone with a happy heart. This year's Honor Society proudly displays the results of the Annual Canned Food drive. A Leadership Odyssey

Student Council is a group of hard-working Palm Bay High students dedicated to improving their school and the lives of their fellow students. Like most Student Councils, they combine service and leadership in their projects. However, unlike other councils they have some very unique projects.

One of these, a summer school snackbar, provides a very needed service and also exemplifies the dedication council members have. These students came in during their vacation to make life more comfortable for those in summer school.

Examples of other council projects are Homecoming Week, and the Christmas Candy gram sale.

The proceeds from these projects go for various school improvements, like financial aid for the Pirate soccer team.

The hierarchy of Student Council prove that they too can have a good time. One of the Student Council advisors, Mr. Kennedy, treats the student body to a glimpse of his "Pretty Legs" in the pretty legs contest. During dress-up day, the wheelin' and dealin' Arab Oil Sheiks make their appearance in the form of Peter Fuenfhausen and Senior Council President Barry Ford. A one time Hawaii resident, Mrs. Kennedy shows she can dress in the "Island Style". The crowning of B.M.O.C. seems to be a "tall job" for Robin Moore, as she crowns Carl Fisher. At the Homecoming Dance, WMMB D.J. Bryan R. Nelson, Donna Roberts, and James Stammer mimic John Travolta in "Saturday Night Fever".

Caring And Sharing

Caring and sharing . . . that's what Junior Civitan is all about. This extremely active club participated in a combined civic action in cooperation with the City of Palm Bay is preserving Turkey Creek as a natural knoll. Included in their many activities are group campaigns for funds for the Association of Retarded Citizens, the Special Olympics, the Salvation Army and other worthy organizations. Members also donate their valuable time to help serve food at banquets, luncheons, and by providing holiday entertainment for many of the community's elderly. Yes, Junior Civitans are a club of caring and sharing.

This line-up of Civitans are the best: Karl Johannessen, Sergeant-at-Arms; Douglas Shresbury, Sponsor; Barbi Rogers, Secretary; Michelle Vitaliano, Chaplain; Robin Harrison, Treasurer; Sharon Hills, Vice President and Kim Keith, President. If there ever was a highlight of the school year, it has to be the week preceeding the football game with our arch rival, Melbourne High. To raise money and boost student involvement, Junior Civitan hosted a spirit chain contest with the four classes, selling a different color of chain links to each. Working diligently on the senior portion of the chain are April Vaughn and Robin Harrison. Members of Junior Civitan include: Martha Owens, Kelly

Nemeskal, Laura Hamilton, Karl Johannessen, Robin Stark, Anne Barenbruegge, Petrina Kilborn, Kent Cooper, Angie Piceriello, Lori Goodwin, Liz Brown, Robin Harrison, Doug Shresbury, Amy Whalen, Frances Broom, Wendy Patterson, Suzette Russell, Julie Baker, Denise Nichols, Michelle Vitaliano, Karen Knecht, Sharon Hills, Sherri Markham, Heidi Bromm, Robin Moore, Kim Sepelyak, Barbi Rogers, Kim Keith.

The Future Is In The Hands That Cure

There are many fields open in the medical profession. The members of HOSA investigate the possibilities of a career in medicine. The students also attend many seminars and practice many medical techniques. Through dedicated work these students will become the doctors, nurses and medical technicians of the future.

Learning The Language Of Latin Lands

High spirited members make the Spanish Club an important part of our school. This they illustrated by receiving second place for their float in the Homecoming Parade. Other activities include the Cucaracha Bowl against Eau Gallie's, Spanish Club and their trip to dine on exclusive spanish foods at Tampa's Columbia Restaurant. The many fund raising events used to raise the money for these exciting trips increased the fun and made it a greater experience for all involved. These events help to impress ideas of Spanish culture which make the club special to all its members.

Spanish Club president Curt Fels conducts an important meeting discussing plans for future fundraising activities. Taking a break from regular activities, Laura Crasney and Brian Magee seem to be enjoying themselves. Having a thoughtful moment, Kathy Sciamma looks as though she is thinking of far off Latin lands.

Salut Les Amis

Through the great spirit and energy of its members, French Clubs accomplished many activities and made great plans for the future this year. The many fundraising activities supplied money for their trip to the Basin Street Restaurant at the Palm Bay Ramada Inn and a minimum of a $500.00 scholarship to an outstanding French student and club member. Funds were also raised for French Club members to go to France, not across the ocean, but across central Florida to EPCOT, a Disney World, a trip to be taken next year.

Participation in activities makes an organization, here Yolanda Landeros lends a helping hand to Heidi Braum to fill her in on details. With the meeting already in process, John Bohlin seems to be left out of the conversation.

After school meetings are sometimes hard to attend. French club members Carron Thomas, Sherri Deane, Kathleen Spychalsky, Dan Zychowski, Mary Zepp, Linda Cox, Linda Borie, Sandy Murdick, Janet Cymbalac, Sheila Quinn, Lorainne Freeman, and Antwain Curry made it a point to attend this one.

Curiosity killed the cat, but Sandy Murdick doesn't seem to be in danger by asking questions about future activities.

By the expression on Katie Zepp's face it looks as though she can answer Antwain Curry's question easily.

Curtain Call

The drama club is a group of hardworking students who are interested in producing a full length production.

The club has had many ups and downs this year.

Putting them back into action was the fall production, See How They Run.

The drama club has combined its efforts with the chorus and dance to produce this year's spring production, a variety show.

Acting out a scene from See How They Run, DiAnn Hundt and John Clements get caught up in a mess of confusion that is brought about the English vicarage. Putting pantomime into perspective, Shantell March and Kris VanScoy show how easy it is to move inanimate objects.

Spirit always plays a big part in school activities. The Anchor crew strives to keep the crowds cheering during football and basketball games. These dedicated students do all that they possibly can to keep the "FIGHTING PIRATE" spirit ridin' high.

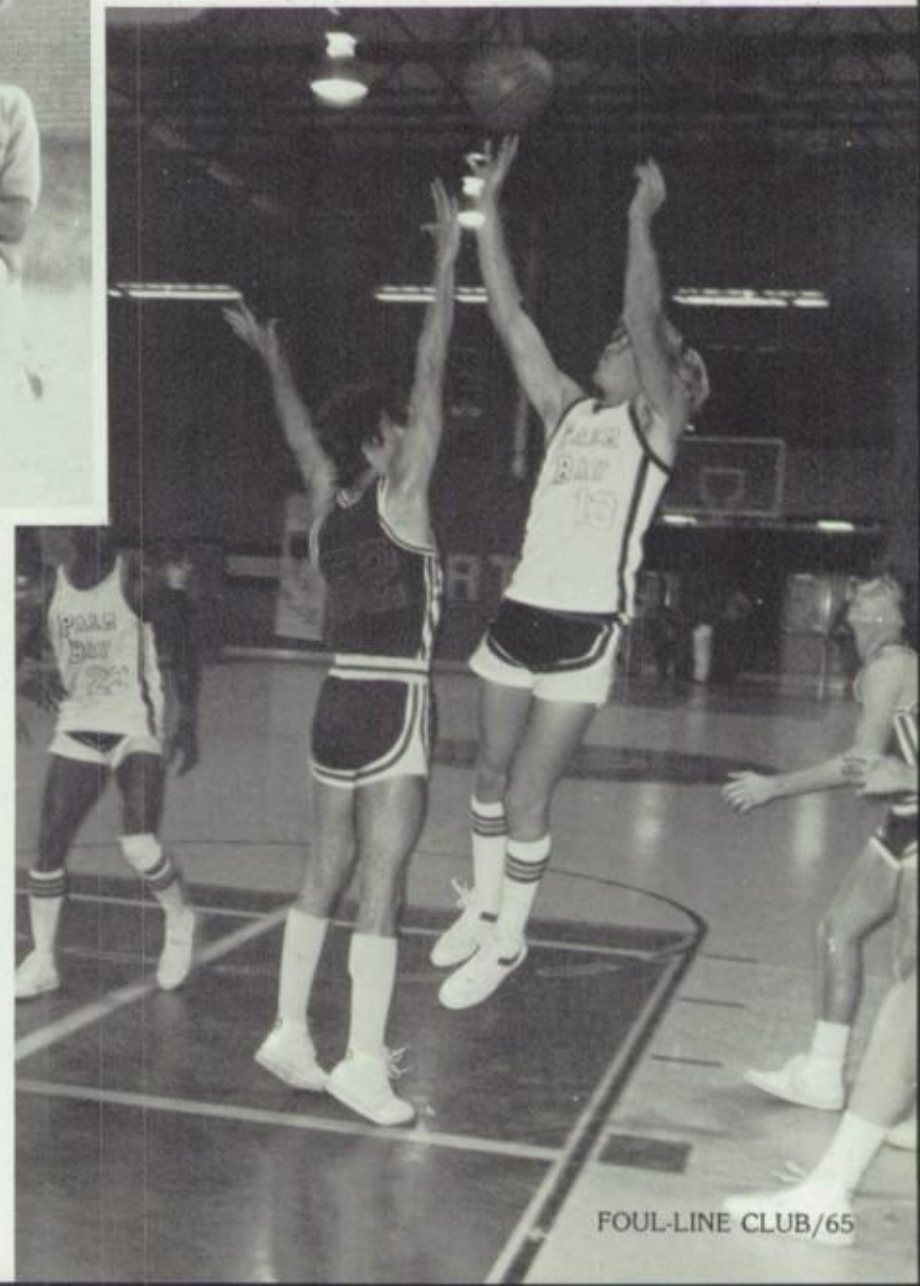

Dribblers' Support

The chief ambition of the Foul-line club is to gain interest in the pirate basketball program. The Foul-line members work very hard on the many fundraisers that pay the many expenses during the season.

Ball control is very important to basketball. Antwan Shepherd has everything under control.

Varsity – Vim, Vigor, Vitality

Being a Varsity Cheerleader isn't all smiles. There is a lot of hard work that goes along with the cheering and bouncing. But no matter what work is involved, the girls are dedicated to their job. They spend endless hours a week practicing and preparing for the team.

The cheerleaders attended a summer camp at Jensen Beach. They competed against other squads. The girls received a blue ribbon every evening for their performances. On the last day, they were one of three squads picked to compete in Grand Competition. Out of those three squads, they were picked to receive the Award of Excellence. They were also honored with the coveted Spirit Award for displaying the most spirit during the four day camp.

Cheerleading is a year round sport. Tryouts are usually held in April. The season ends in March. Being a Varsity Cheerleader requires complete dedication and complete love of what being a cheerleader is all about.

Homecoming week is always filled with activities. The week would not be complete without a parade in which clubs compete for best spirit float and car, the Homecoming candidates are viewed, and the cheerleaders leading the parade with chants and cheers. Competitive noise was one of the highlights of the season's first pep rally. Carla DeCrescenzo tries out her art of persuasion in getting her side to yell the loudest. One responsibility of a cheerleader is to lead the crowds in encouraging their teams to victory. Jackie McMillian doesn't seem to be having problems in that department where her enthusiasm appears to be phenomenal.

The last football game of the year Palm Bay vs. Mel-Hi. To insure vitality in not only the football players but the student body and faculty as well, the varsity cheerleaders decorated the school with red and black streamers the night before. Kim Keith and Annette Maraki decorated the Palm trees previewing the inside decorations. Stacy Brannon, Kim Sepelyak, Annette Maraki, and Lori Woodling participate in half-time activities during the Titusville vs. Palm Bay basketball game. New wave is in this year. Cindy Head, wearing her new wave glasses, struts her stuff in a dance routine performed by the cheerleaders at the first pep rally of the year. The varsity cheerleaders are shown here having their annual 12 hour rock-a-thon to raise money to fund their trips to away games and summer cheerleading camp.

Screams and yells of encouragement leap from all cheering mouths. During a brief time out, the J.V. cheerleaders attempt to get the crowd to participate in these cheers. A victory is every team's goal. The V is the universal symbol for victory as Jennifer Roberts portrays.

Yolanda Smith, Debra Shackelford, and Alisha Terry want everyone to know that the myth that all big girls are made of sugar and space still holds true.

Junior Varsity Cheerleading gives sophomore and junior girls a chance to make new friends, share some good times, and gain the experience and techniques needed to one day go on to Varsity. It is a big step up from the ninth grade squad, for these girls attend a summer camp plus get their first chance to perform at football games. Their hard work and practice was also rewarding in another way. The J.V. cheerleading squad placed third in county competition in October.

At the Mustang Pep Rally, Alisha Terry waits patiently for the cue from the Varsity Cheerleaders to get fired up for the big game.

Our First Year of Cheer

Starting high school is a big adjustment for most ninth graders. Getting involved in school activities is one way to get adjusted.

Cheerleading is one of the first activities exposed to these girls. Tryouts are held during the third week of school. The few girls who have the privilege of being freshmen cheerleaders practice hard, learn the art of spirit-raising and grow very close. Quiet often, this is the first step to a meaningful part of their high school years.

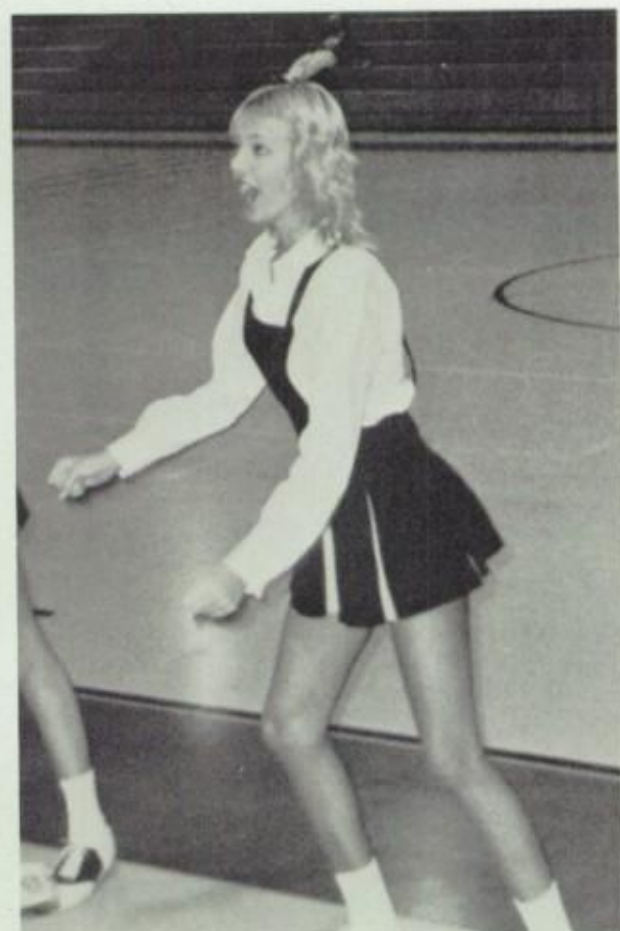

An intense circle of friendship exists between the freshman cheerleaders. Here they work to display their closeness and ability to work together.

A Powerful Second Wind

From beginning to end this year's football team refused to give up. Playing football along the Space Coast is not an easy job. The best teams in the state come from this area, and quite a few teams were surprised by Palm Bay this year.

The second half of the season was one of the best ever for the team. Showing their undying spirit they ended up third in the county in defense and second in offense. Included in the second half surge was Steve Terry rushing to the number one spot in the conference. Gaining his one thousand plus yards behind the best offensive line in the county. The line was bolstered by senior standouts Karl Johannessen and Tom Brady.

The season rounded out to an even win-loss record of 5-5, 4 of the 5 wins coming in the second half of the season.

An Even Season

Defense played an important part in the second half comeback. Third year pirates had several defensive standouts with Jeff Franklin, Harry McMillan, Calvin Collins, Mike Davis earning all-conference honors. These people helped bring the Pirates back to a 5 win 5 loss record.

Tuck and roll is what Russ Manion is doing to hold down this ball. Leaping for the catch is Todd Taylor snatching the ball between defenders. Following his wall of blockers is Stoney King.

Making his tacklers bite the dust is what Harry McMillan has on his Mind. Hot on the pursuit is Mike Davis. Playing a major role in the teams health is Martha Kurth. Diving for the stop is Billy Palmer followed by Tim Spears.

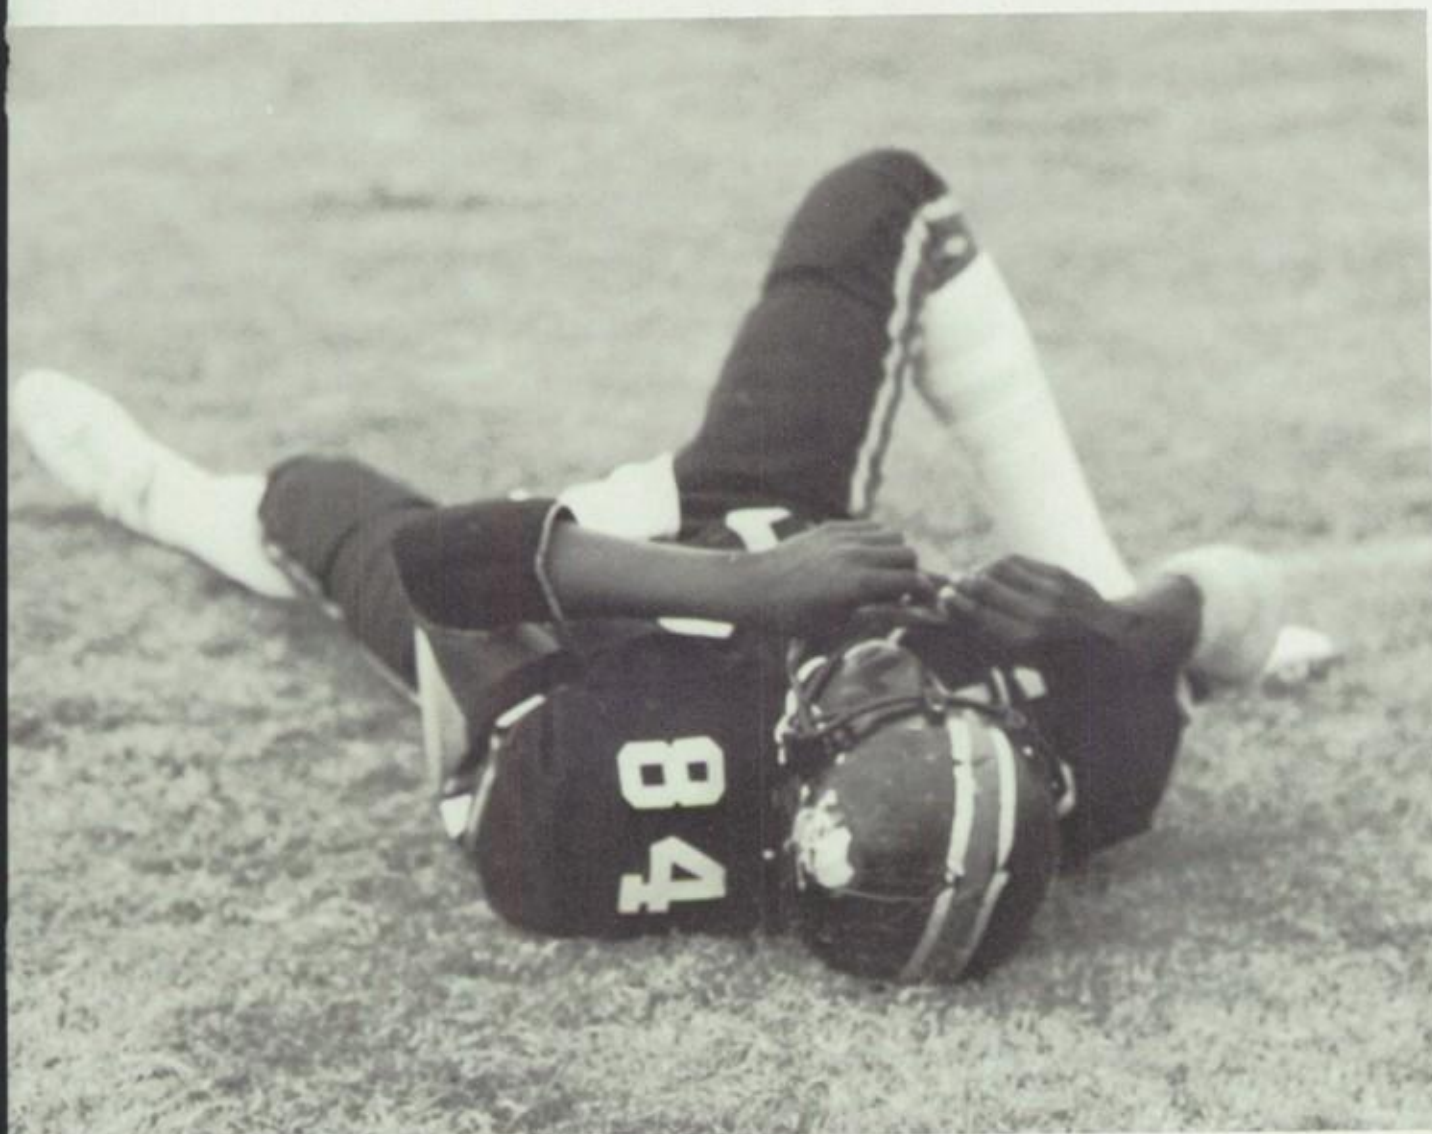

Running through the play prior to the game is important and that's what the offensive team is doing. Just before the kickoff the squad prepares to breakdown and fire up being led by coaches Stewart and Armstrong. After a game the Pirates show their spartmanship as they go across to shake the hands of the opponents.

They Took Their Knocks

Junior Varsity football is a stepping stone between ninth grade football and Varsity. This year there was no ninth grade team so the freshman mixed with sophomores and the juniors to pull together a team. This team, now competing at a more advanced level and faster pace than ever before, tried hard. This team took their lumps, bumps, and bruises this year, now they're one up on everybody else, so Space Coast Teams beware.

Stretching out is important to prevent injuries as Travis Reddick demonstrates. Keeping equipment straight and coming to the aid of tired or injured football players are the jobs of Robin Moore, Lynn Arnold, and Dawn Phillips.

Down To The Last Seconds

The season was filled with games that came down to the last second.

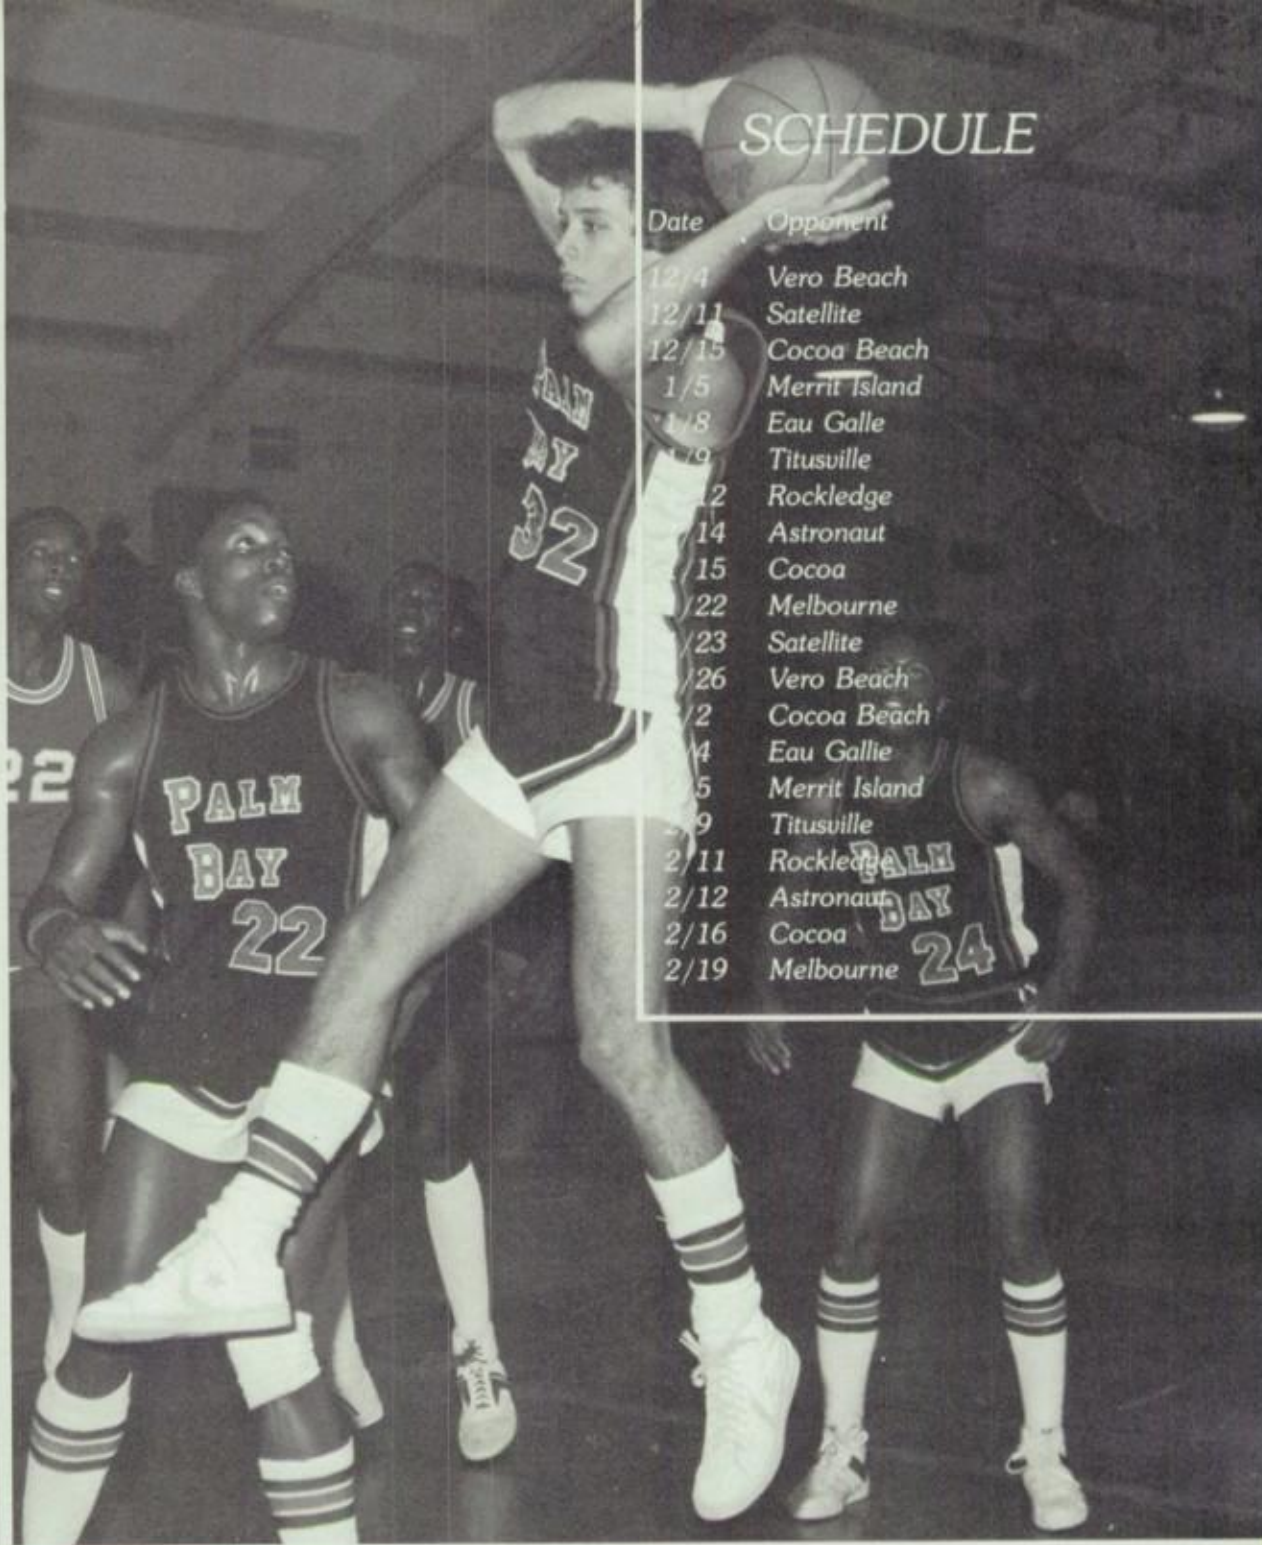

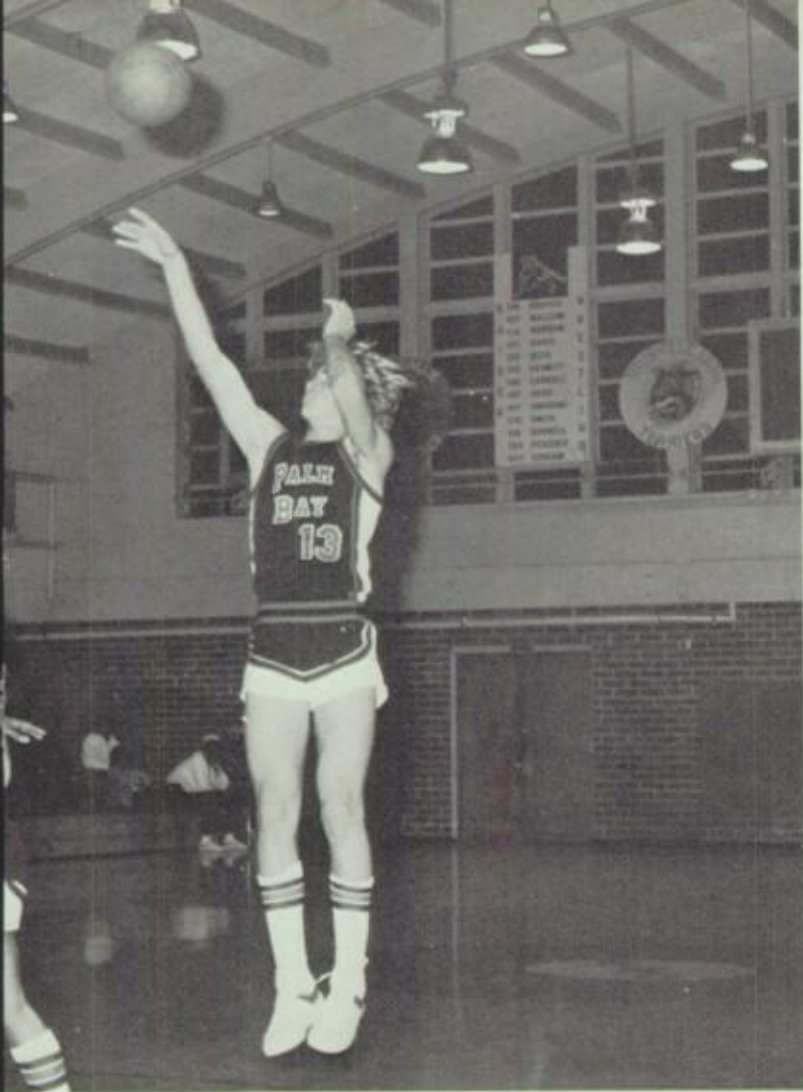

The team shaped themselves to play against the toughest in the conference. The inside play of Todd Taylor, Antwan Shepherd, and Richard Cameron was bolstered by the outside shooting of Todd Wright. Most games came down to the last decisive seconds but unfortunately not falling the Pirate way.

Taking an inside the key jumpshot is Richard Cameron outjumping his opponent. Pulling down the offensive rebound are Antwan Shepherd and Earl Cooper.

As he "flies" over a couple of Raiders, Oscar Restrepo lays one up. Hitting the showers is what they have in mind after a game.

Their First Big Jump

Preparing for the jump, below, was the first step to starting their high school basketball career.

Leading the team in this task was coach Tom Armstrong.

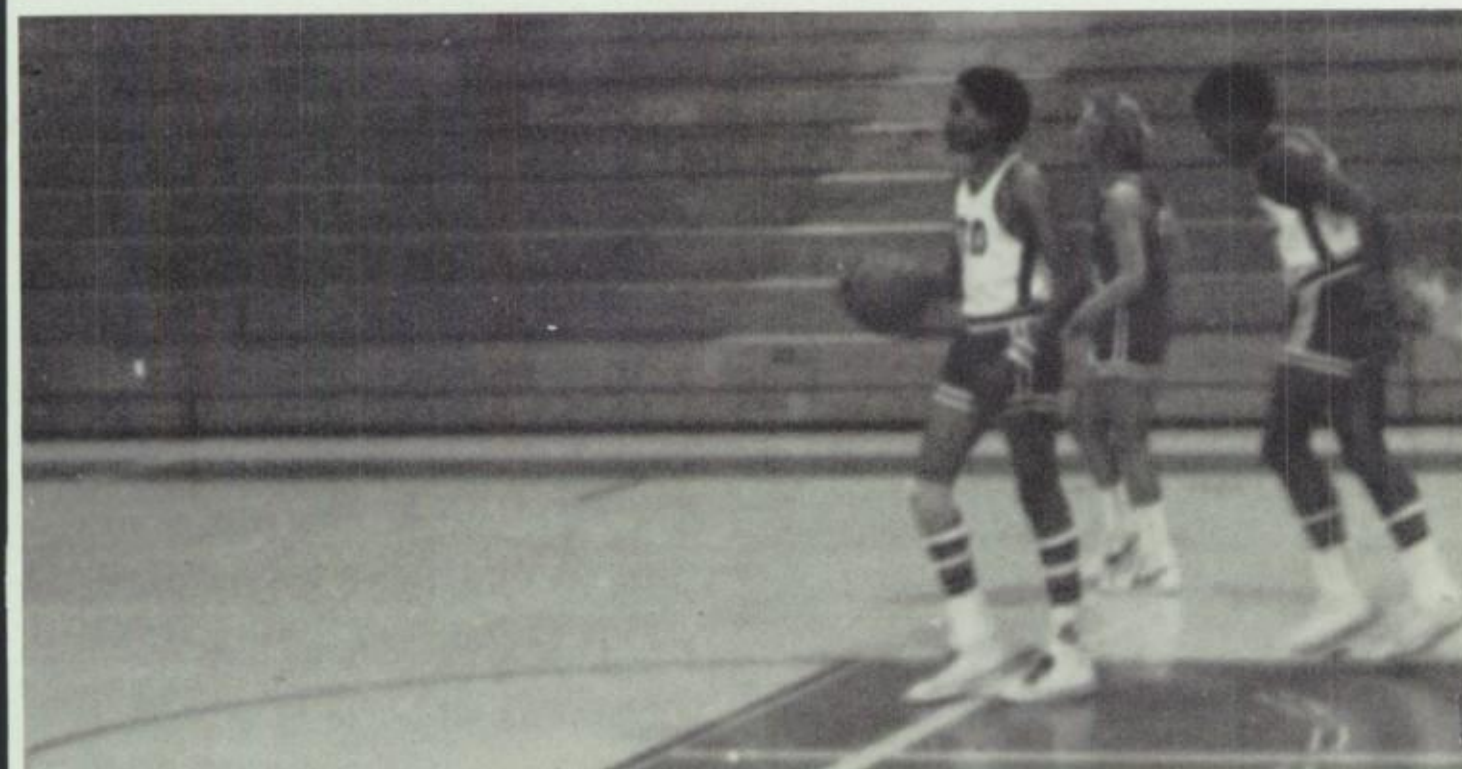

Sometimes the tip came down in their hands and sometimes in the opponents, but it all came out even with a 6-6 season record.

Young But Tough

With the Varsity full of sophomores and juniors there usually isn't much left for the Junior Varsity. Mrs. Roberts undertook her task of coaching and teaching and molded the girls into a solid unit. It was hard on the team with girls being pulled off and put on Varsity. But with the leadership established by Veronica Jackson and others the girls came together and played hard.

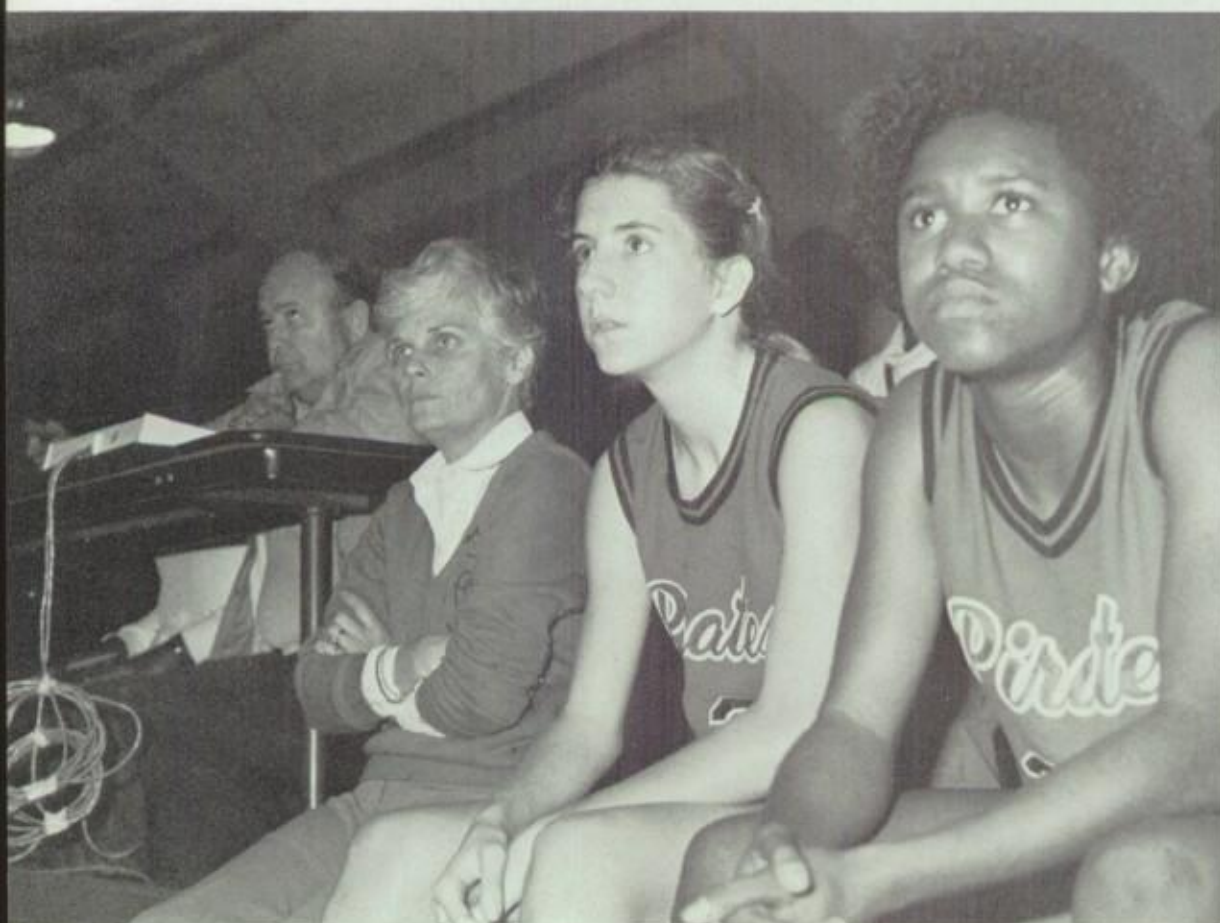

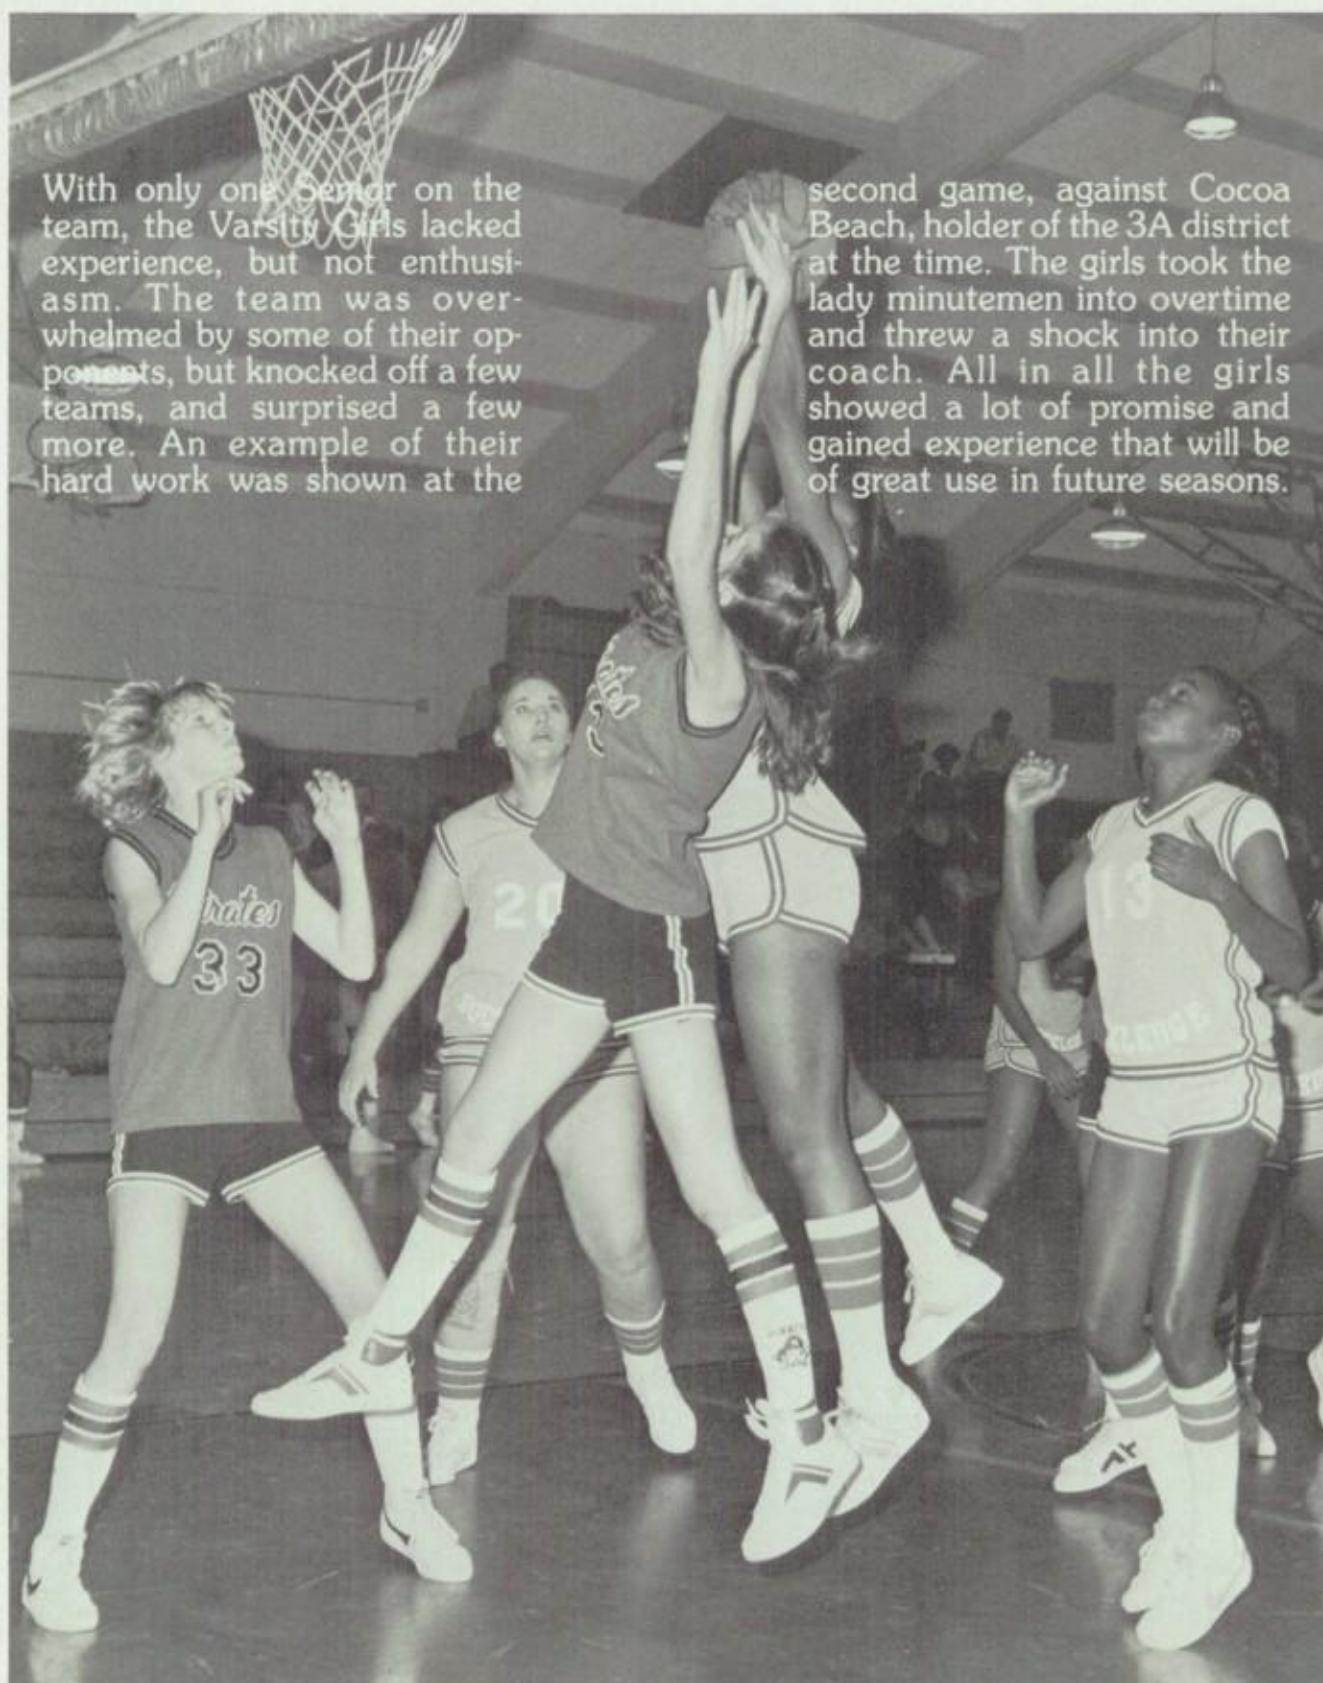

With everything she has Veronica Jackson snatches down a rebound. Driving down the baseline is Darlene Johnson going to the basket.

With only one Senior on the team, the Varsity Girls lacked experience, but not enthusiasm. The team was overwhelmed by some of their opponents, but knocked off a few teams, and surprised a few more. An example of their hard work was shown at the second game, against Cocoa Beach, holder of the 3A district at the time. The girls took the lady minutemen into overtime and threw a shock into their coach. All in all the girls showed a lot of promise and gained experience that will be of great use in future seasons.

An energetic young player, Linda Borie went into action against the Raiders. Waiting with anticipation, were Coach Alderman, Katie Redmond, and Angela Kennedy. With the team at her side, Taralyn Callins made her shot. Showing her powerful speed, Angela Kennedy flew down the court. Skying over her opponent, Taralyn Callins went for the score.

"On The Track"

One of our main sports is track. This enduring sport is filled with competition. The name of the game is endurance and fitness. One goes with the other, hand in hand. The only way to succeed is to have the will, and our team had just that! Track does not consist only of running but also many other field events, starting with running, the discus throw, the high jump, to the 400. To be a great athlete, is to be able to perform in track. To do well, one must put his whole heart and soul into winning.

Our track team members often have competition against one another; here Robert Tai, Robert Bruce, Tony Thomas show how close a race could be. As Kelvin Collins reaches the finish line a great cry of relief comes to his face. Brute force is used by Mat Andrews to hurl the discus through the air.

Steady is the only way to describe Jon Blake's relentless pursuit for victory. A coach's first duty is to keep order. Here Coach Munger gives instructions to the team on what they have to accomplish during practice. Katie Redmond, Laura Paulillo, Leslie Harper, Sonja Botzong jog a few laps around the track just to get warmed up. During practice Betty Whedbee gets a perfect handoff with the baton from Katie Redmond. Jogging to an easy victory Phil Fluellen races across the finish line.

With his last resources of energy almost gone, Ken Martin makes his attempt to leave Mark Fitzgerald, Pete Fuenfhausen, Joe Harlow in his dust. Betty Wedbee, Tonia Jordon, Paula Alderman, Bonnie Lucci, some of our best runners are off with the shot. "Close" is the only way to describe this race as Laura Paulillo and Gale Botzong come across the finish line. Here Kelvin Collins flies through the air with the greatest of ease.

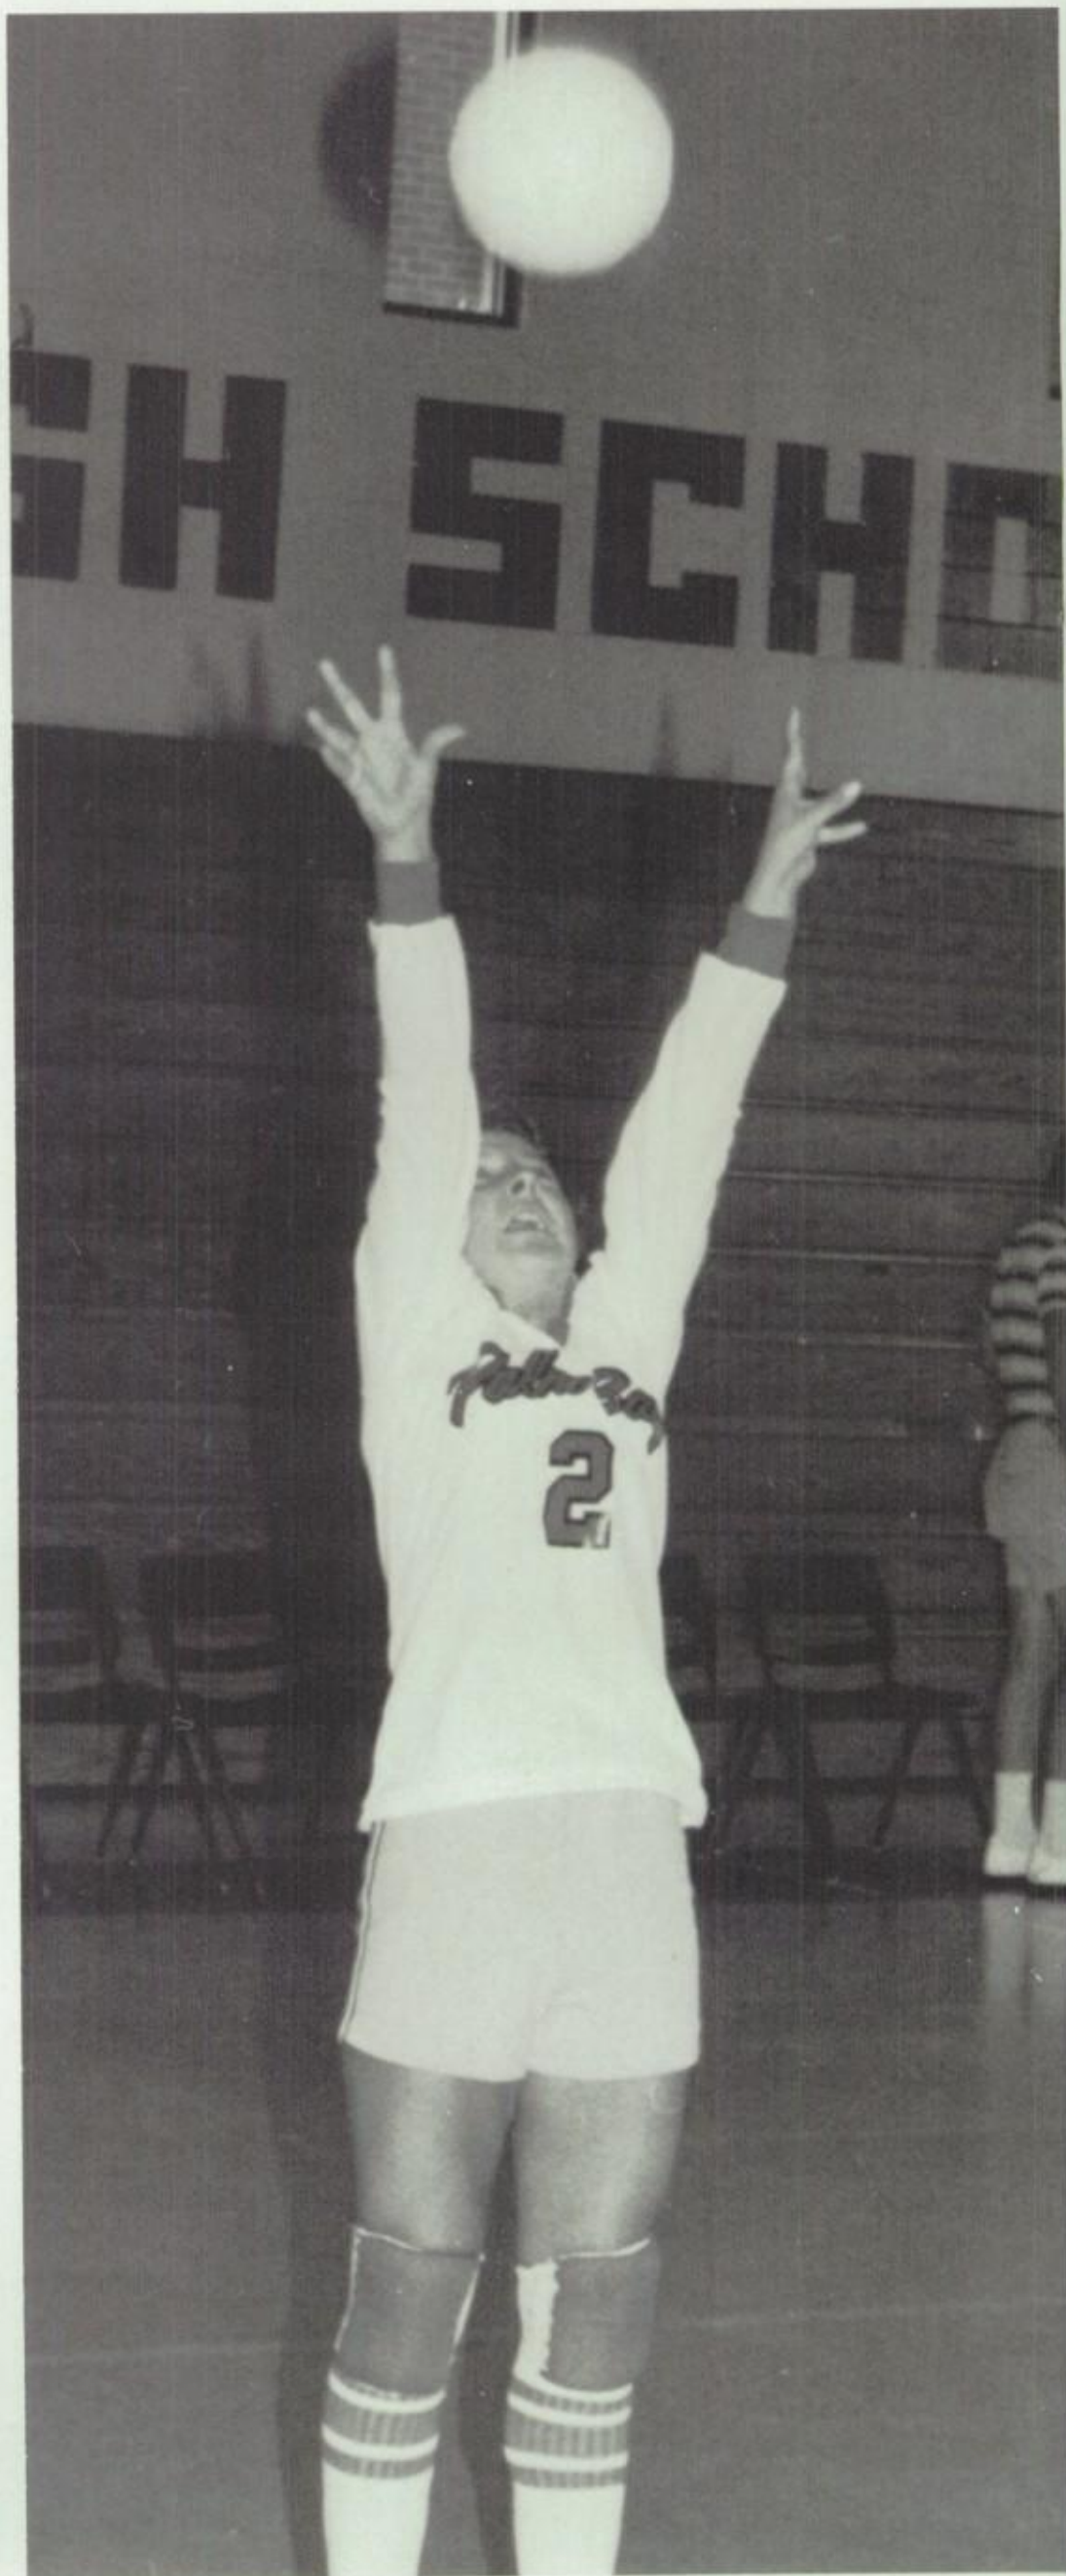

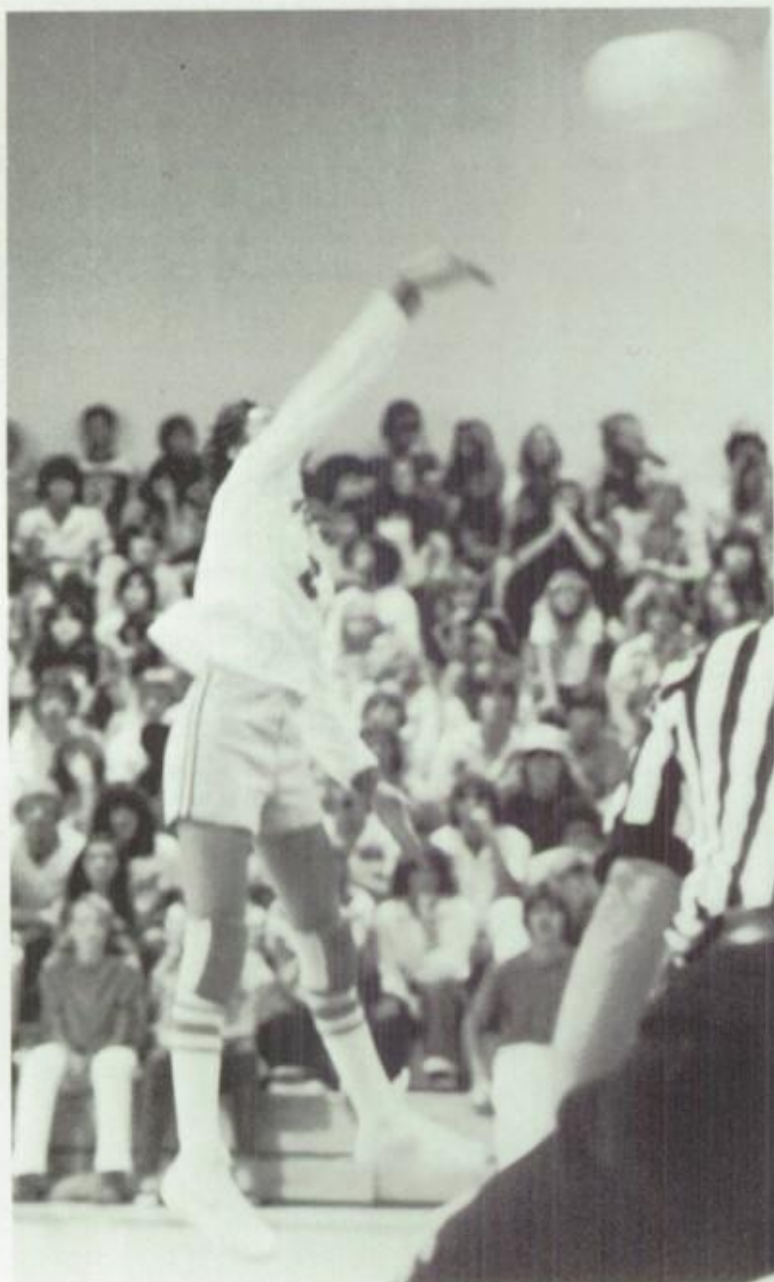

During a track meet some of the team gathers around the table to find out their times. Before entering the run, Paula Alderman, Betty Whedbee and Tonia Jordan stretch out their muscles. Putting his muscles to work, Mike Davis heaves the shotput. As Mike Singleton crosses the finish line, the link of exhaustion comes to his face. Here Mike Woddord takes his turn at the discus throw.

Using her height as an advantage, Linda Borie powers one over the net. Setting it up from the back row is Laura Morris

Nine On The Line

By the time the girls reached the Varsity Volleyball squad, their raw talent has been refined to a high level of Varsity skill. Once again the county puts up an opposition unequaled in the state, as Titusville went on to win state. There were several standouts in the team such as seniors Renae

Atwood and Vickie Ellul also the sister combination of Leah and Linda Borie. Their record does not show the team justice. This group of girls, headed by Sue Graham, was a great one. What they lacked in skill, they made up for in spirit.

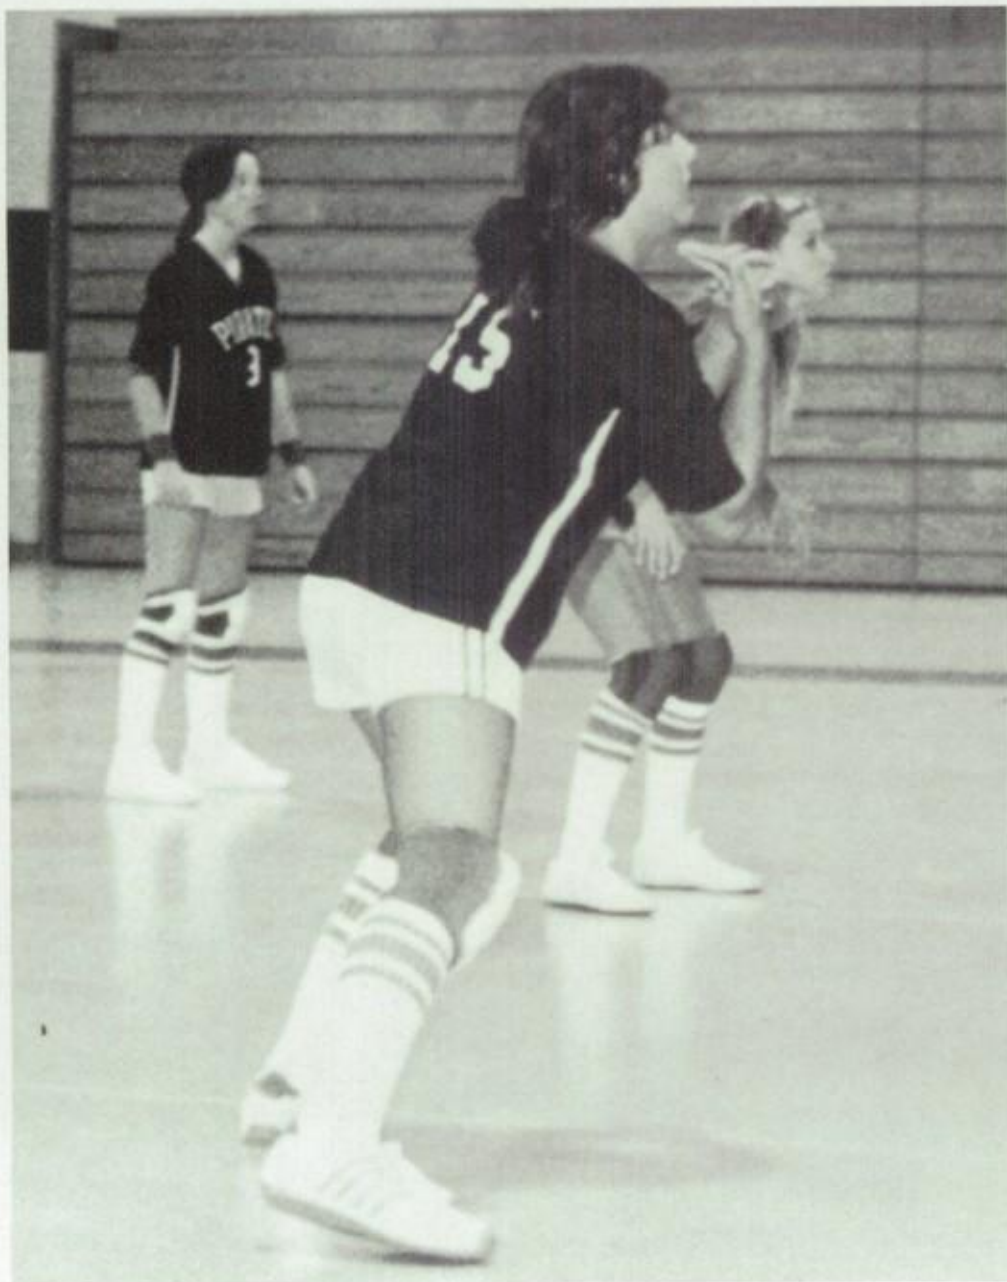

Showing their experience was the Varsity Team as they set up for the score. Demonstrating her knowledge in volleyball fundamentals was Judy Abbott.

Taking a well deserved break between games the squad prepares for the next one with Varsity Coach Sue Graham eyeing future prospects.

When girls come to high school and go out to play volleyball, they usually have to learn the game from scratch. Up to high school, volleyball is only played in physical education for a few weeks, there are no organized games or city leagues for the girls. So Junior Varsity Volleyball is an important step to learn and develop the skills required to make Varsity. This job is not easy but these girls came through with flying colors. Ending in a winning season.

Bay Runners

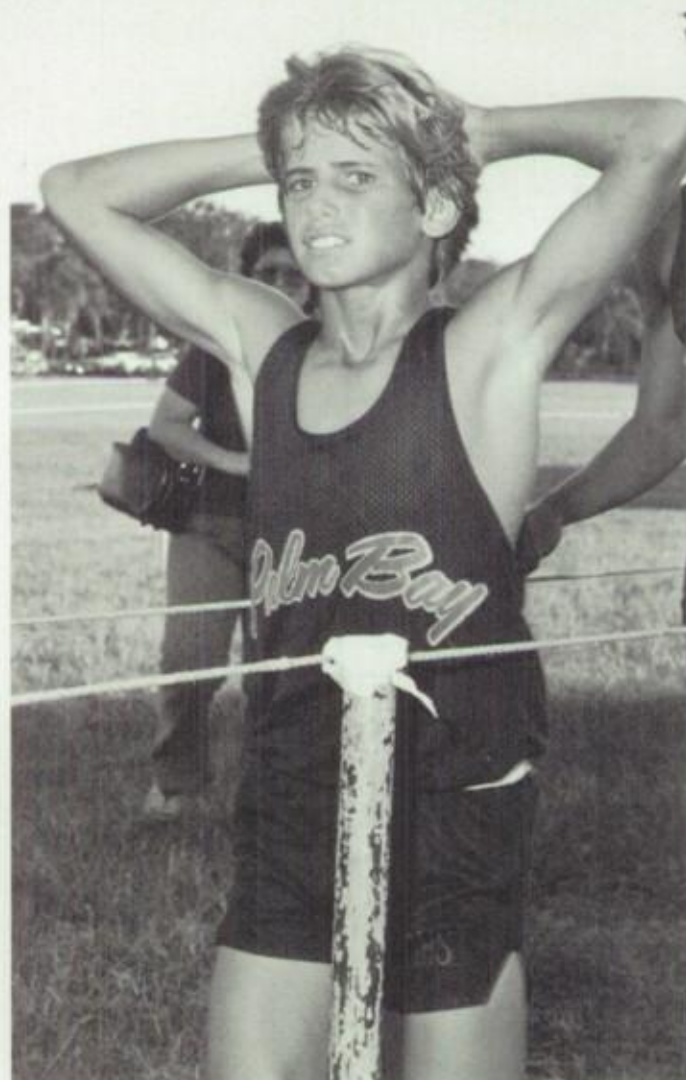

Hit the Road

Both boys and girls Cross Country teams hold outstanding records for this year. Their spirit and dedication proved to be true at all their meets. Although the boys had a very young team with Bob Bruce being the only returning senior, they made it to second place in the Palm Bay Invitational and third in the south County Championships.

Laura Paulillo and Jean Buhler were the only returning lettermen girls and they led the team to a first place position in the Palm Bay Invitational, and eleventh place in state-wide competition.

One of the highlights and most profitable events of the year for these hard-working teams was their Run-a-Thon. Each runner took many a turn circling the track, for a combined twenty-four hours. Besides making enough money to buy new uniforms, working toward a common goal brought them all a little closer together.

At the Run-a-Thon, all team members spent twenty-four eating, camping, and running together. It was an experience that brought everyone close together. Coming in at the finish line, Mark Fountain looks like he ran a good race. Racing towards the goal, the girls showed true determination. Hard work pays off. Hard work pays off. The girls earned many victories at meets such as this. At the casual setting of the run-a-thon, Andy Vajanyi and Bob Bruce let their true selves show through.

They've Got Moves

Wrestling is a sport of moves and skill along with endurance. This year's wrestlers were a group of talented individuals coached by Bill Stewart. The team was bolstered by the wrestling of several boys which is shown as Kevin Mack attempts to pin his opponent above. Jeff Higginbotham was also one of these as he dominated the 222 lb. class

A Fast Paced First Year

Racquetball is not yet a recognized sport in the county but the Racquetball Club got a lot of support. It brought enthusiasm from some of the students. Standouts on the club were Craig DeJager, Matt Arbogast, Steve Brewer, Mike Tillema, and Elise Vaughn. These people along with the rest of the team and the sponsors, Herb Nathan and Bruce Steger, helped establish racquetball as an up and coming activity. The team also placed second in their first interscholastic tournament.

Displaying his forehand is Mike Tillema as he regains his balance. Powering his backhand kill shot is Matt Arbogast. Standing ready is Eric Herburger. Taking one in the court is Craig DeJager.

A Real Kickin' Season

And that's what it was for the first year soccer team at Palm Bay. Before the season started Chuck Keener started organizing the soccer team long before the season started. Unfortunately he changed jobs. The task was then undertaken by Mr. Osborne and Coach Murbe. With their help and the teams own individual experience at the time this publication went to print they were undefeated. This first year soccer team started out to gain some respect and also to establish the Pirates as a potent force in the game and have accomplished just that. Leading the team was Diego Toban with 19 goals when this was submitted.

After breaking out of their fire-up huddle the kicking pirates prepare for a match. At mid-field Diego Toban tries to drill one by the opposing team. From the sidelines Mr. Osborne coaches the action as manager Jennifer Roberts looks on. Down the sidelines Nick Evangelo dribbles the ball towards the goal.

A Bright Future

Varsity baseball got a face-lift of some type this year with several young players on the squad. There were only six returning veterans this year. Coach Tuttle wanted the younger players to get more experience for the years to come. With players as young as freshmen getting time on the field, the future of the team looks bright. But for now play will be bolstered by four year veteran Russ Manion and others like Todd King, Louis Rubio and Steve Bacon.

After attempting a steal lead, Kip Allen returns to base. Looking on with concern is Coach John Tuttle.

Covering first base Brad Hinchmen prepares for a pick off play. Caught in motion, Russ Marion winds up for the pitch. With the form of experience Eric Drack swings for a base hit. Eyeing the ball is Todd King getting set to give it a jolt.

Soft-Touch

This year has been a good year for all those who participated in softball. Every girl on the team has put in a great deal of work and had to make some personal sacrifices. Because of this the team's playing improved and everyone learned much. Veteran of two years Claudia Roberts coached the varsity squad and Julie Ulmer, the new kid on the block, coached the junior varsity team. The team held several fund raisers to earn money for new uniforms and equipment. They sold Valentine candy grams, belt buckles, cleaner and sponsored the teacher talent show.

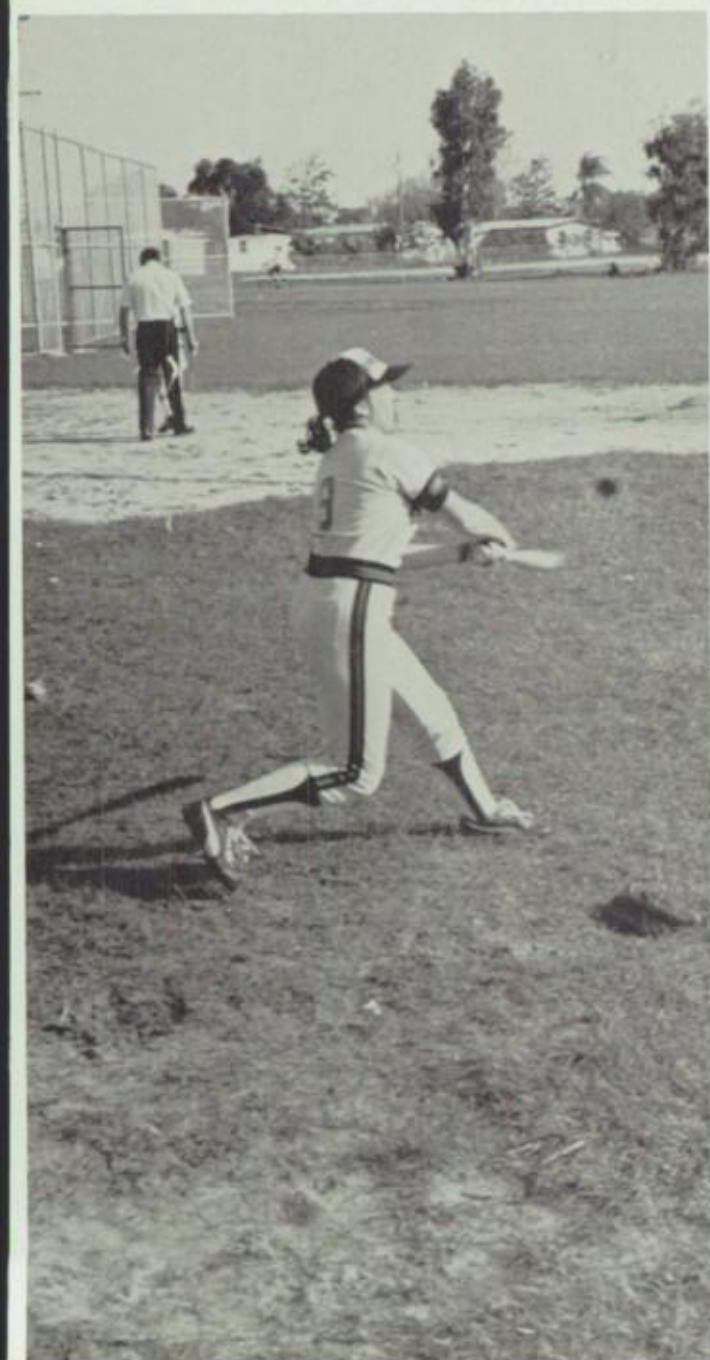

Preparing to chalk the field is Robin Moore. Making the winning catch was Renae Atwood. Heading toward homeplate for her turn at bat was Becky Walker.

Though a young team, the girl's tennis team put forth a great deal of effort for this season.

Phyllis Kampmeyer was the #1 ranked player for our school.

Following closely in order of rank were: Rea Whitlock, Leslie Layer, Helga Fuenfhousen, Liz Brown and Maria Gonzalez (tied for 5th), Denette Gonzalez and Heidi Brom (tied for 6th).

On the defensive, Mike Lustio guards his end of the court. Slamming all his force into the ball is Ron Britton. The 1982 boys tennis team is: John Struckman, Drew Edwards, Ron Britton, John Bohlin, Michael Lusito, Mark Fontaine, Ronnie Bowen. During a doubles match, Rae Whitlock and Maria Gonzalez put all their effort into hitting the ball.

Tennis is a physically demanding sport. Therefore, its participants must be all-around top-notch athletes. Our boys have shown their strength, power and skill by playing with enthusiasm and determination. This year's top player for the boys was senior Eric Stehle, followed by seven additional players.

The number one ranked doubles team from our school was Eric Stehle and John Bohlin. Our tennis players deserved all the support they received.

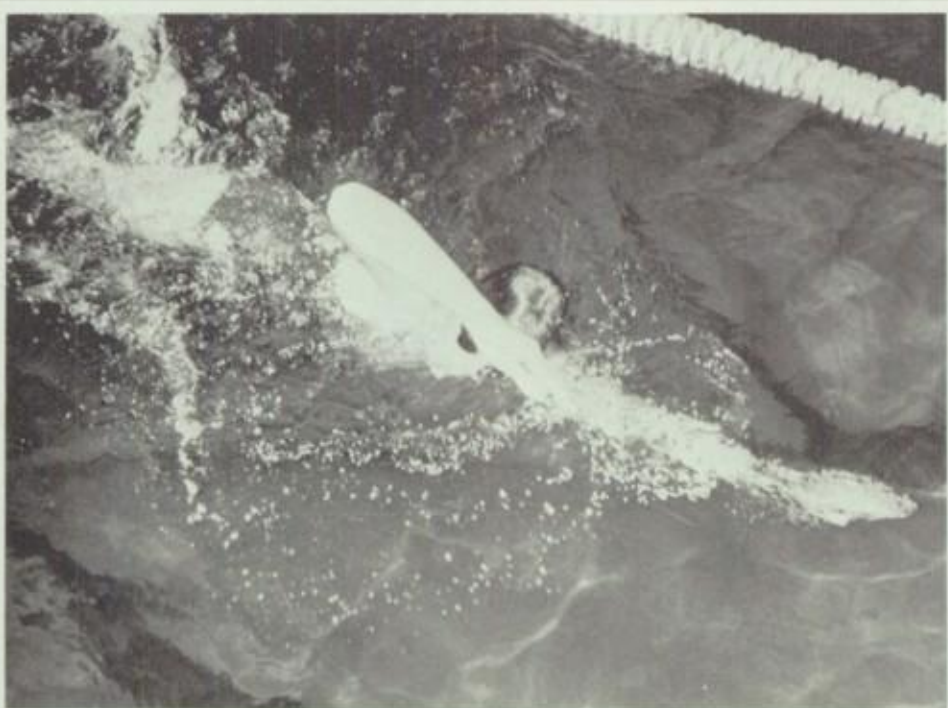

Stroking Into The Depths

Perspiration is a common element of most high school athletics.

This is the one sport where participants do not perspire and still end up dripping wet. Even though it may seem as a relatively relaxing and enjoyable sport, swimmers probably sweat more than any other athlete when they have to swim 1000 meters. Their sport, just like the others, requires dedication and effort from all team members.

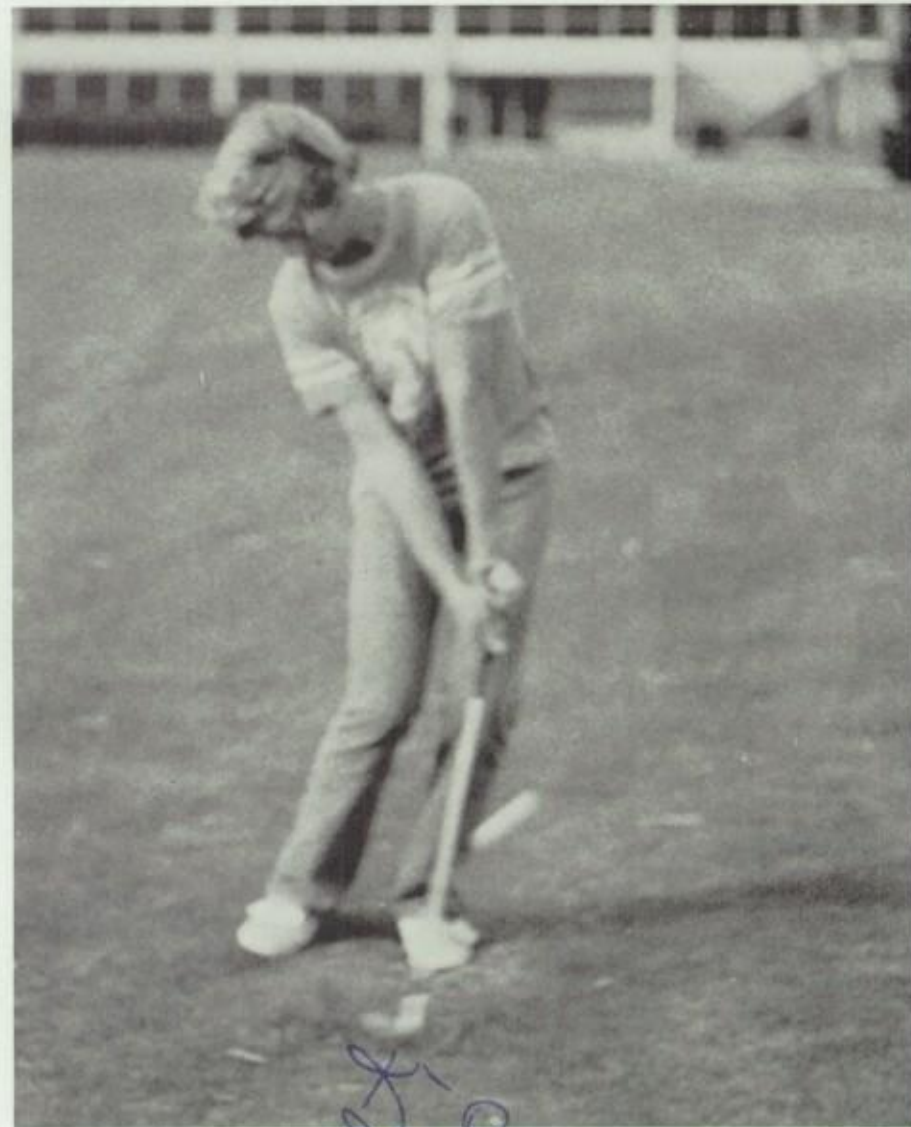

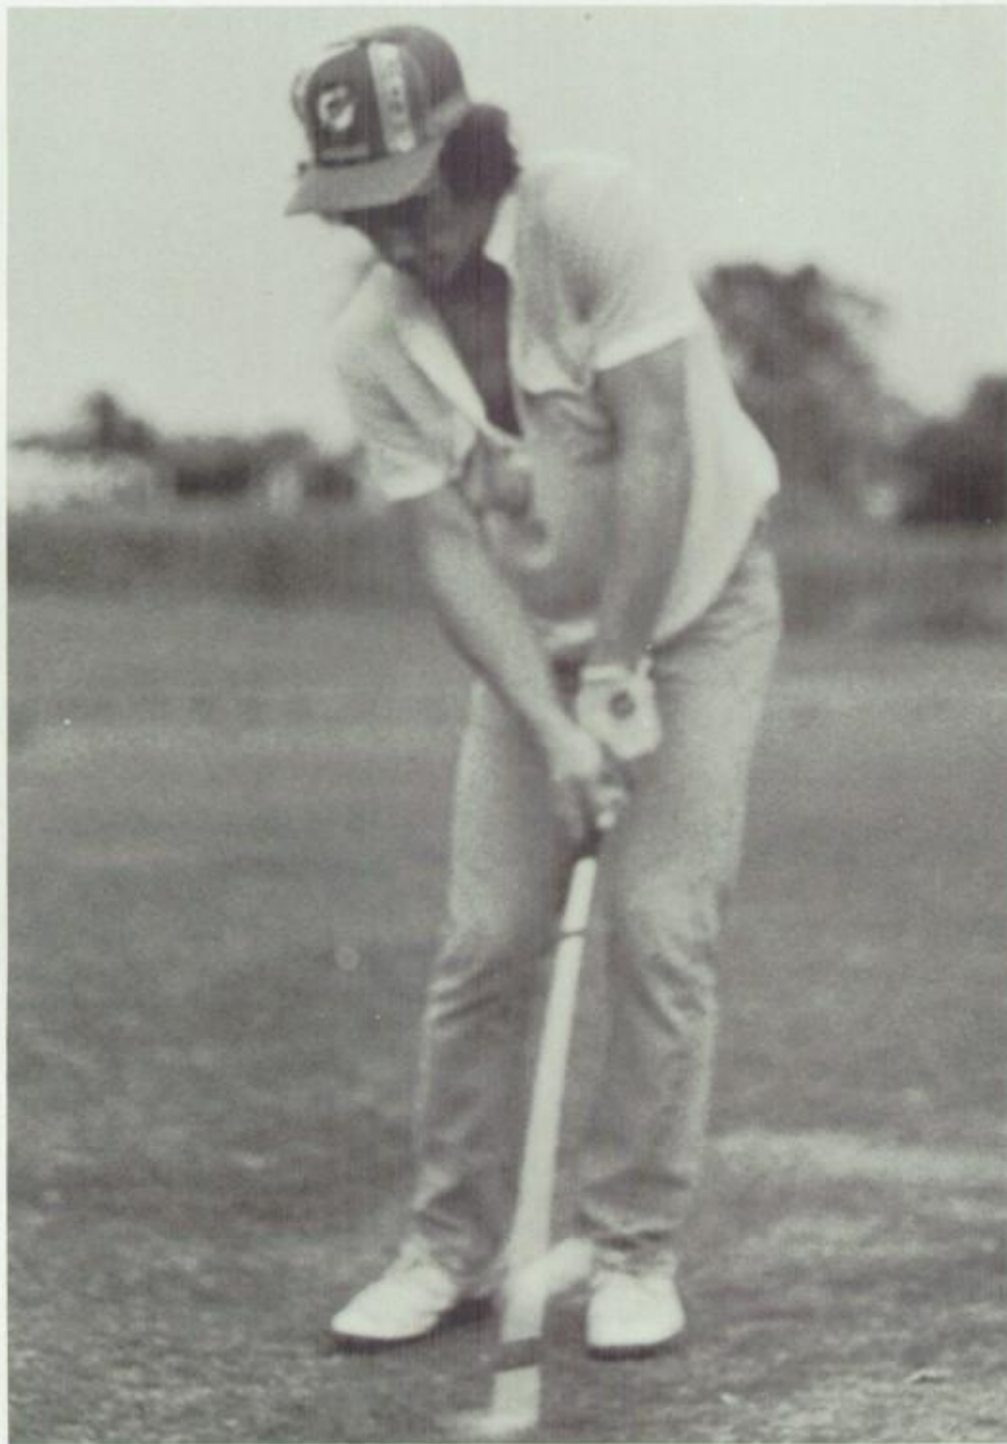

Causing quite a commotion on the surface, a weary swimmer finishes up just at dusk. Stopping for a quick breather is Michele Stonestreet, only to swim even more laps. Putting in another lap for practice is another devoted Pirate swimmer. Grouping together for the swim team shot are, from the top left, Wendy Ingram, Lisa Rose, Keith Charlton, John Todd, Tom Ravlen, Vicki Iben, Tom Armstrong-Coach, Michele Stonestreet, Marla Gordon, Terry Elliot, Sharon Holzinger, Amy Chenevert, Hope Kantor, Chicki Heckenstaller and Karen Homerding. Practice makes perfect, and this Pirate gives the turnaround another shot, only to paddle off to the other end of the pool.

Tee'd Off

Putting for that much sought after birdie is Matt Arbogast.

Applying the skill and knowledge he has accumulated over his many years of golfing Tommy Morissette goes for the green. On the fifth hole Lee Hummel put all his effort into a chip shot — it was worth it; he pared. Team picture:

Though forgotten by many, golf is a sport that is still going strong. Many long, hard hours of practice are put in weekly at the Port Malabar Golf Course by the members of the golf teams. Of all those who practice, only the top five players are allowed to participate in the matches, because of this, a fierce inter-team competition exists. There were five returning players for the 1982 season. The only four-year veteran was senior Tom Morissette, who along with three-year veteran Matt Arbogast are possibilities for receiving golf scholarships this year. Lee Hummel and Mitch Garner, both seniors, are returning two-year veterans. Other promising future players were Juniors Stan Smith and Ron Hintz, and freshman Craig Morissette.

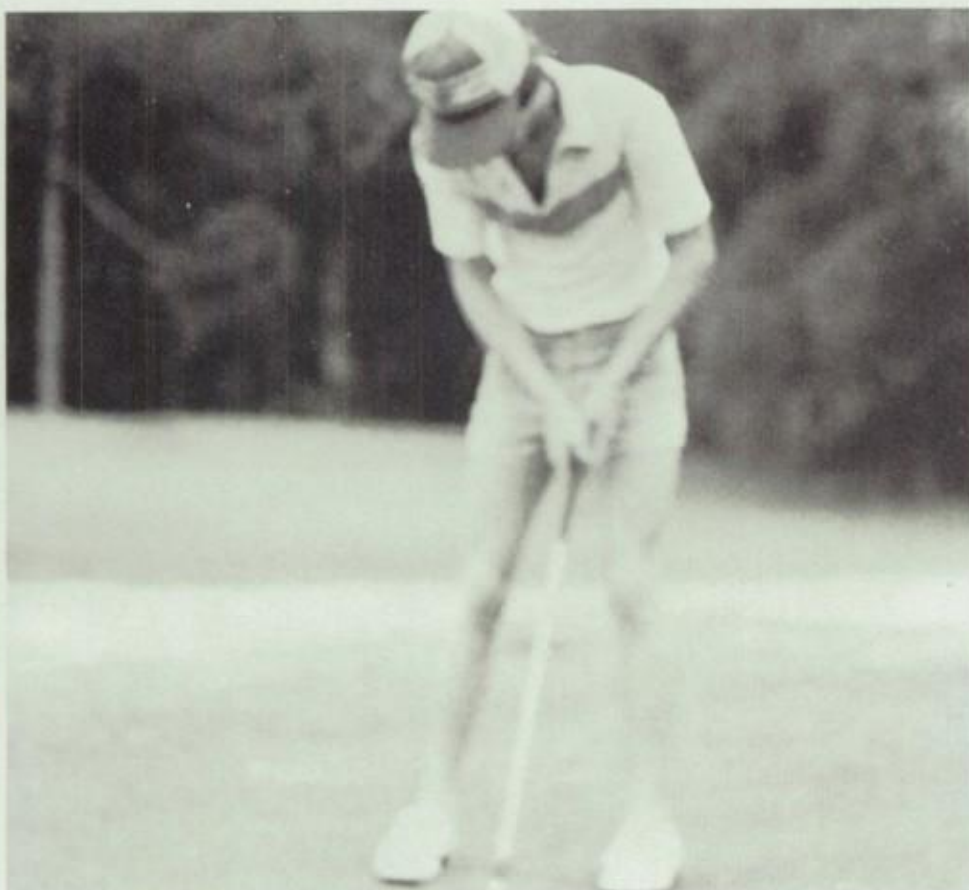

Throughout the season teams from many area high schools were played. The height of the season was the Sub-district Tournament. This tournament, which was held at Patrick Air Force Base golf course, was open to all the area high school teams. The top four teams and medalists advanced to the District Tournament which was held in Daytona Beach.

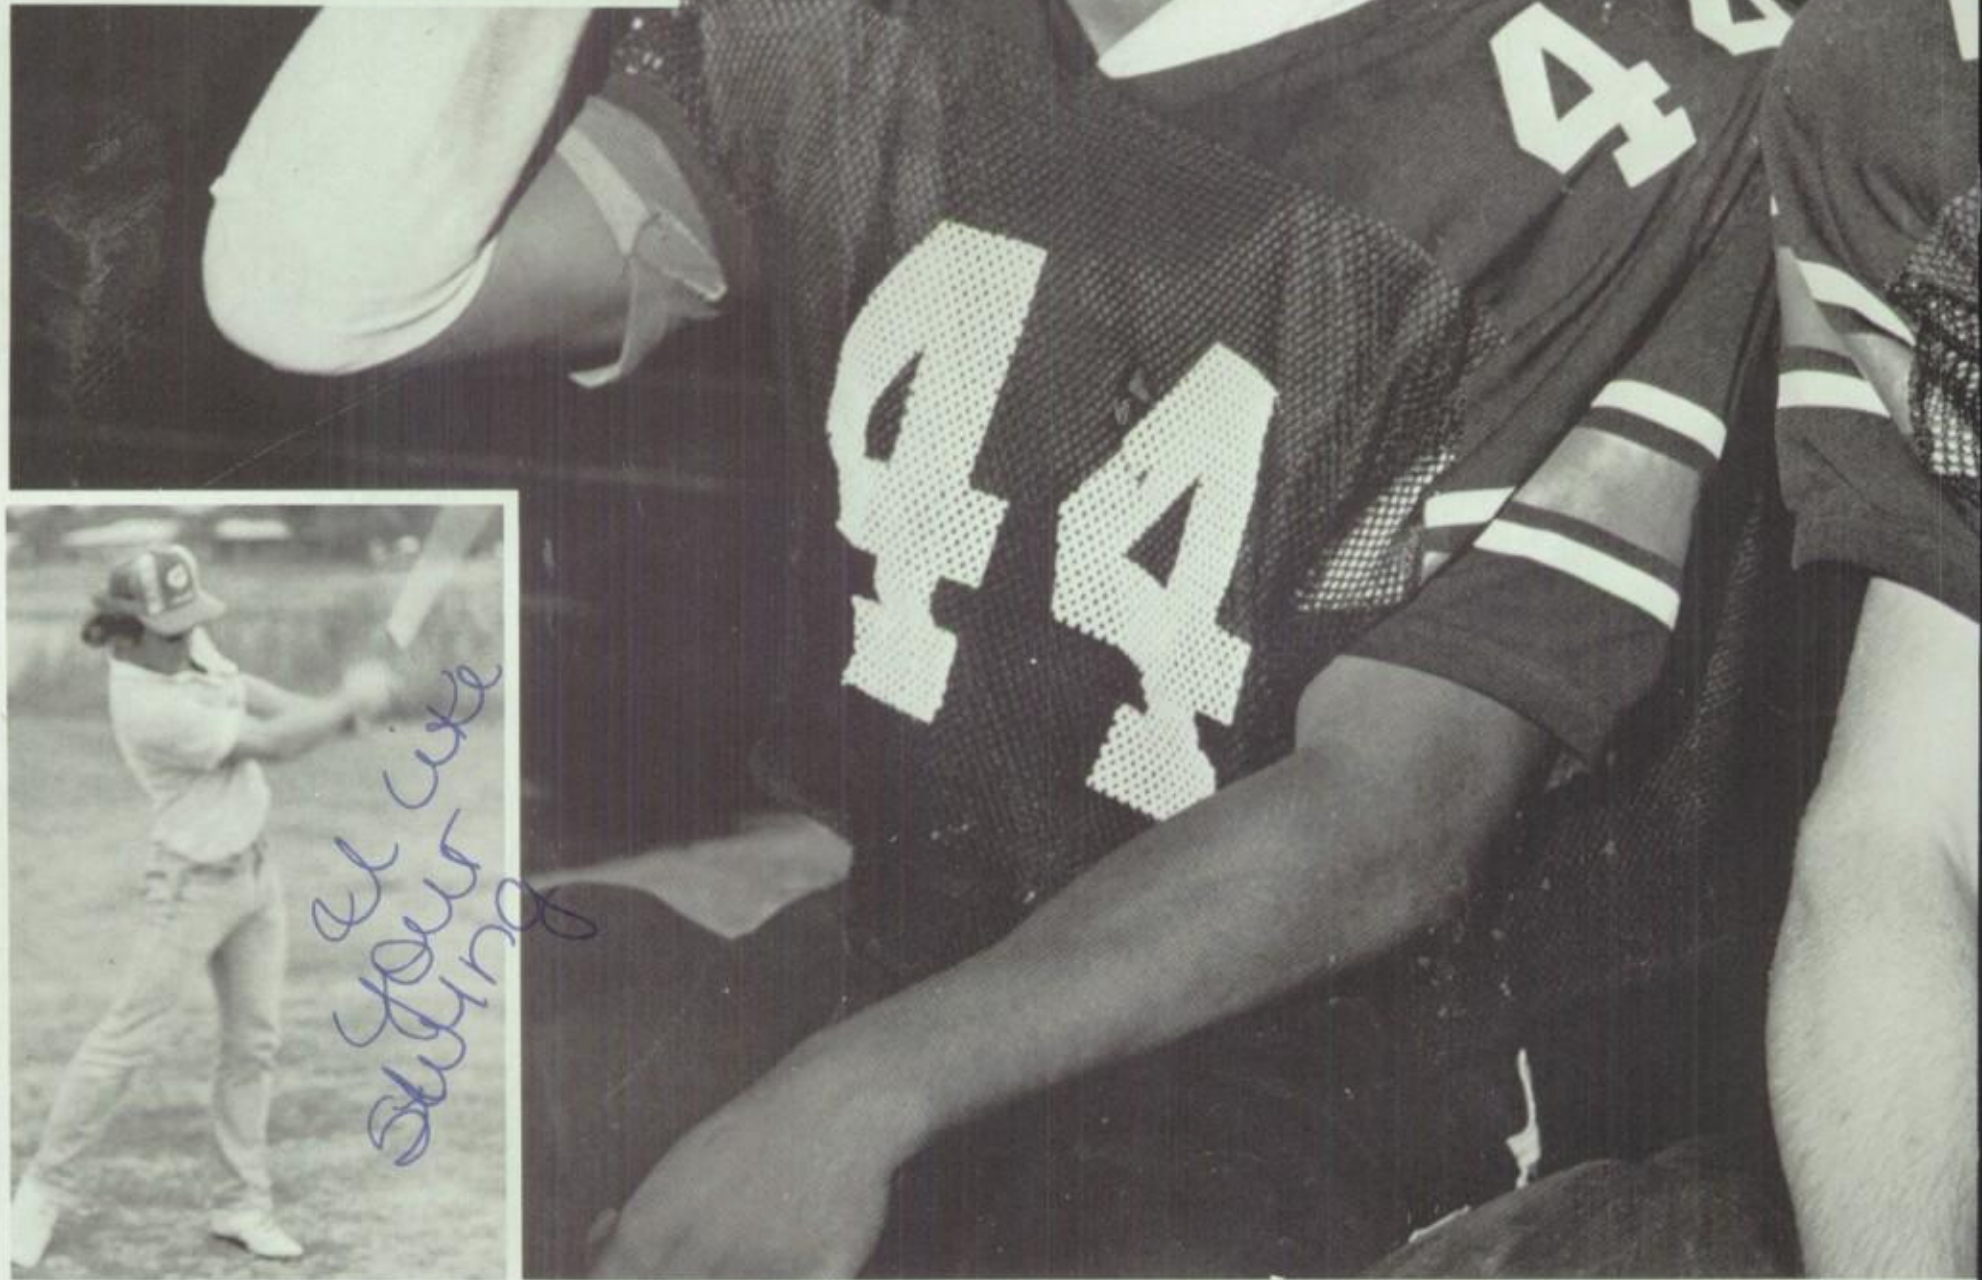

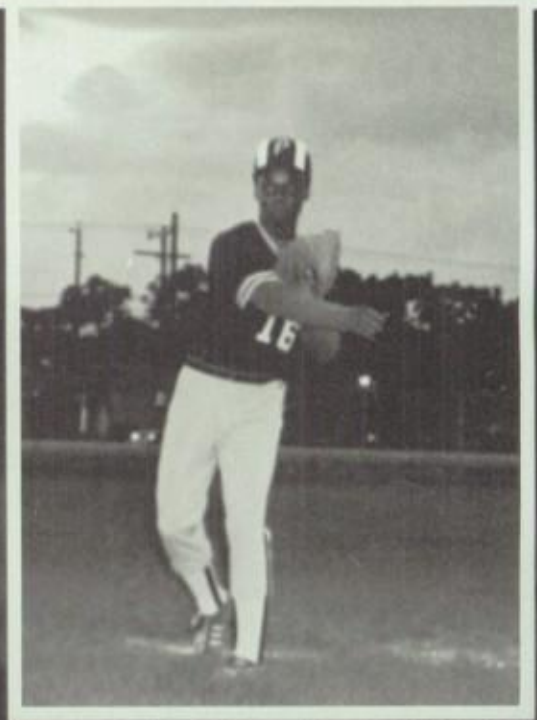

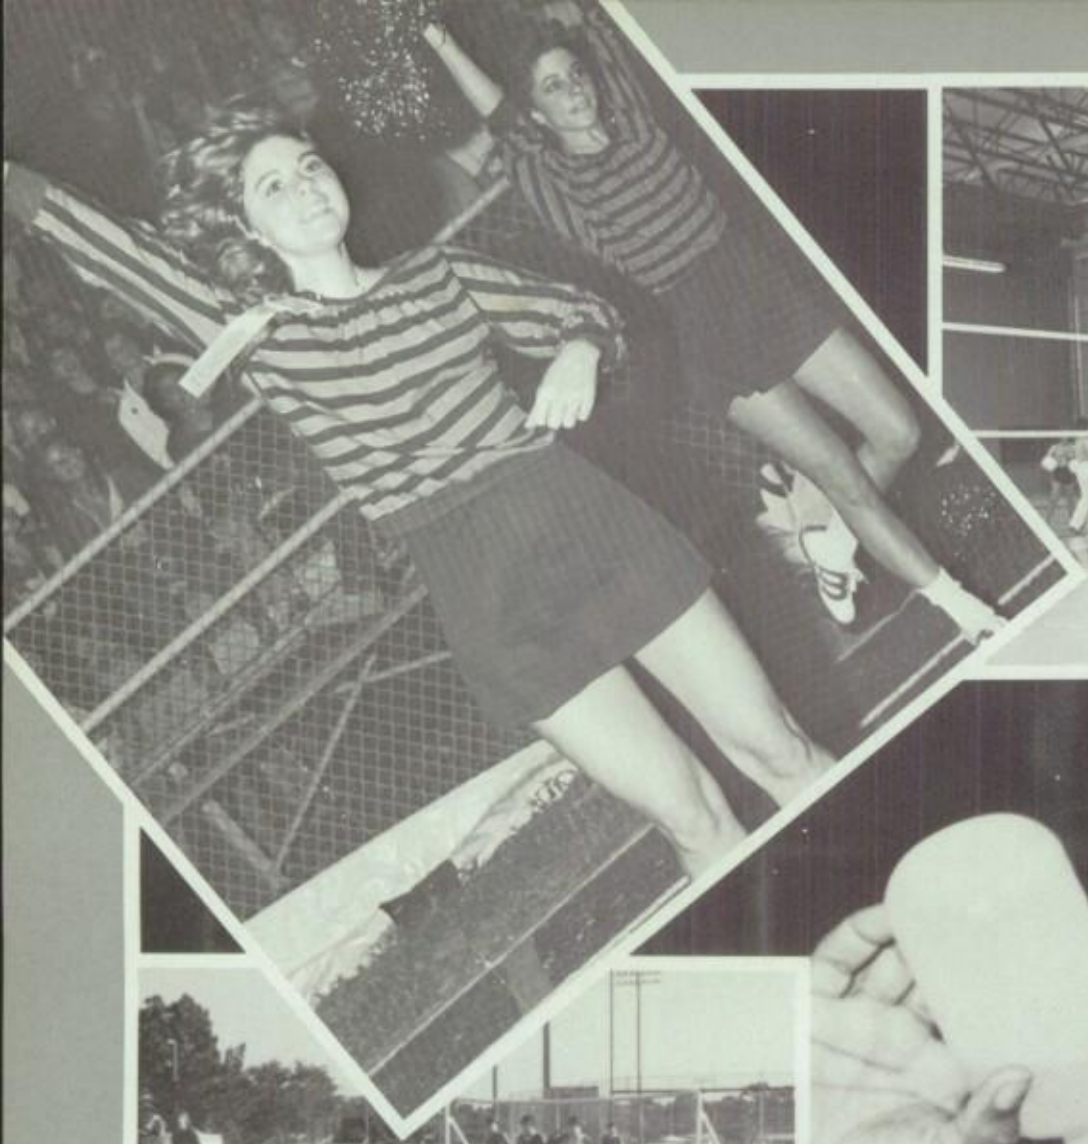

One of the new additions to the PBHS golf team this year was Coach Bill Stewart. Coach Stewart is a graduate of the University of Toledo. He has been teaching for 11 years.

Putting all his efforts into his game, Mitch Garner concentrates on his putt. Co-Captains Matt Arbogast and Tommy Morissette relax at the 9th green. Getting from the rough to the green isn't too hard, as demonstrated by Ron Hintz as he easily lands the ball on the green.

These two pages are a tribute to all those who devoted many long, hard, after-school hours to the sports program. The managers, players and coaches did much for our school. Sports is one program that unifies a student body. Choosing not to actively participate does not deter support. There is something for everyone all year around.

Administrative work is a thankless job, and it encompasses long hours and hard work for a student body that rarely appreciates the effort. But, administrators being the kind, helpful souls they are, continue to strive for a better school.

This dedication is evident in many administration acts. At Palm Bay High School, the school hierarchy strove to open up communications between the study body and the administration. Never beyond reach, an administrator is always there to lend a helping hand.

Assistant Principal, Mr. Parker, is glancing over the chorus program.

Enjoying a ride in the Homecoming Parade is Assistant Principal, Mr. Worthington.

Deans are yet another facet of the administration of a school. Providing the necessary discipline to keep a school running smoothly is not an easy job, but Palm Bay High deans, Mrs. Jenkins and Mr. Thomas, do an admirable job.

Our beloved disciplinarians, Dean Thomas and Dean Jenkins, are shown here discussing ways to keep unruly students in line. Opportunity only rings once and Mr. Thomas isn't going to let his chance slip by. Helping students solve their problems is a common duty for Mrs. Jenkins.

Providing the Needed Guidance

Guidance counselors have saved every student's life at least once — whether they just changed his or her schedule or just gave the student a bit of good advice.

The time the counselors and their faithful helpers put in a tremendous help to everyone at Palm Bay High, from administrators to students.

One of the changes in the guidance dept. this year was the addition of Mrs. Brennen, who replaced Mr. Keenor as the sophomore counselor.

A little flash of his calf proves that Mr. Shrewsbury is not just our ordinary senior counselor, but he is also a contestant in the "Pretty Legs Contest."

Looking ready for someone to take her away from all this, Mrs. Buchanan, junior counselor, waits for the next student in line. Freshman counselor, Mrs. Clifford, is consulting her ever ready student handbook.

The person that ties it all together is Guidance Dept. secretary Mrs. Douglas.

Occupational specialist, Mrs. Smiley, finds her new job to be a lot of work.

Two of the more familiar faces about school, Mr. Padgett and Mr. Shrewsbury, discuss some problems that have cropped up.

The Stars Behind The Stars

The true workers behind the scenes are these dedicated souls. No one really comprehends the amount of loyalty these people possess, and how dependent the administration and faculty are on them.

These are some of the better known faces in the front office: Mrs. Kidd, Mrs. King, Craig King, and Dean Thomas.

The newest addition to the front office, Ray Burn, seems to enjoy her new job. Secretary Mrs. Vitaliano, is browsing through a newspaper in search of an answer to a student's question.

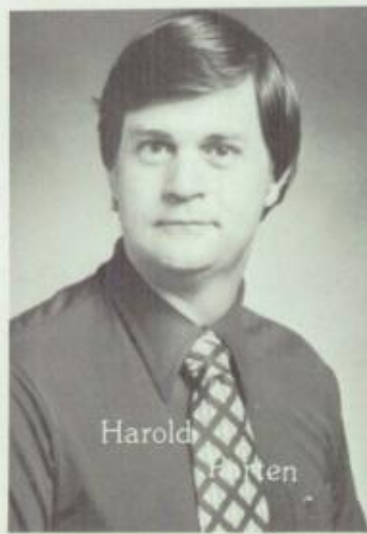

The woman everyone answers to: Mrs. Garnet Howell, the bookkeeper. Attendance secretary, Mrs. Stewart, is showing one of her aides the finer points of typing.

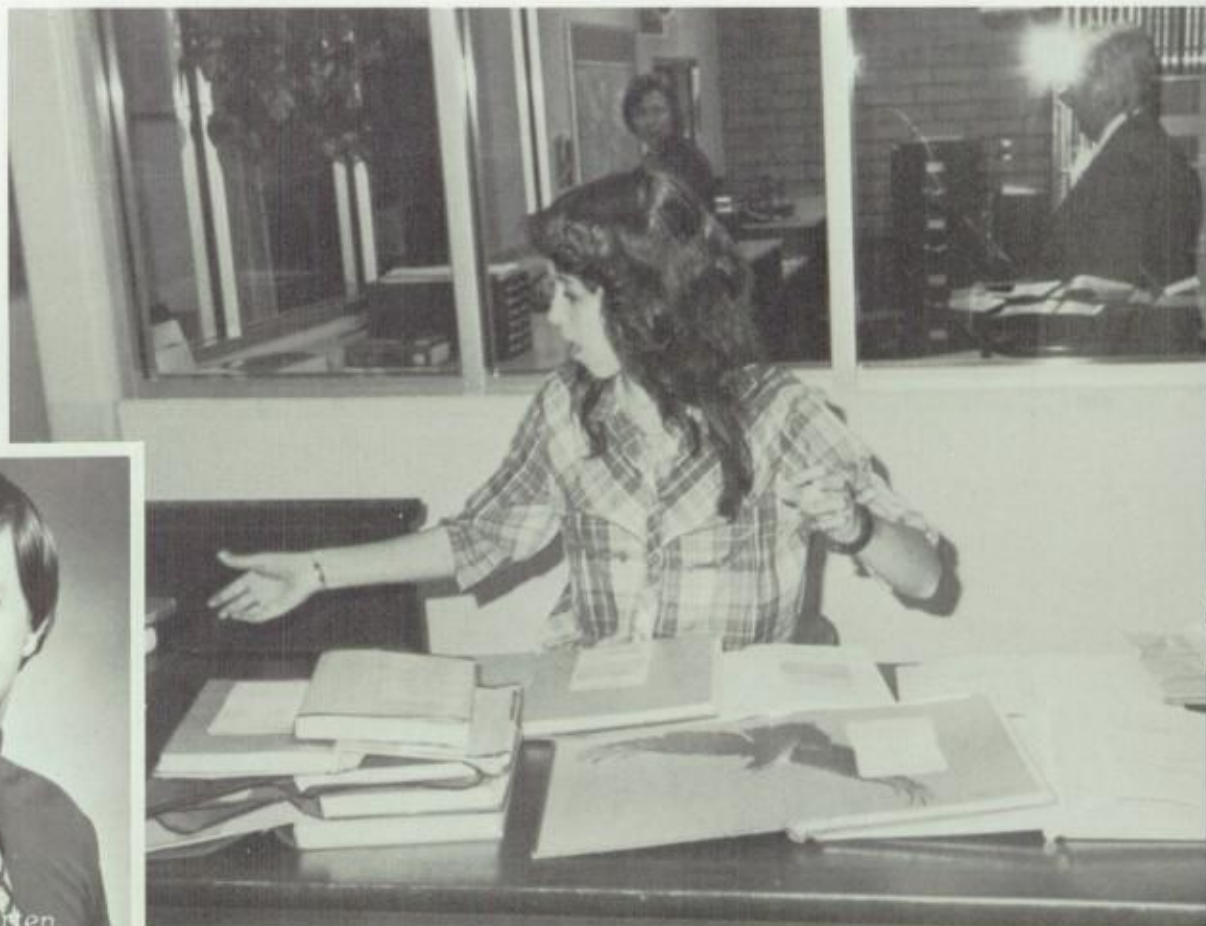

Media Mania

A very busy room is located on the G wing. This room, a haven for students and teachers alike, is the audio visual room. Its ruler is Mr. Harold Parten, who has been teaching for 15 years. Mr. Parten graduated from Mississippi College with a BA in Latin. Some of his outside activities are horticulture and photography. Mr. Parten was born in Lynn Haven, Florida.

Many students work under Mr. Parten's guidance during the year. The A.V. aides are responsible for the distribution of films, A.V. equipment, and other materials. Many teachers are dependent on these aides for running off dittos and distributing films, among other things. Without the A.V. aides and the hard work they and Mr. Parten put in, many things would be left uncompleted. One special productions' class is taught by Mr. Parten. In this class the students learn to run video equipment and also assist in the sound and lighting during programs held in the auditorium. Many after school and evening hours of work were put in by the students of the class taping sports events, programs held in the auditorium, and guest speakers for student and teacher review.

Harold Parten

It seems as though Robin Skidgel experienced a brief moment of panic during an onslaught of returning books. When you're an aide in the library, books are all around you; here it seems as though Sherry Strawder, Lora Ashburn, Steve Smith, Anthony Bergman, Denise Witte and Robin Skidgel were "cornered" by some of the many books at our library. Mr. Parten's assistants were: Derrick Nissen, Curt Fels, Darren Hickman, Allan Soots, Scott Conner, Steve Brewer and Chris Porterfield. The members of the productions class were: Larry Furtoido, Dawn Scannell, Robert Sicoli, Curt Fels, Guillermo Bustamante, Dan Dodge, Allan Soots, Sue Smith, Doug Maxfield and Steve Brewer.

Literally Speaking

Writing, rewriting, editing, proofreading, typing — all of this is a part of being a Tradewinds staff member, but there is more . . . the satisfaction of knowing that what you have written will be read by others; the pleasure of seeing your work in print; and the pride in knowing that each student was a vital part of producing a literary magazine.

Robin Harrison, Alan Brech and Sherri Deane served as editors of Volume III of Tradewinds. Artists were Norman Wooton, Sherrie Deane, Frank Hernking, Doug Maxfield and Eric Robinson. Writers were Kathleen Spychalsky, Anne Barenbruegge, Robin Harrison, Veronica Jackson, Jeff Davis, Sherrie Deane, Lynette Conrat and Andrea Mills. The typist was Mrs. Justice and the sponsor was Mrs. Bruton.

As a result of the staff members' hard work and dedication, this year's edition of Tradewinds was well accepted. After reading a copy of the magazine, one of the publishers called and asked permission to print some of the students' works.

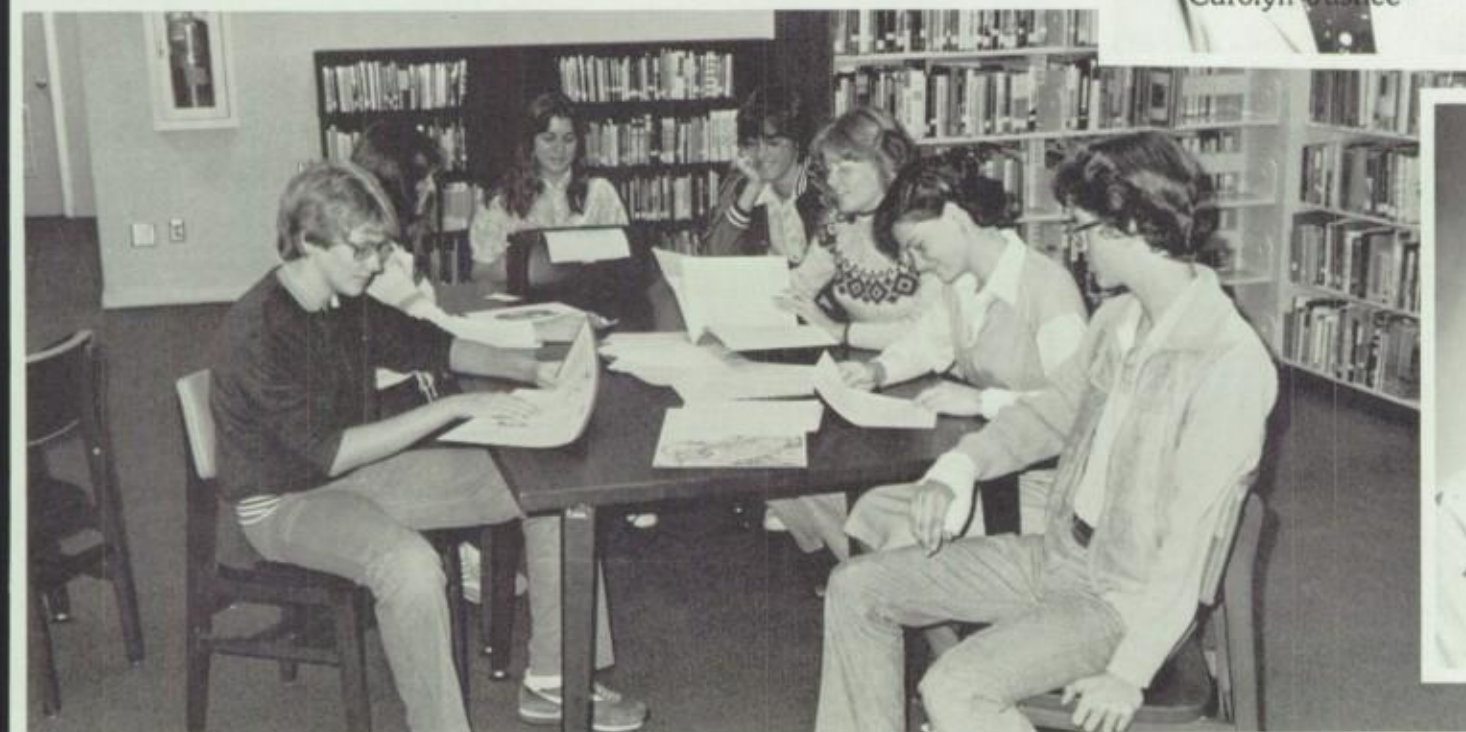

Mrs. Bruton and her assistant, Mrs. Justice, were the sponsors for this year's edition of Tradewinds. Mrs. Bruton began teaching 11 years ago after her graduation from Mississippi College. Her outside activities include square dancing, reading and horticulture. Her assistant, Carolyn Justice, graduated from Hunnington College of Business and enjoys beach-combing and reading among other things.

Carolyn Justice

Editing is a hard job. Here, Ann Barenbruegge and Doug Maxfield prepare to review an author's works. Supervising Robin Harrison and Frank Hernkind was one of Mrs. Bruton and Mrs. Justice's many duties as Advisors. Tradewinds staff members Eric Robinson, Angie Picrello, Robin Harrison, Doug Maxfield, Ann Barenbruegge, Kathleen Spychalsky and Chris Shacoski discussed story possibilities many times during the year.

The language arts program is designed to prepare its students to face life with experience and background in English grammar and writing, as well as American and British Literature. We also offer a course in World Literature that is not a required course. At the completion of the four required credits, the students should not only be knowledgeable in the make-up of the English language, but also poetry, books, and authors from both American and British backgrounds.

Pirate's Press

This was a year of learning for the teacher and students of the Journalism class. Miss Linda Lombardy took on the task of supervising the publication of the Pirate's Log. The class successfully published eight issues of the Log which were enthusiastically accepted by the student body.

There were very few students with journalistic experience on the staff this year. By the end of the year, however, this soon changed. Those who didn't know much about journalism learned some about the field and those who did have experience expanded their knowledge greatly. Everyone in the class benefitted from the best teacher there is — experience.

Figure Fanatics

For years parents have been sending their children to school to teach them mathematics. In math, there is always something new to learn. Because of this, courses in basic math, algebra, geometry, trigonometry and calculus are offered. These provide a solid rock to lean on whether the road leads to college or straight to the job market.

This year the math department sold $4,000.00 worth of candy to help update and modernize the existing computers in the math department. Two hundred students volunteered to sell the candy. Way to go math students!

Hands On

Striving for more top notch students, this years science department, led by department head Carolyn Howell, is the best yet. In previous years, many P.B.H.S. students have earned high honors in various science competitions.

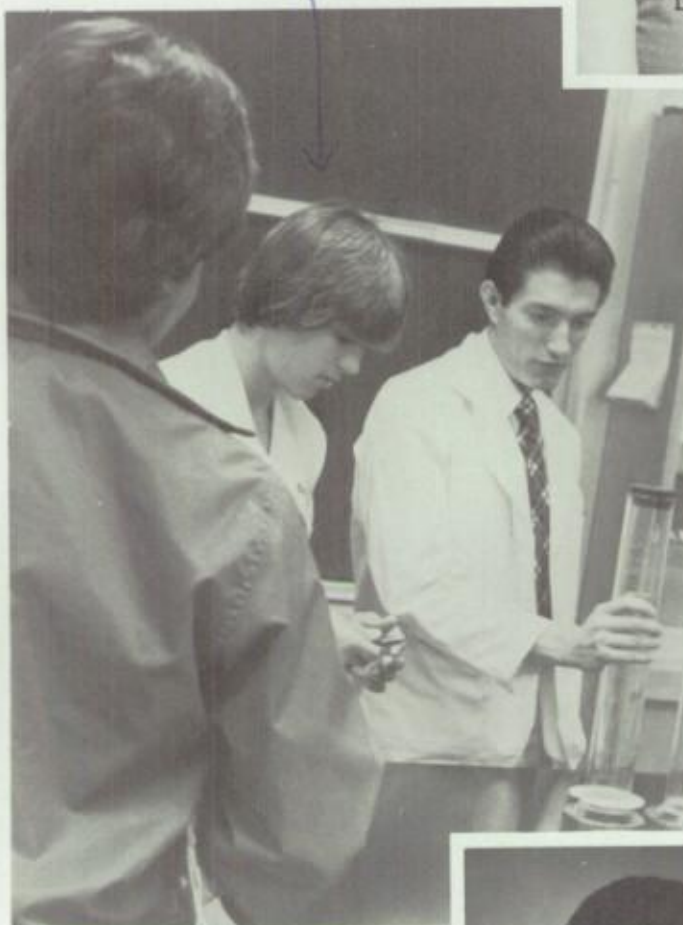

Many science students of earlier graduating classes have been accepted to noted technical and engineering colleges. Those students who do not participate in competition will still realize the quality teaching of the science department in years to come.

A Step Towards Higher Education

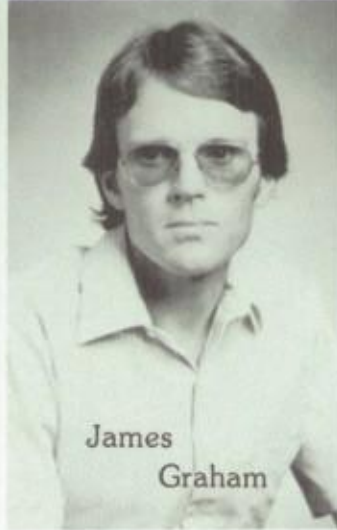

Learning about the past, the present and the future of this nation and the world is an important object of education. To survive in today's society, a person must be aware of what is currently happening in world affairs, what made it happen and what will be the results of those happenings. This is a necessity of utmost importance. Social Studies courses give students a base of American History and political theory and then, in more advanced courses, explore other governmental systems and their individual histories.

Voices of the Nations

Foreign language classes are a very high spirited section of our school, and with Flo Thomas, Elissa Viglianco, and Inga Flynn as directors, what could you expect? Flo Thomas makes the perfect department chairman because of her experience with German, French, and Russian not to mention her skills in Spanish. Corresponding with penpals in France, Elissa Viglianco closes the gap between two countries and enriches her students learning experiences. Inga Flynn expresses the true German culture as she gives first-hand knowledge of the language due to her predominate German background. Using their spirit and skills they lead their students into foreign lands to teach them of their customs, culture, and language.

Deep in thought, Dawn Botzong seems to think about the gift she has just received. By the expression on David Oleson's face it makes you wonder what is the secret that makes this punch the success of the day. Cultural observances seem to have strange effects on some people, here Sandra Willis is demonstrating one of those moments.

If at first you don't succeed, try, try again, Robbi Haynes seems to be doing just that as she tries to break open the piñata.

Home on the Range

You are what you eat . . . What are you eating? Health foods, gourmet foods, quick weight loss dietary foods — what is your pleasure? Is your food spiced with vitamins, flavor enhancing elements, or exotic nutrients from far away places? Do you care what you are eating as long as it tastes good, fits into your budget, and is not too difficult to prepare? If you read the labels on some of the foods you eat, you may wonder what food is. Reading about the preservatives and additives might deaden your appetite. What have you been eating? Do you really know?

The members of the Foods class do know what they are eating. That is one of the many things they learn in Home Economics, along with how to prepare various dishes.

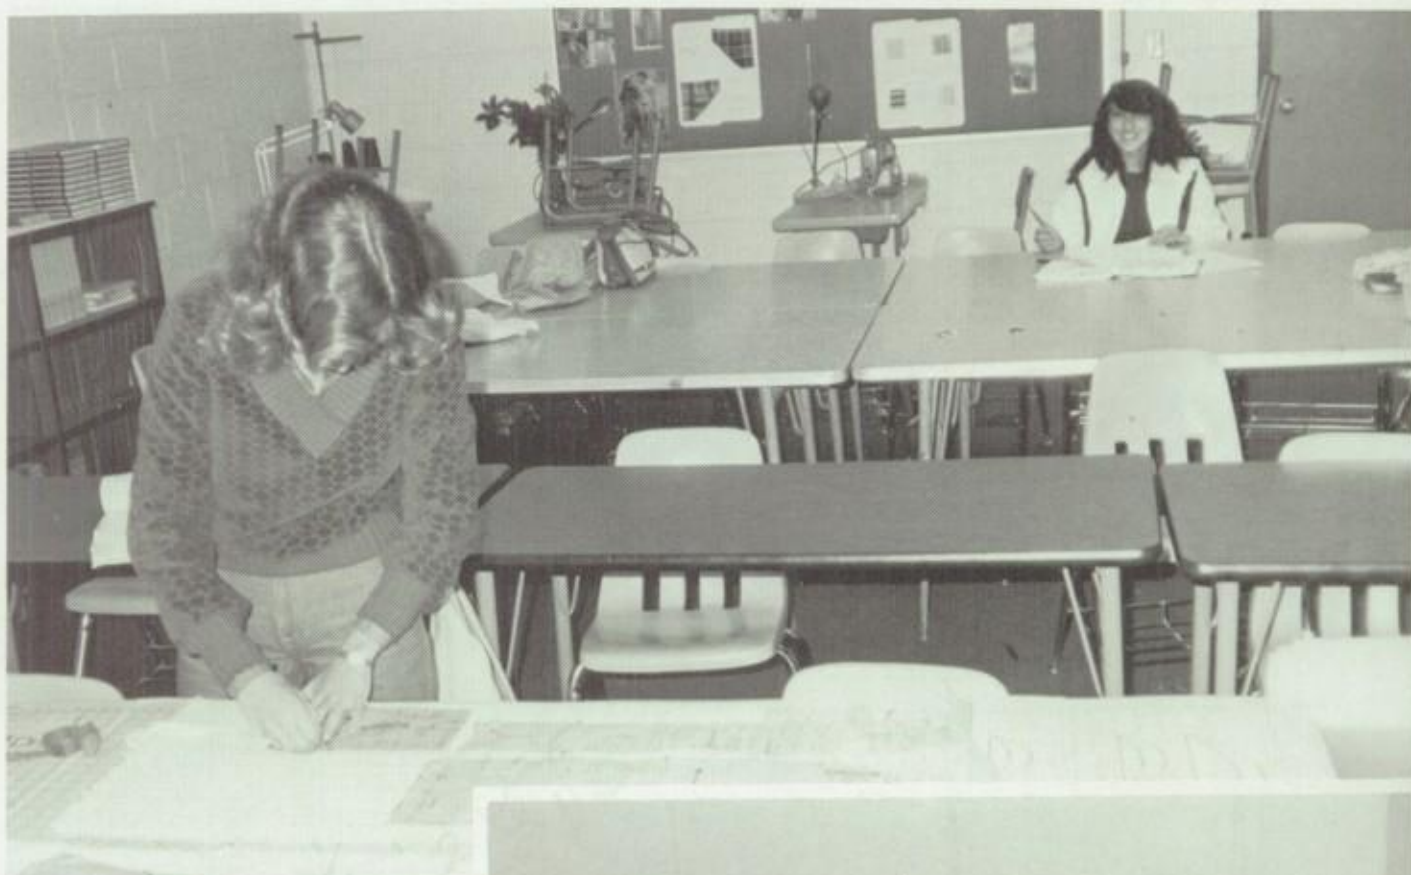

Making tasty concoctions is child's play for cooking experts Shari Martin and Antoine VanMeir. While they have a grip on things, Darren Francisco, Sherry McClaney, Derrick Francisco, Barbara Harrison, and Brian McDonough parted from the kitchen to participate in their own little cultural observance.

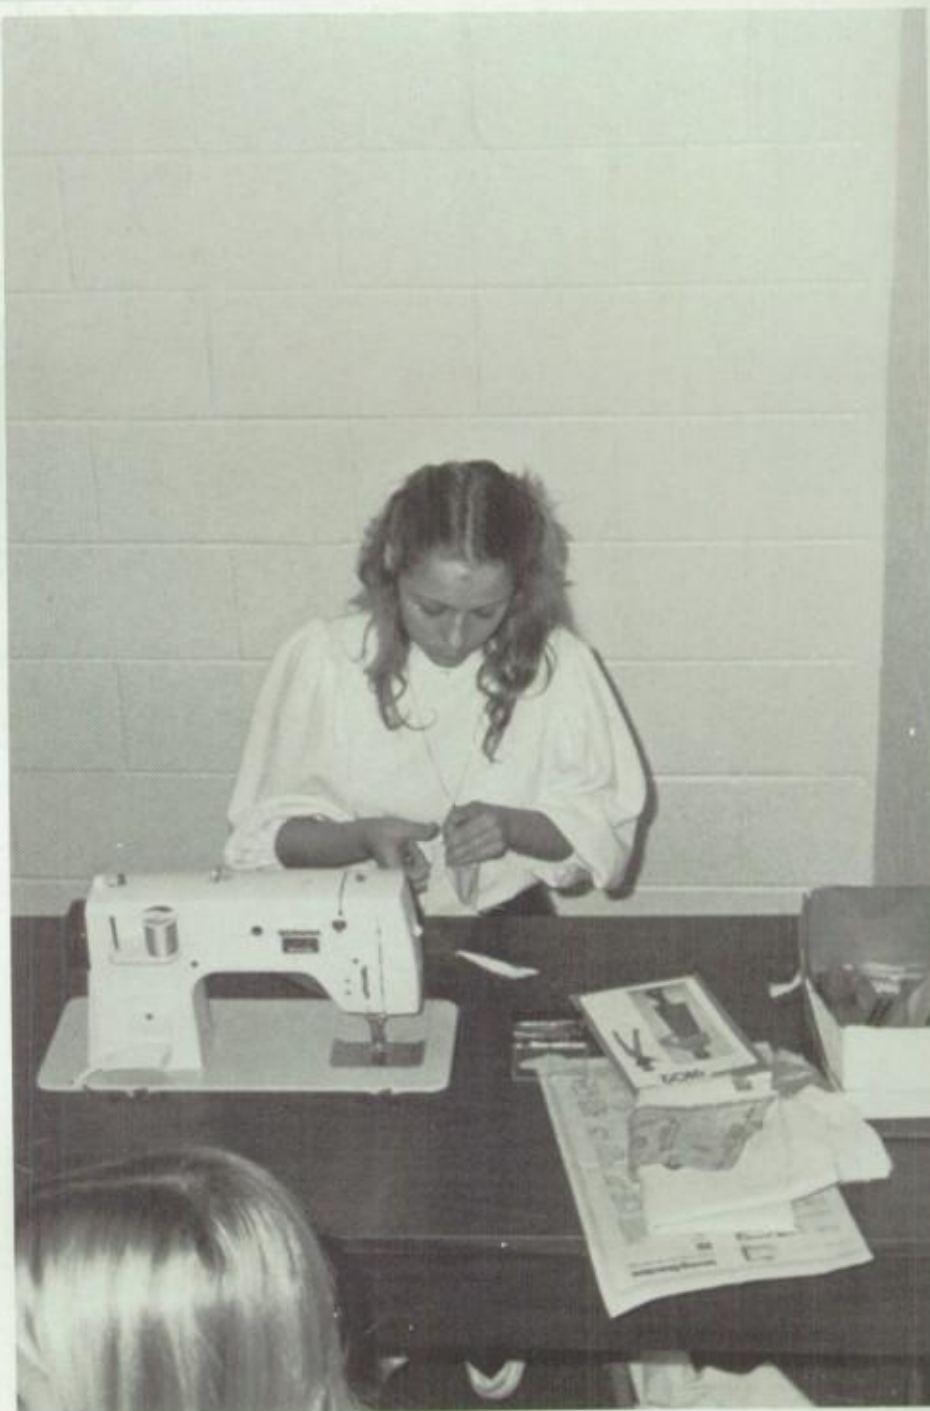

There's nothing quite like making your own creation. Doing it up in the kitchen, Dorothy Strasser whips up something special for dessert. Showing that cooking is not necessarily girls play, Keith Jackson and Brian McDonough seem to be at home in the kitchen. And now after a hard working semester, the foods class decided to leave the cooking up to Nabisco.

Before any sewing can be done a detailed layout or pattern is made. Crystal Hogan checks her pattern carefully before she starts. As a tailor would, Veronica Outler, makes some last minute alterations. Checking her work for any mistakes is Michelle Perry.

They've Got Things All Sewed Up

Sewing has always been an important part of life. The sewing occupation classes learn the fundamentals of reading patterns, and making products of their own patterns. They also learn the aspects of careers in the sewing and cloth management fields. Heading up the sewing department is a very important job. Mrs. Jean Schack, who graduated from Florida State University, has been teaching for 12 years. Mrs. Schack, born in St. Louis, Missouri, keeps busy with hobbies, crafts, sewing, and is an active member of FHA.

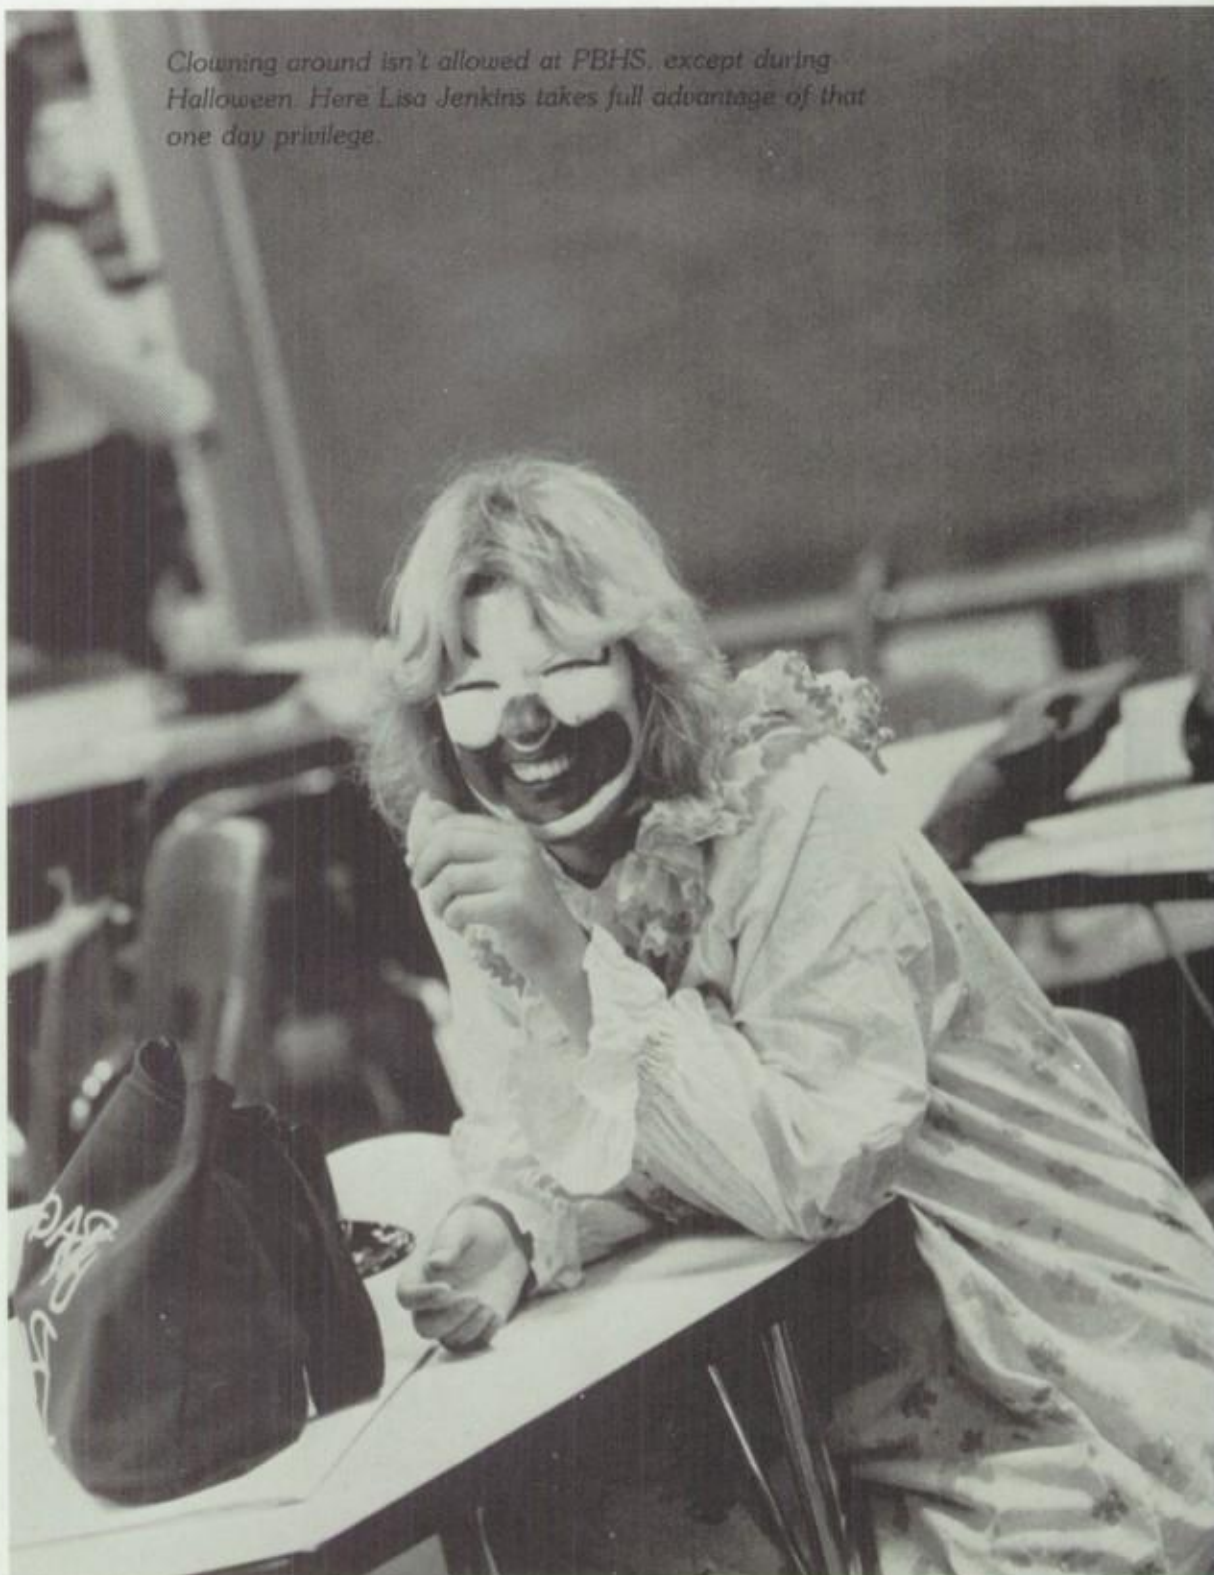

Jean Schack

Students often find themselves in a spot where they don't know what to do, here is the case as Mrs. Schack gives some insight to Leah Borie. Concentration is a key part of running a sewing machine, which Millisa Nelems shows as her eyes are glued to her machine. Senior, Jackie McMillan, works carefully on her design.

Puny Pirates

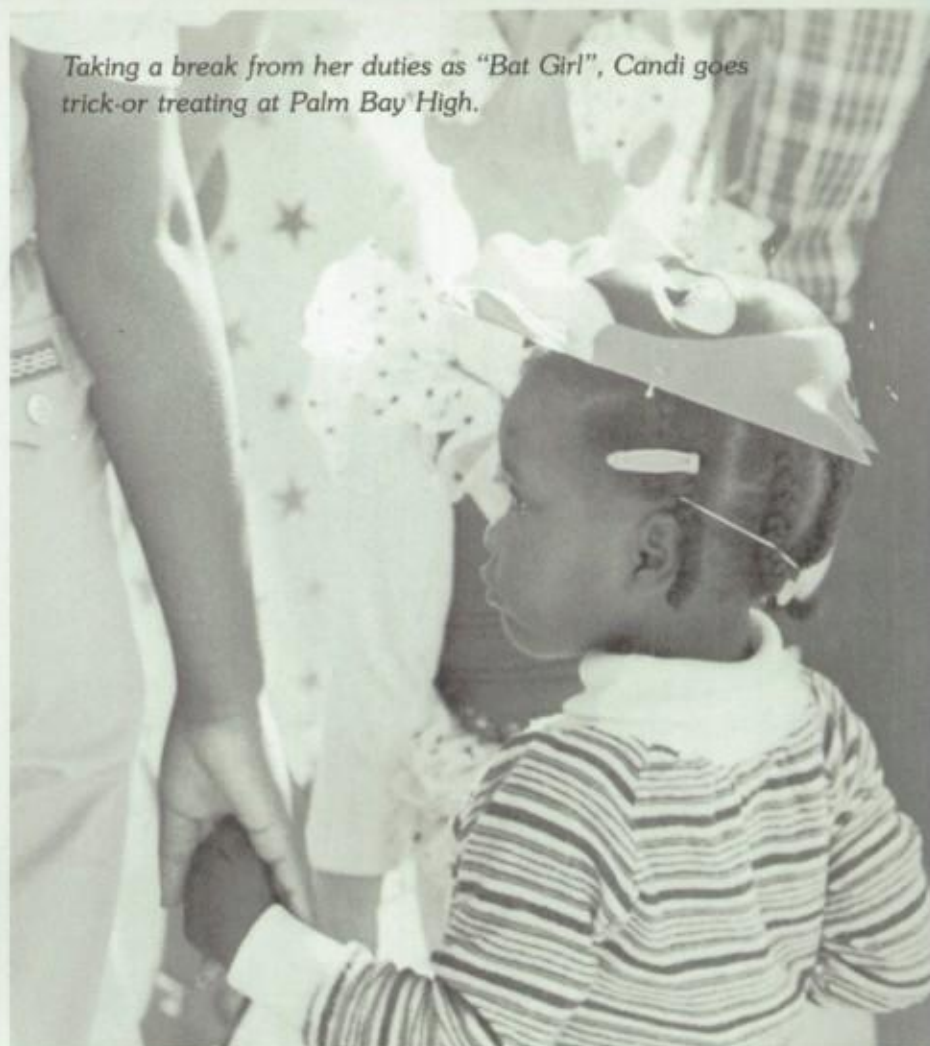

Though they are students the people in the child care classes are also teachers. Each day they are given the responsibility of taking care of eleven children left in their care. As the year progresses students in the child care classes learn to care for the nutritional as well as psychological needs of children. In spending time with children the students realize that parenthood is a big responsibility and not to be taken lightly. They may be teachers, but the child care students also have an authority over them. Mrs. Ruby A. Greene has been teaching for 5 years. She is a graduate of East Carolina University, enjoys playing tennis and doing needle craft, and is a member of the American Association of University Women.

Clowning around isn't allowed at PBHS, except during Halloween. Here Lisa Jenkins takes full advantage of that one day privilege.

Taking a break from her duties as "Bat Girl", Candi goes trick-or-treating at Palm Bay High.

Here, Gena Congobardi shows her Halloween spirit as she dresses up as something out of Love at First Bite.

Showing that little kids are filled with Christmas spirit too, Tony shows off the latest in holiday fashions. She may not have gotten candy canes and a monkey, but Sorga Jackson seems happy anyway. Even though she's still in high school, Lisa Jenkins still enjoys Christmas presents, here she teaches the children how to enjoy them too.

The Marine Corps Junior Reserved Officer Training Corps, (M. C. J. R. O. T. C.), now in its fourth year at Palm Bay High school, continues to produce high quality cadets who are a credit to the school as well as the Marine Corps which they represent. Leadership and citizenship are the high notes of the curriculum and it was evident around the campus as cadets held positions in the student government, National Honor Society, on every Varsity and Junior Varsity athletic team and in nearly every school club. Further, the unit continually presented itself with dignity and pride to the whole community as they provided color guards, parade formations, and participated in numerous civic activities. During the 1980-81 school year Palm Bay's Cadets were designated by the Marine Corps Commandant as an honor school and were among the top eight finalists for best unit in the Nation from among 68 Marine Corps J.R.O.T.C. units. 1981-82 found the unit marching forward as they continued to win team trophies and individual awards at each competition that they attended.

Leadership education is what its all about. Here Alex Beaufort uses his leadership abilities and calls cadence as his platoon leans back and struts in the PBHS Homecoming parade.

Teamwork and partnership is big in ROTC. Here Chris Harper makes sure his partners Dennis King, Terry Bartlett, and Barry Taylor are squared away before the PBHS Homecoming Parade.

Superior from Start to Finish

This has been a very rewarding year for the Pirate Marching Band. Throughout football season, the band proved their great abilities in both marching and music. At marching contest, the band received a well earned and long awaited Superior rating. The band participated in many activities this year, including marching at a Walt Disney World parade, and performing at the World's Fair in Knoxville, Tennessee.

Trumpeters Tracey Giles and Tony Nieves are in the spotlight for this number.

Her first year at being drum major, Neta Moya proves to be a winner with her great leadership abilities.

"Palm Bay High School proudly presents ... the Pirate Marching Band!"

Drummers John Rashley, Goode Wyche, and Stephani Dolci keep up the pace with their precise rhythm.

You'd think that Danny Figueriedo was up to something with that big grin on his face, but he's really just setting up props before the half-time show.

Leading the clarinet section are Linda Culberson, Pat Lockhart, John Jellesma, Angie Wolfe, and Wayne Allred, who are marching towards the field where they will perform.

Talk about a rowdy crowd, the Pirate Marching Band really knows how to add spirit to a football game.

Absolutely Inspirin

The band's dedication shown through continuous pep rallies, parades, and performances help to create a spirit of school pride and comradeship.

Rifle Corps member Joyce Dolci shows her pride as she marches with her head held high. Presenting the Palm Bay Marching Band are banner carriers Karen Ford and Tracey Kuhfeldt.

Let's get this show on the road! Baritone player Robby Clauges waits patiently for the parade to begin.

Here they come, walking down the street . . . no, it's not the Monkees, it's the Pirate Marching Band!

A Star Spangled Salute

Adding their own special effects, the auxillary units add excitement and color to the half-time shows. The flat corps, rifle corps, and feature twirler Jeannie Berry have received many superior ratings in their solo and ensemble contests.

Carolyn Kempa, Denise Tilley, Angie Gerhard, Evon Holmes, Regina Cameron, Joanne Mohrmann, Joye Lanham, Lisa Bender, Terri Carter, Margie Koehler, Jackie Woods, Marianne Rosaci, captains Sue Batten and Julie Palmer, Budine Robbinault, Gina Hannan, Rhonda Bridgewater.

Eileen Allen, Joyce Dolci, Sarah Cleaver, Ginger Walker, Rae Whitlock, Kelly Bartholomew, Angie Rhodes, Toni Byer, Captain Lisa Withrow, co-captain Pam Mitchell.

Flag corps member Carolyn Kempa helps to add that special touch with her routine. Being the only baton twirler at Palm Bay requires perfection, and Jeannie Berry shows this ability in her routines not only with batons, but also with fire and knives.

These qualities are what make up the members of the Symphonic and State bands. These groups have presented many fine performances, and this particular show is the Christmas Concert. With the combined talents of each musician and the variety of selections, the bands provided a very entertaining show. These bands have received many superior ratings in the past, whether as a group or at Solo and Ensemble Contest. The Symphonic and Stage bands both performed at the World's Fair in Knoxville, Tennessee.

The success of the band wouldn't be possible without the hard work of director Robert Hansbrough. He has been with Palm Bay for three years, and is also involved in the Florida Bandmasters, Brevard Symphony, and church choir.

Practice, Patience Perseverance

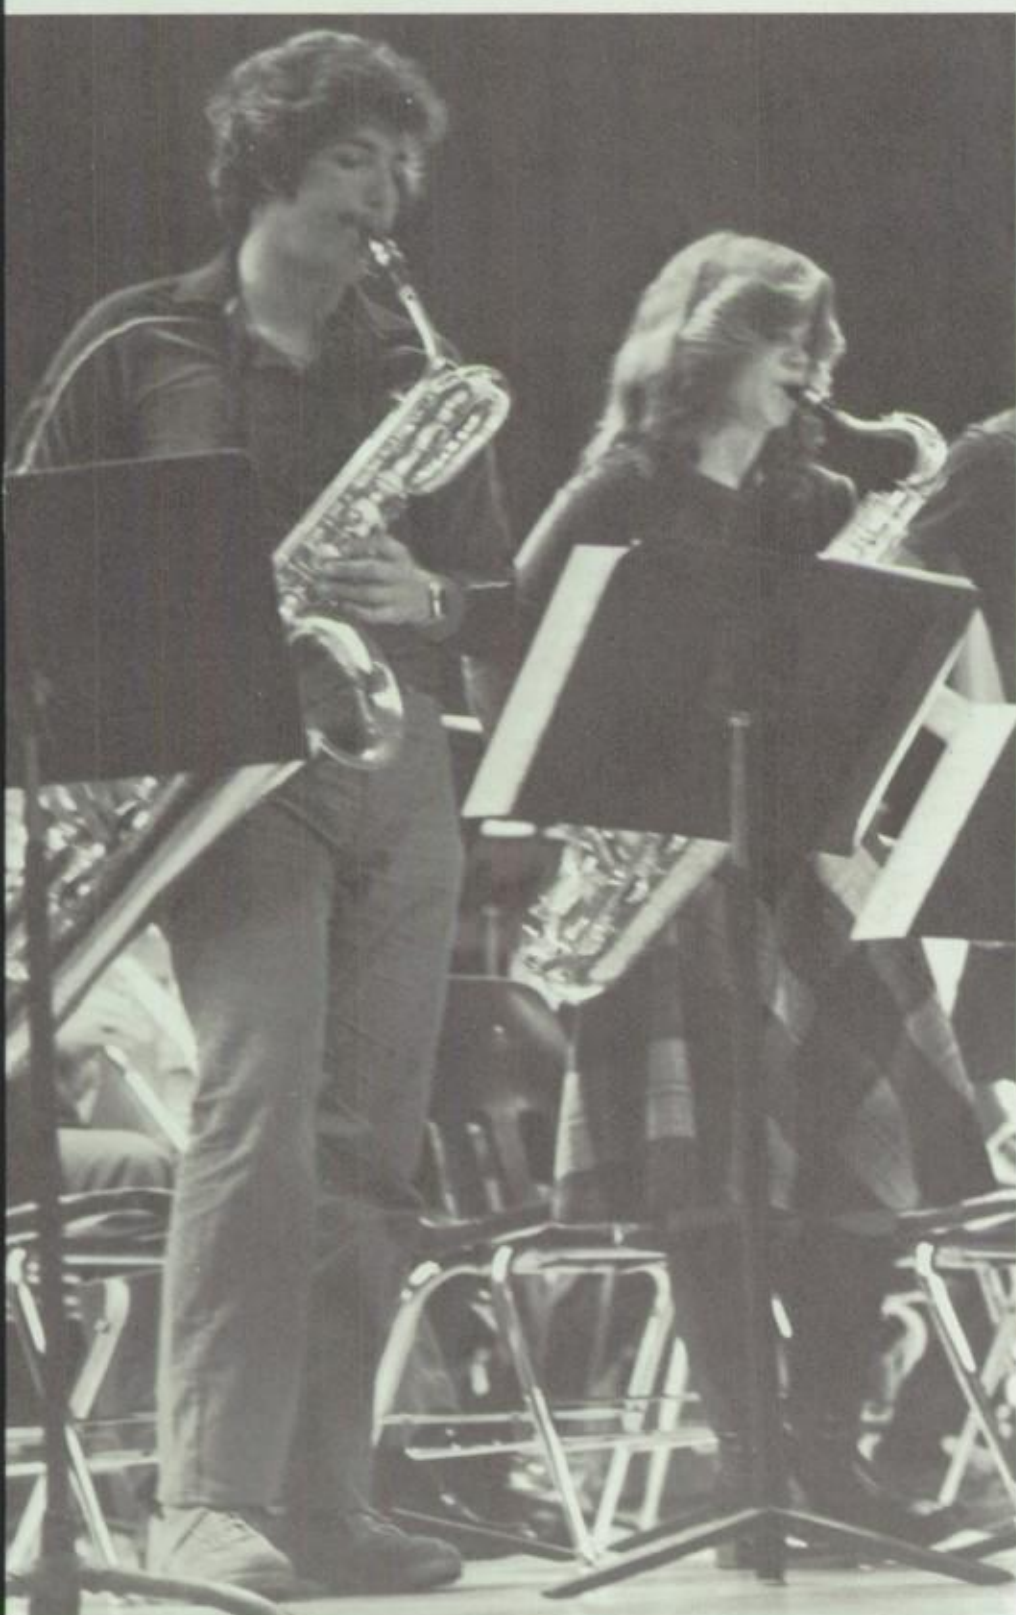

Robert Hansbrough

Although it may sound like Herb Alpert and Chuck Mangione, it's really just Jim Millspaugh and Rick Mueller playing trumpets for the stage band.

Directing the band is Mr. Hansbrough, who has dedicated a lot of his time toward band performances.

*The Symphonic Band can play everything from classical to modern, but always seems to play with style. Band members Kenny Caballero and Michelle Pitts jazz up the number with their saxophone playing. Pianist Leon Tucker stays carefully with the music, adding his own special sound.

Melodious Moments

The phrase "Girls Only" conjures up visions of a group of females gathered together talking incessantly, giggling and squealing. In the case of the Girls' Ensemble, this is definitely not true. The Girls' Ensemble is a small musical group comprised of serious, dedicated musicians. Musicianship of good quality, performed by talented people, is their ultimate goal. One form of chorus is that of a Concert Choir which, as the title may lead to, performs in concerts throughout the year.

Aiding the chorus teacher, Linda Marks, is Kathy Rabun, turning music sheet pages whenever necessary. A born leader taking time out from being Assistant Principal is James Parker, discussing the day's events with a few members of the chorus. Participating in the concert choir are Front Row: Beth Stone, Lisa Palieri, Nelsie Rivera, Susan Straub, Carolyn Joines, Chris Harper, Felton Woods, Tony Hudson, Kim Spikes, Robin Harrison, Hanna Brown. Second Row: Wendy Hamner, Sandy Starnes, Kathy Rabun, Leslie Miller, George Jackson, Kent Cooper, Heather Conn, Valieri Johnson, Darlene Wood. Third Row: Andrea Mills, Edna Holmes, Jennifer Harrison, Chip Knipfer, Steve Brewer, Harry McMillian, Sydney Moore, Jackie Seaman.

Stroking the keys with a smoothness Liberace would be proud of sits Phillip Fluellen putting more practice in behind the piano. Members of the Girls' Ensemble include Sandy Starnes, Susan Straub, Beth Stone, Carolyn Joiner, Lisa Paleri, Wendy Hamner, Jennifer Harrison, Darlene Wood, Heather Conn, Hanna Brown.

More Musical Magic

There are singing teakettles, singing birds and singing people. The last group, most prevalent here at our school, is a group called chorus. It is a very active group, with many outstanding performances each year, some in conjunction with other area high school choruses and some with the symphonic and concert bands.

Giving the audience a taste of his talent, Chris Harper stands in pride, singing his portion of the concert. Kathy Rabun is one of the few students with the ability to play the piano — here she is running her fingers across the keys for the entertainment of her listeners.

Participants of the mixed chorus are Row 1: Guanita Fite, Barbie Rogers, Beth Stone, Wallace Murphy, Leon Ellis, George Jackson, Donald LaChappelli, Leonard Weaver, Travis Riddick, Sonya Brown, Carolyn McNail, Debbie Politano, Vennzia Jerry, Jennifer Darling, Sandy Kleupfer; Row 2: Jennifer Harrison, Lori Calton, Linda LaPointe, Jean Davis, Andrea Mills, Kesoundra Terry, Phil Fluellin, Carlos Martinez, Dawn Lasch, Heather Conn, Kelly Jones, Kim Spikes; Row 3: Jenny Sego, Sharon Halzinger, Kim Vaughn, Jackie Varga, Dawn Ezelle, Budine Robbinault, Kathy Rabun, Angie Wolfe, Jean Youngberg, Kent Cooper, Cindy Head, Joyce Dolce, Robin Stark, Becky Strickland, Elizabeth McDuffie, Shon Hardison, Jackie McMillan, Darlene Wood.

Sizing Up The Future

This course is designed to help the student interested in a field of drafting to prepare for a more intense study in college. It helps to ease the rough edges for students entering architecture, industrial art and design, and many other related areas. The field of drafting has a multitude of opportunities. The limit is set in achievement only by the students desire and ability to excel.

With precise care David Nelson uses one of the fine lettering instruments available to drafting students. Some of the many students that occupy this room hard at work are Pattie Halloran, Solomon Urbanski, Tommy Warren, Sherry Trunpower, Kelly Swalla, Robert Stoddard, Phillip Stiffler, Warren Smith, and John Buckhalt. Preparing a drawing to be inked, Anne Dick puts the final touches in pencil.

Howard Hudnell

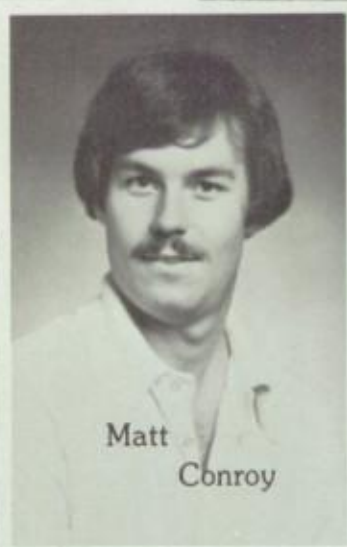

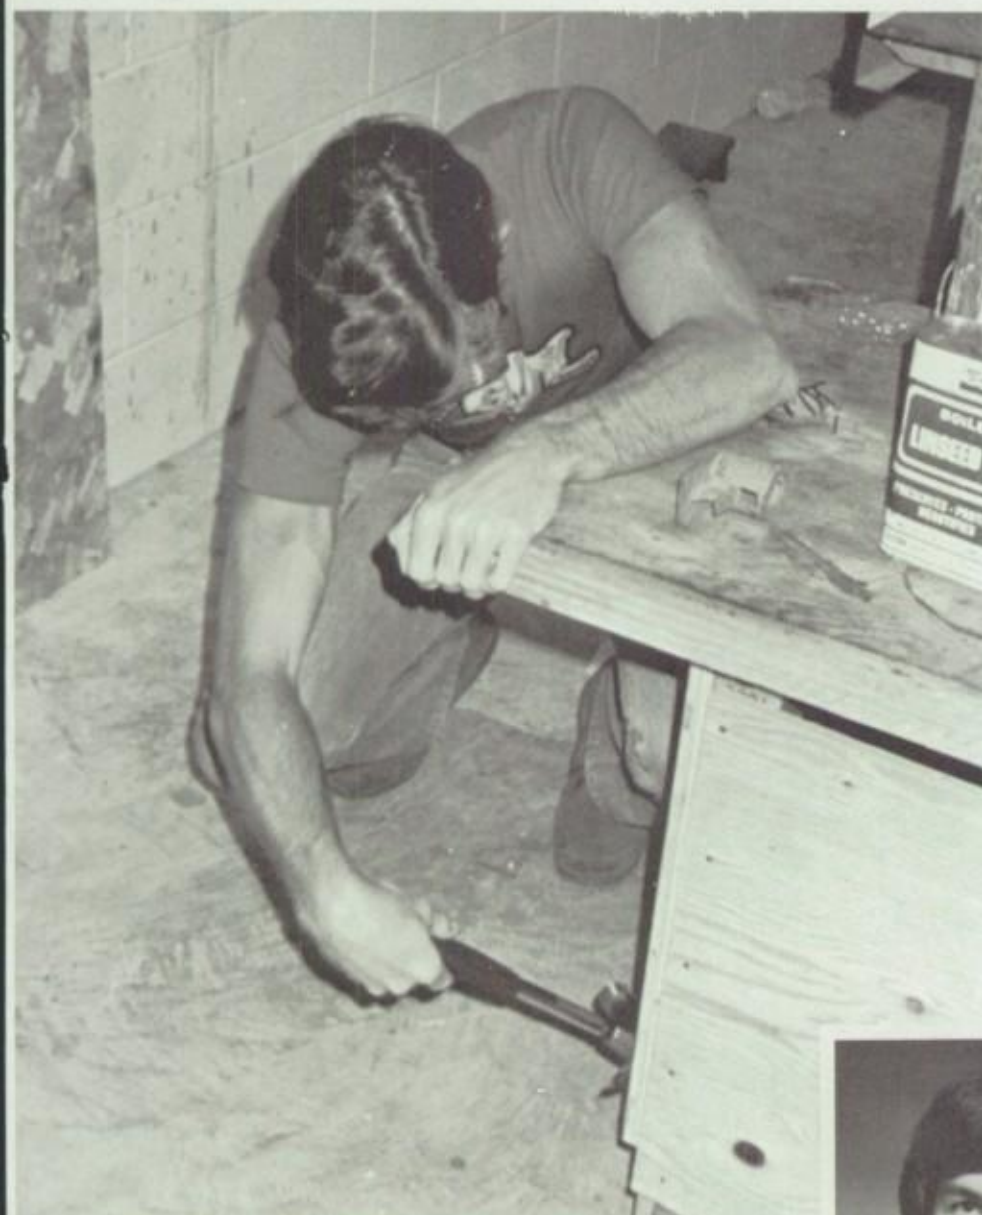

Matt Conroy

All of this work and more is overlooked by the fine drafting teachers Howard Hudnell and Matt Conroy, insuring top-notch work. Taking care of any stray pencil marks before he hands it in, Thomas Baringer uses an electric eraser to make the job easier.

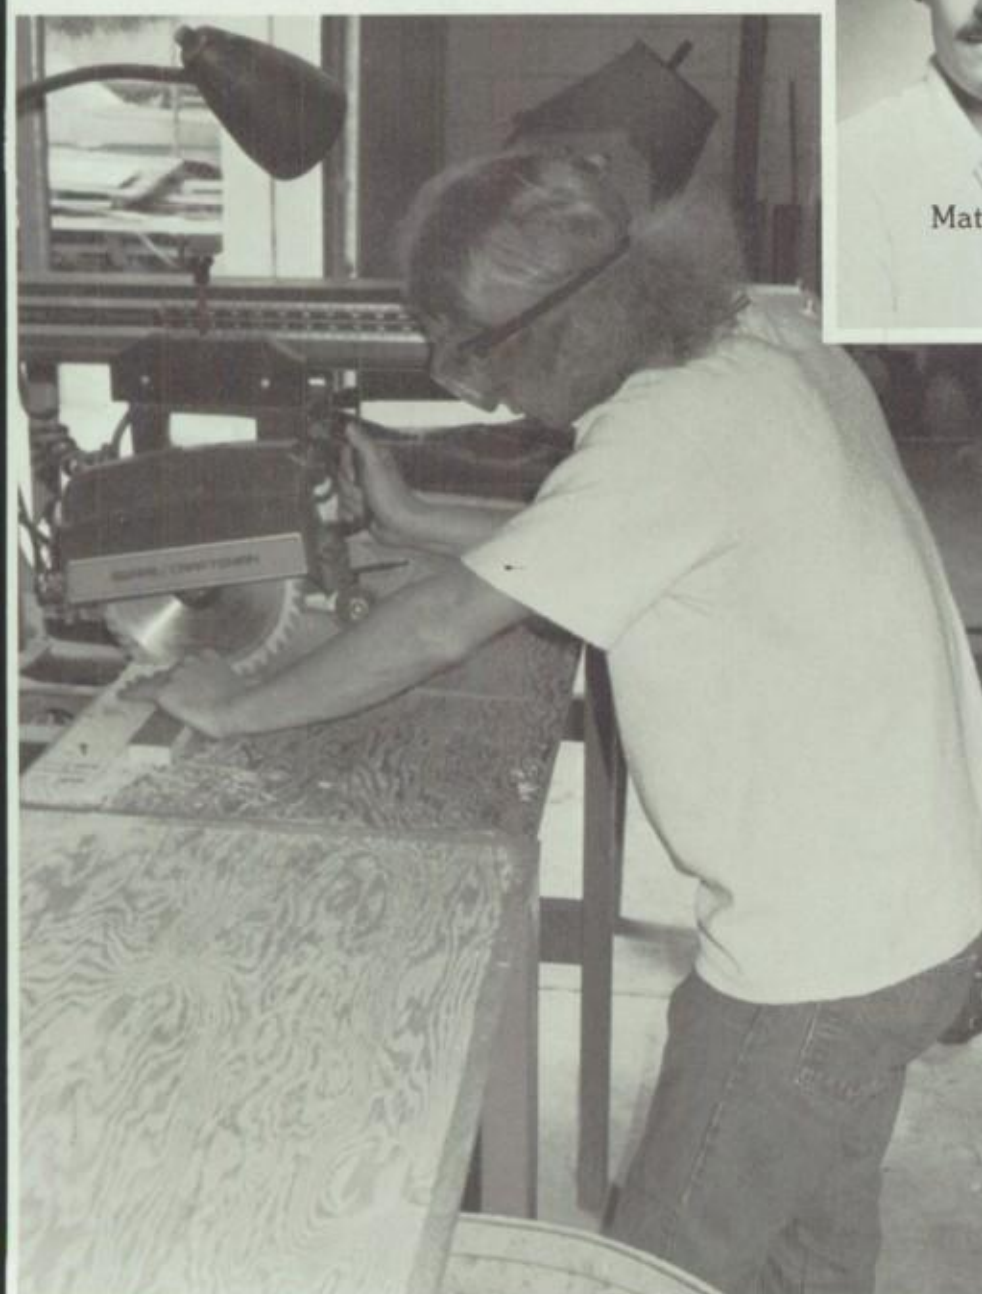

Building Foundations For The Future

Construction is a valuable class that teaches students how to use power tools, building materials, wood and safety around the shop. Our program furnishes the students with on the job training which will make them valuable assets in the job market.

Matt

Norman Wooten puts some final touches on the paint desk. Using the table saw can be dangerous, but Troy Griffin shows us the right way. Before painting, Todd Wright mixes up the right shades. Using the sander is a fairly simple job, as Tom Morissette shows us.

A Skill For The Future

In today's world, when prices keep increasing and mechanics charge more and more, some people are studying the trade of mechanics for the future.

They can learn mechanics for future occupations or to gain knowledge, so they can fix their own cars when they break down.

These students do not only learn the trade of mechanics, but also body work, painting cars, and tire work. The mechanics class is taught by James Fayed. Mr. Fayed graduated from the University of Central Florida with a Bachelor's degree in Vocational Education and a Master's degree in Administration/Supv.

Robert Bruce shows the mechanics class how to steam clean an engine. Robert Bruce works in a little elbow grease to replace a set of brake pads. Frank Vaccarello goes through an assortment of used tires to find just the right one.

James Fayed

Drawn To The Future

Some of an artist's skills are a natural talent, but these students work hard to make it closer to perfection. Many crafts are taught in these classes. Included are drawing, painting, paper art, basket weaving, and working with clay. These classes not only provide a way for students to express themselves, but may also prepare them for a future career.

Molding and shaping is the key to making this lump of clay into a masterpiece, and Louis Cardenas attempts the challenge. Someone has to do the dirty work, and in this case it's David Lockhart who gets to mix the ingredients. Artist Mabel Chaparo works on her drawing as John Newport looks on. Drawing is definitely one of Melanie Powell's attributes, and she proves it here with another fine drawing.

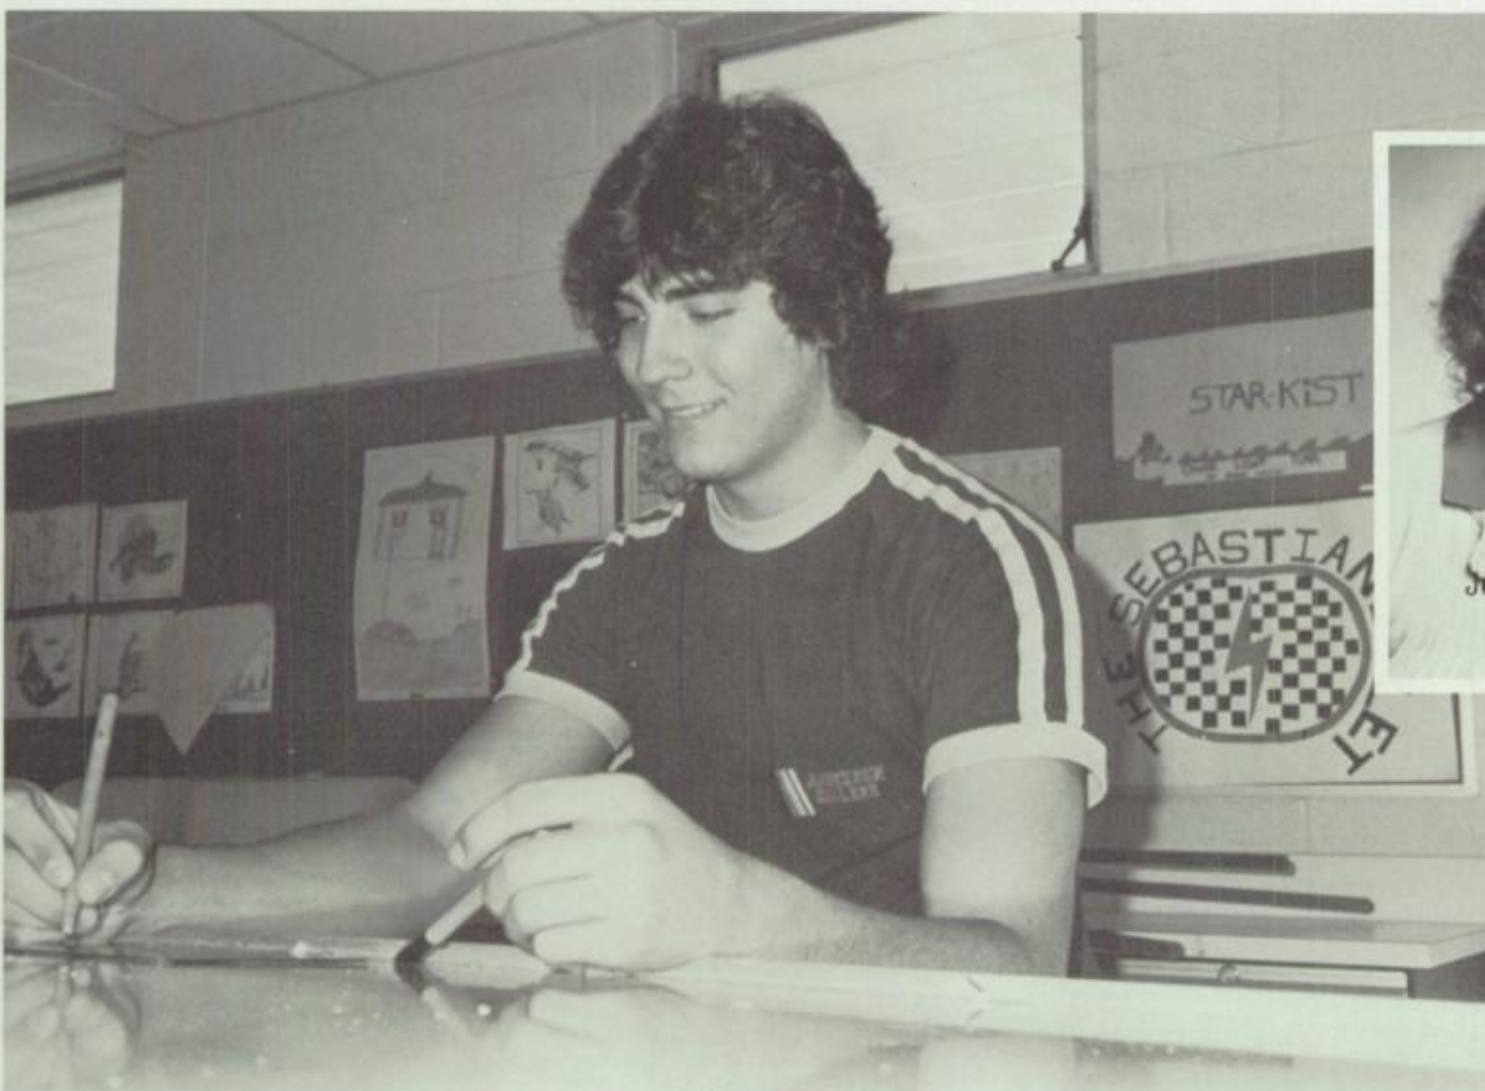

Airbrushing takes a skillful talent, and that's exactly what Brian Fein has to make this picture perfect.

Sketching with total concentration, Robert Griener makes sure each line is precise.

Etching is no simple task, but artist Cliff Andrean seems to do it with ease.

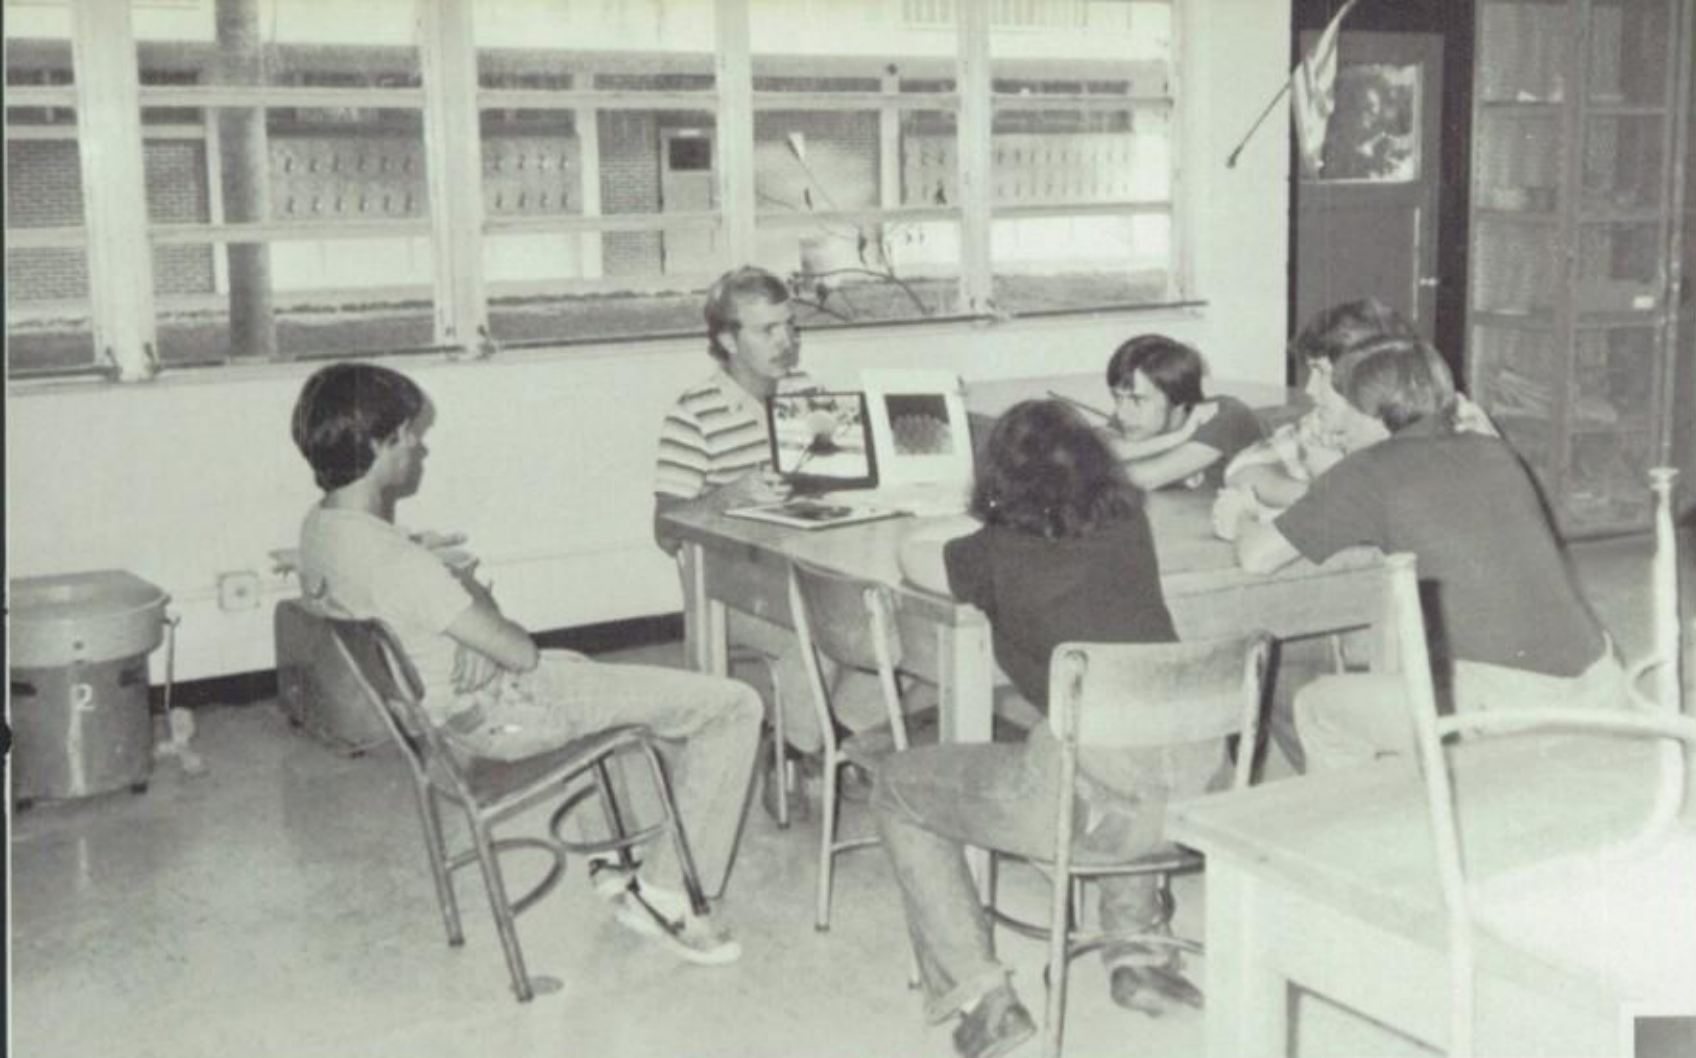

In A Flash

It seems like everywhere you look there is some sort of Photography, whether it be sports, fashion, nature or news. The students of photography learn basic composition as well as how to develop film and print pictures. It's this type of specialized training that will make up the photography field of the future.

Leading up the Photography and Arts and Crafts department is a graduate of Central Michigan University. Craig Munger, who was born in Bay City, Michigan, has been teaching for seven years and keeps busy in his spare time by being a coach for the Track and Cross Country team.

Senior Billy Burton takes a last look at his negative before he starts his print. Developing a print takes a number of timed steps, and as the final stage is complete, Bob Tutwiler looks at his print. Filters can make a big difference in the contrast of a print. Here Carl Fisher has found a better way to use them, as a pair of sunglasses.

Craig
Munger

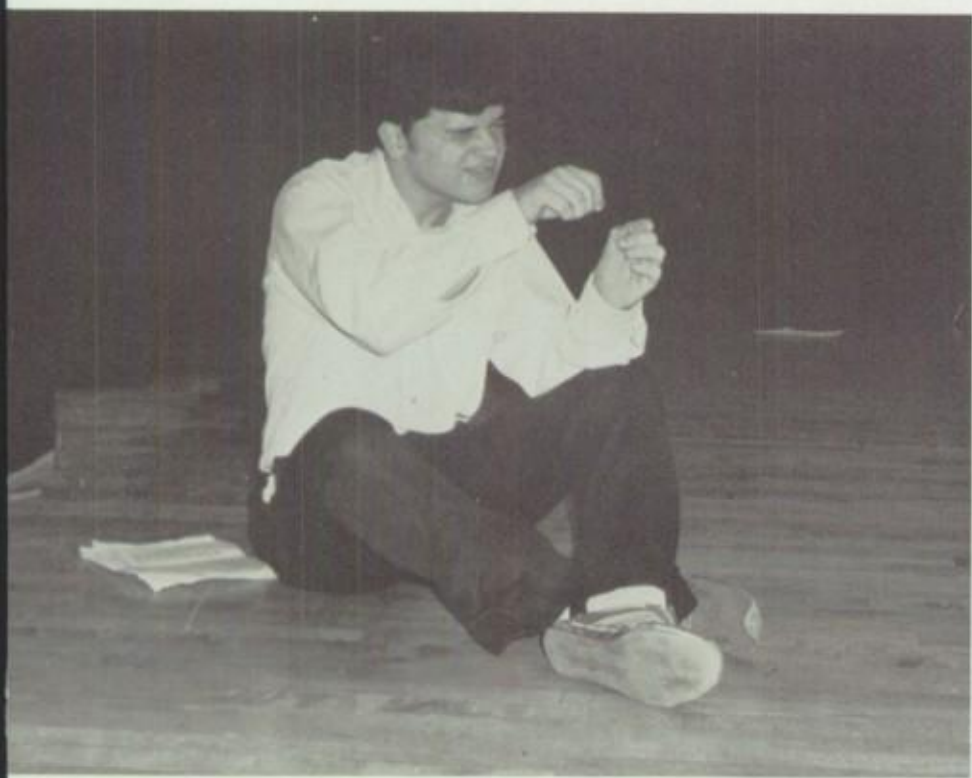

Comparison is the best way to compare the quality of a photograph. Here Coach Munger compares prints with Larry Furtado, Patrina Kilborn, Joe Vermilye, Scotty Miller, and Ted Fernandez. As Tracy Mead agitates her print, she gets an idea of how it will turn out. Before attempting a print Rosie Petralia checks all her calculations.

The Final Scene

Pantomime is an old art form of drama that uses gestures to convey an idea without using speech. Mime is used in many of today's comical performances, making pantomime a great form of entertainment. Not only did the drama classes learn how to use mime as a means of communicating through gestures, but also studied many interesting facts about character analysis, line interpretation and improvisation.

Mime illusionist, Shantell March, has a convincing way to fool her audience into thinking she has a glassful of water. Making it possible to swing at an oncoming fastball, Ernie Padgett shows how he uses his mime technique. Running a little skit involving mime, Jennifer Harrison and Lisa Palieri have no trouble realizing that their ability is unlimited.

Realizing that mime is so easy, Tony Hudson shows his ability to thread a needle. Of course this is not how Shields and Yarnell started out, mimers, Shantell March and Kris VanScoy show their grit at a game of tug o' war.

Getting Down To Business

The skills learned in the business occupation classes are great attributes for the present and future. Among the courses taught are typing, shorthand, telephoning, interviews and other office work. These classes are the first step towards a career in business occupation.

Concentrating on her test, Kellie Coble is careful to do her best. Making a mistake is a normal part of learning to type, and Cheryl Johns stops to correct her error. Mrs. Slaughter's class works diligently on their shorthand.

Doing Well

Diane Cargill

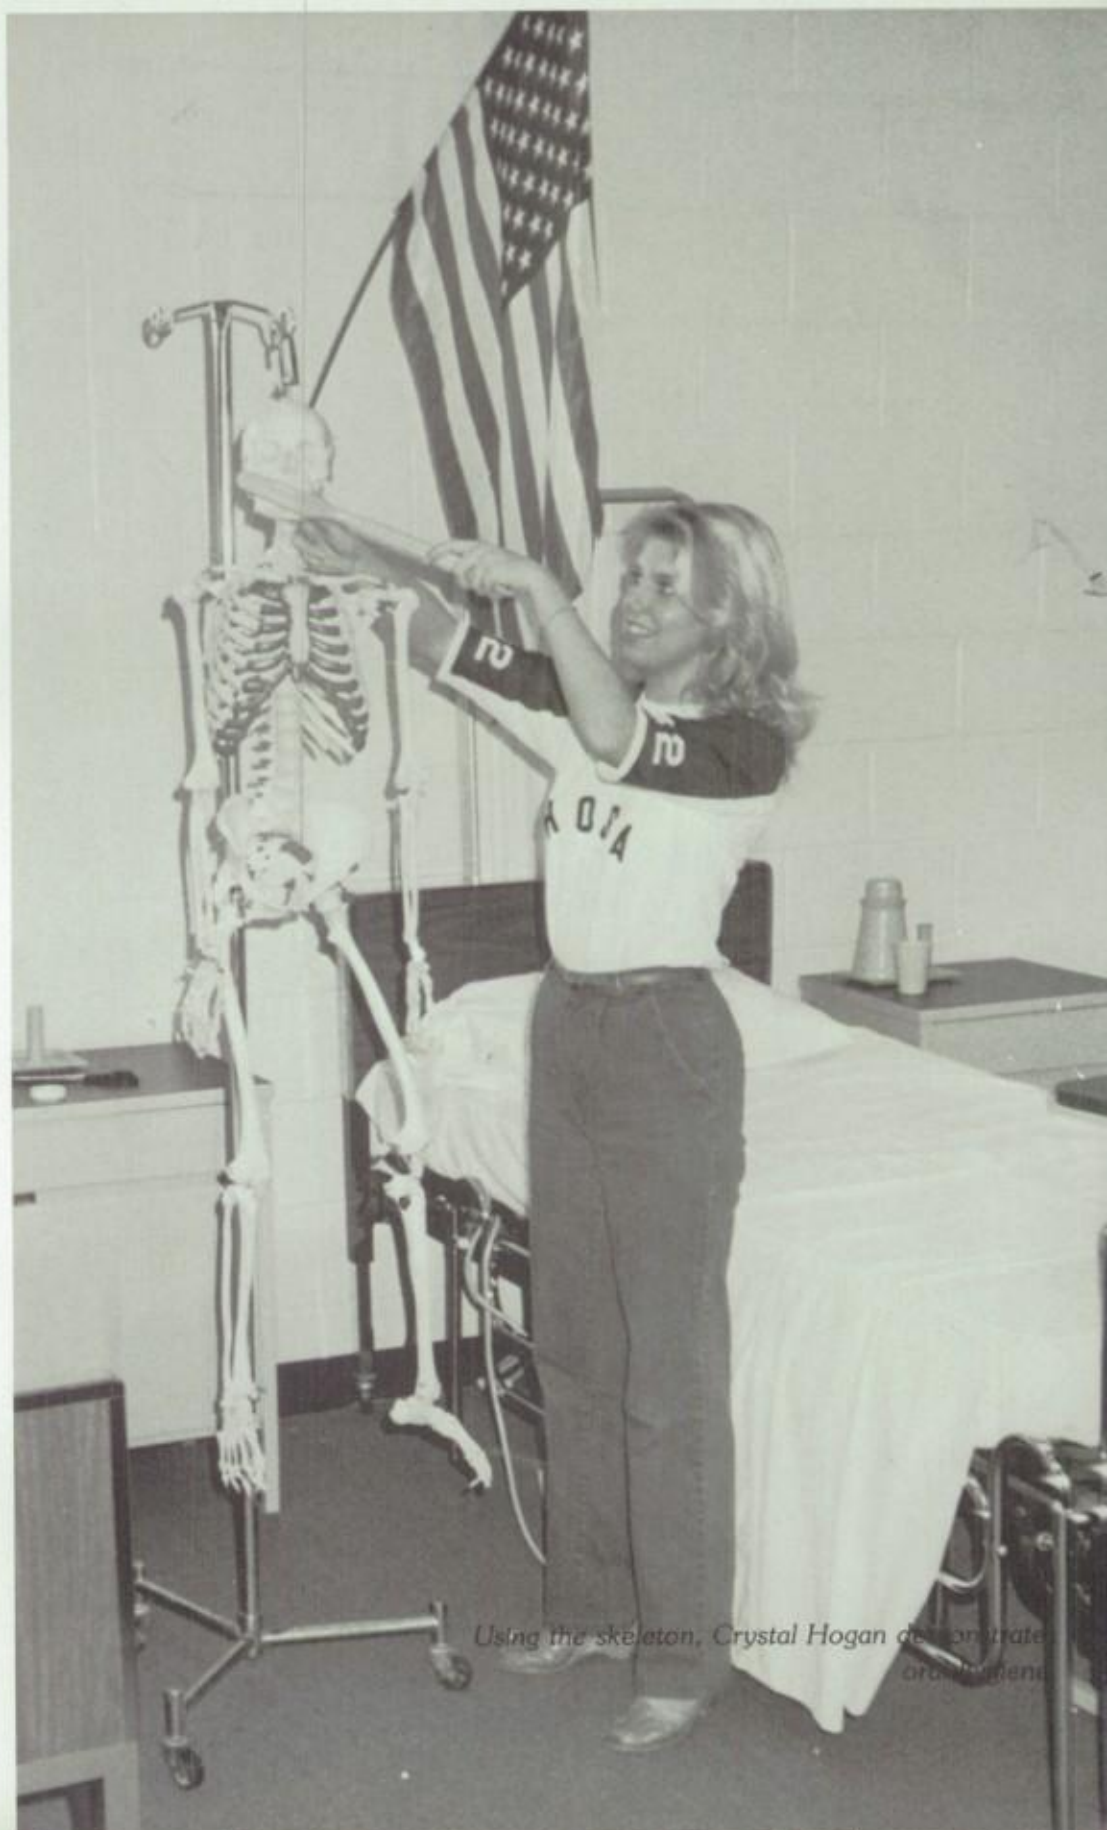

Quick on your feet is a necessity in an hospital. here Karen Jones shows her quickness as she rushes Faith Faella to the X-Ray room.

The hospital is a germ free world, and to make sure it stays that way, nurse Nelsie Rivera prepares Jill Conley for isolation.

The Health Occupation students are responsible people. They have learned skills, in and out of the book, that many of the highly trained nurses and doctors have learned themselves. They actually applied those skills second semester this year and were employed by the hospital to work as nurses' aids. They have truly done and will do more of what this school motto says: Enter to learn; go forth to serve.

The leader of the pack, a registered nurse that graduated from Central Maine General School of Nursing, is Diane Cargill. She's teaching them what she's already learned. That, and the years of active duty as a full time nurse, has led her to gain the admiration of her students. A teacher who loves working with kids as well as she enjoys them deserves admiration.

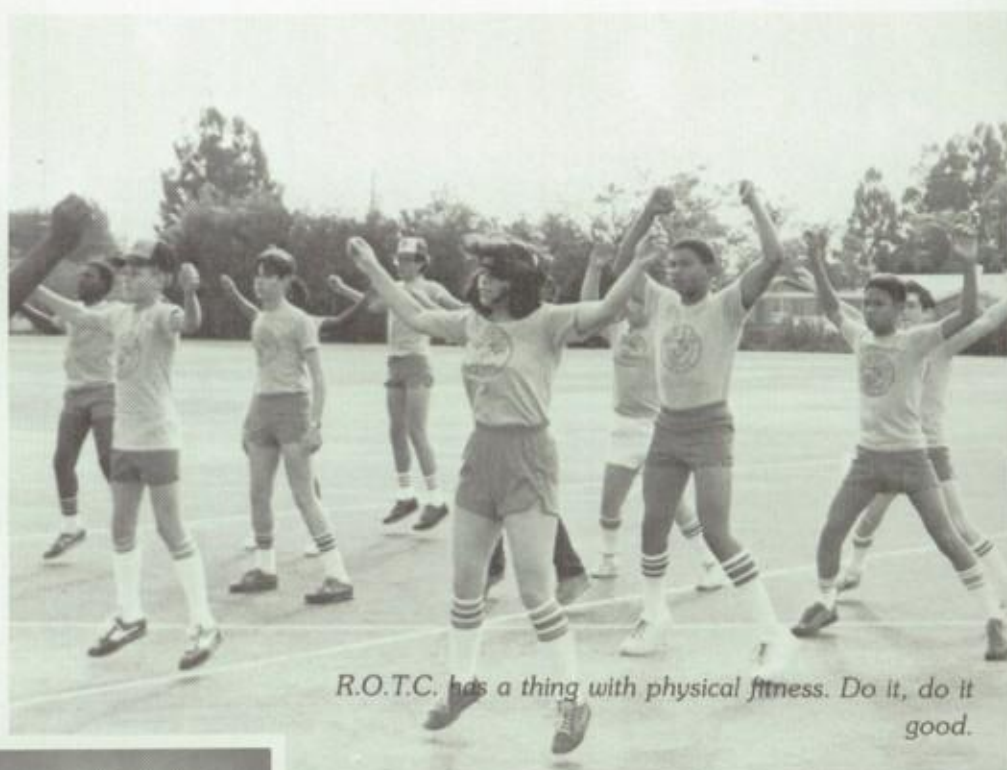

Using the skeleton, Crystal Hogan demonstrates anatomy.

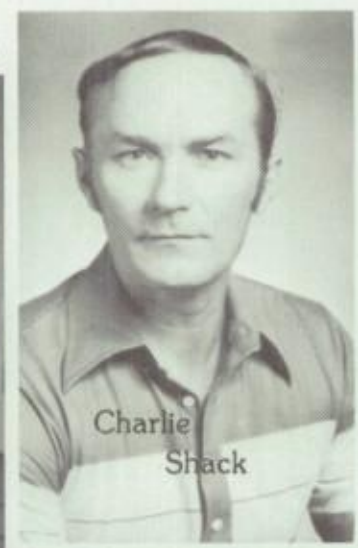

Having a baby is a big experience. Lesa Johansen didn't exactly have a baby but both she and nurse Denise Witte learn how to care for a new born. When someone's life is at stake you have to know what to do, here Lauren Shortell demonstrated one of the most common life saving techniques, mouth to mouth resuscitation. On her run of checking patients, nurse Cheryl Symonette checks patient Patty Aikman's pulse. Caring for someone is what its all about when you're a nurse, here Anne Ritcher shows Carol Ehlinger how much she cares by taking her blood pressure.

... Of Sound Mind And Body ...

P.E. (Physical Education) is a class that most students benefit from. It prepares the body for physical games such as intramural softball, basketball and soccer. It is a class where boys and girls work together hand in hand, side by side, or whatever it takes to achieve victory. Students are disciplined as well as taught the rules and regulations of various games. They have written examinations as well as physical examinations to see what they have learned. Health, a branch of physical education, is also being taught to the incoming freshmen. Health prepares the mind to be ready for the stress P.E. will put on the body.

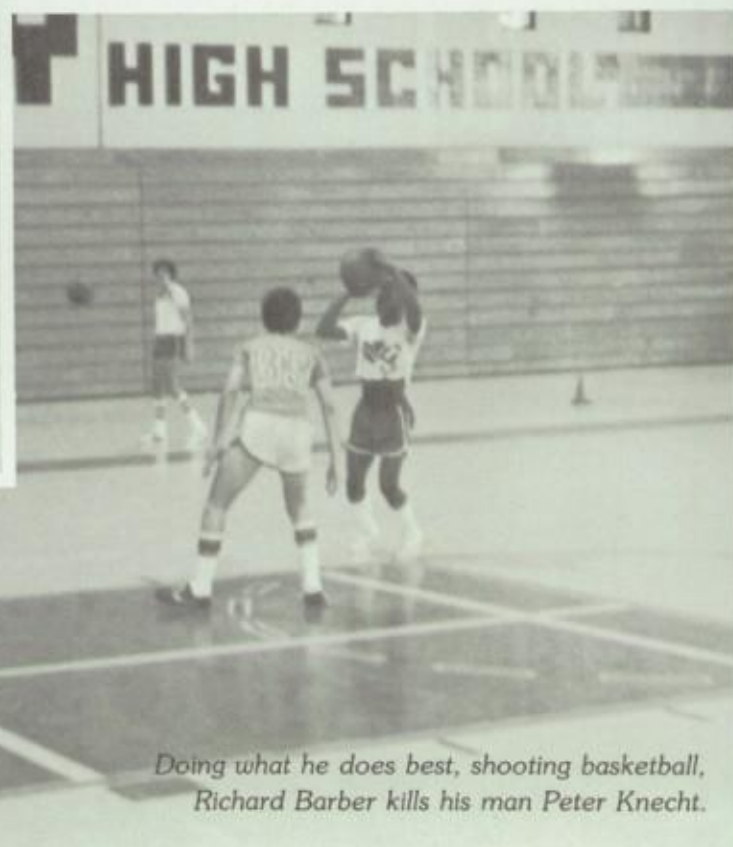

R.O.T.C. has a thing with physical fitness. Do it, do it good.

Doing what he does best, shooting basketball, Richard Barber kills his man Peter Knecht.

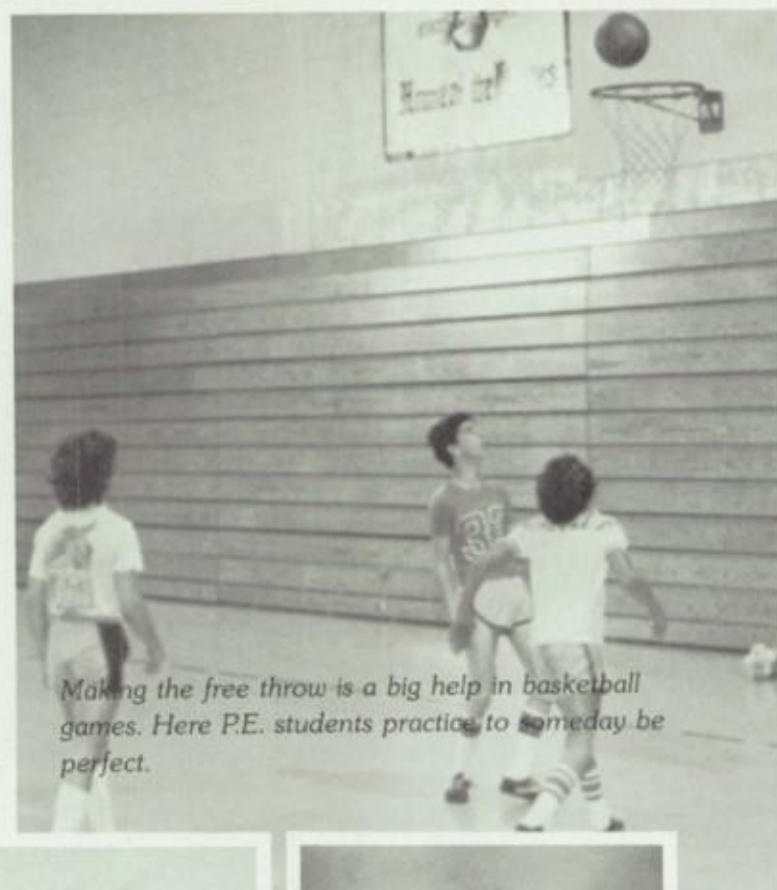

Starting the game starts right here. Valerie Ratliff has a mission — to boldly kick off with Raymond Roy.

Shooting basketball is Sonja James' specialty; she shoots good enough to give Mike Alazraki notes

Will these guys really go at it this hard? They will if it's for a grade. Here Danny White, Chris Lafayette, Jimmy Roseman, Mark Fontaine, Mike Mosey and Peter Knecht show how hard they go at it.

Making the free throw is a big help in basketball games. Here P.E. students practice to someday be perfect.

Keeping In Step With The Future

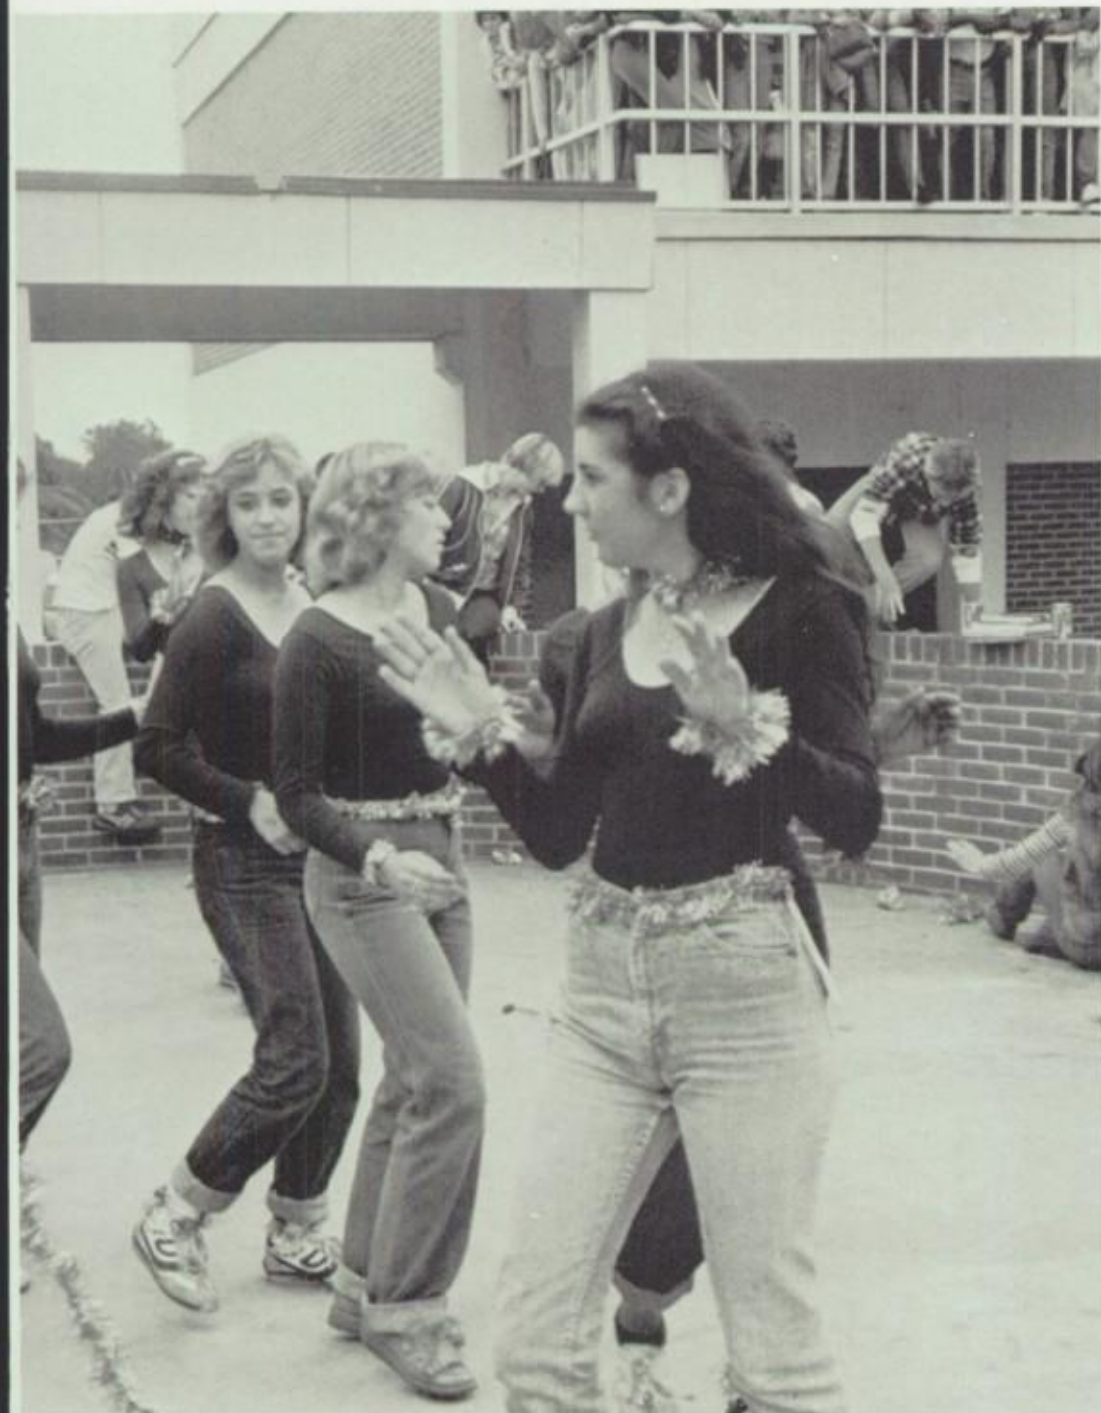

Dance isn't easy. Then again anything worthwhile isn't. Main objectives of Modern Dance are to instill beauty, strength and originality into the individual. Instructor Rhonda Gordon creates the perfect atmosphere for dance, for she is a dancer herself. While Linda Marks coordinates dance with music and makes the routines come to life.

In dance routines, each dancer must be in precise coordination with others. Here Valerie Johnson, Yalanda Smith and Maureen Berry illustrate this necessity. While working for perfection, it seems that Vicki Elull, Betty Whedbee and Bonnie Lucci don't mind the hard work.

In a still moment of the routine, Zina Walker is poised gracefully waiting for the action to begin.

At the Christmas Party in the commons area, Betty Whedbee, Chris Opperman and Donna Hawk present their talents for the student body's entertainment.

Performing isn't easy. Especially in front of friends, but Naudia Hasehmatina and Rhonda Biederman are able to do the job. Dancing is not always fun, but it looks like Cheryl Smith and Pat Steeman are having a good time.

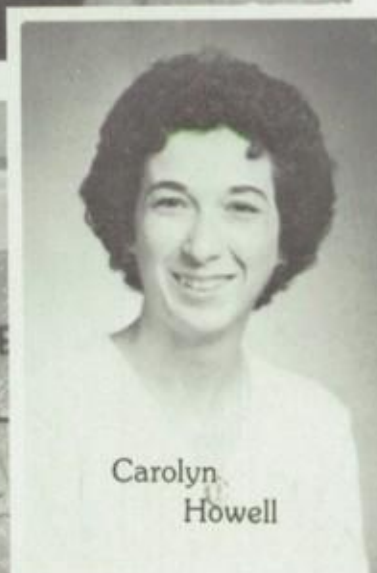

Science Research is designed to give creative students who are interested in various scientific subjects a chance to research their interests in depth. Each student chooses a project, which they will work on for the entire year. This project is entered in several local, area, state and national competitions. This program has been very successful and beneficial for participating students over the years. Some of their projects have been entered in the Regional Science Fair, the Florida Junior Academy of Science, and an area talent search.

Science research students learn there's more than one way to make a decision. Discussing their knowledge of computers, David Sian tries to get his view across.

David Sian gives John Spradlin some helpful advice on decorating the display. Cooperation like that with Sandra Swartz and Richard Roberts makes tasks a lot simpler. Eric Robinson prepares to assemble his computer project.

In The Beginning

How true!

... as a Freshman, I got lost in the building maze more than once. Couldn't find my locker for three weeks. Ran scared for I don't know how long. Received wrong directions from helpful Seniors. Found out soon enough that I didn't know very much. Could not get high grades by just wanting them. Tried hard to look like a Sophomore, or even a Junior. Thought that the school year would never end. Yelled at all the games until laryngitis set in. Finally discovered that I like being a Freshman.

Through Thick and Thin

Some say that knowledge can be absorbed, it looked like Richard Barber was trying out the theory. Freshmen need some rest too, and here Brent Zellers was doing just that; resting during his busy first year of high school. Tradewind editors Sherrie Deane and Robin Harrison collapsed from the pressures of their first deadline, they soon recovered to go on to begin the second edition.

Most Palm Bay High students have one special quality, class. A pirate may be a pirate, but here at Palm Bay it is done with a certain finesse, a unique style that is rarely viewed anywhere else.

Knowing well that they are the backbone of tomorrow, Palm Bay students are learning as much as possible; many are deeply immersed in community, civic, and church activities. They contribute to, as well as enhance, their surroundings.

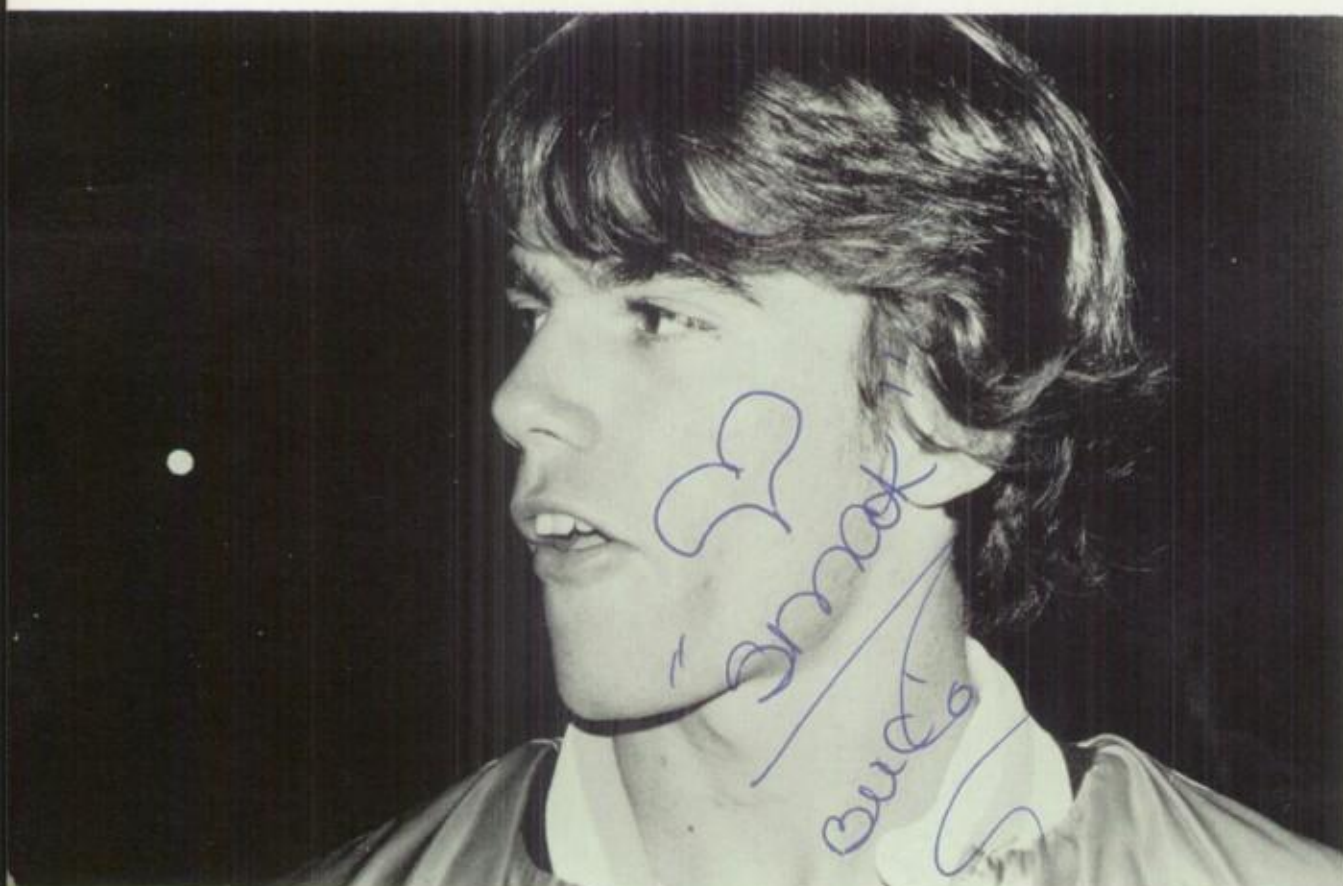

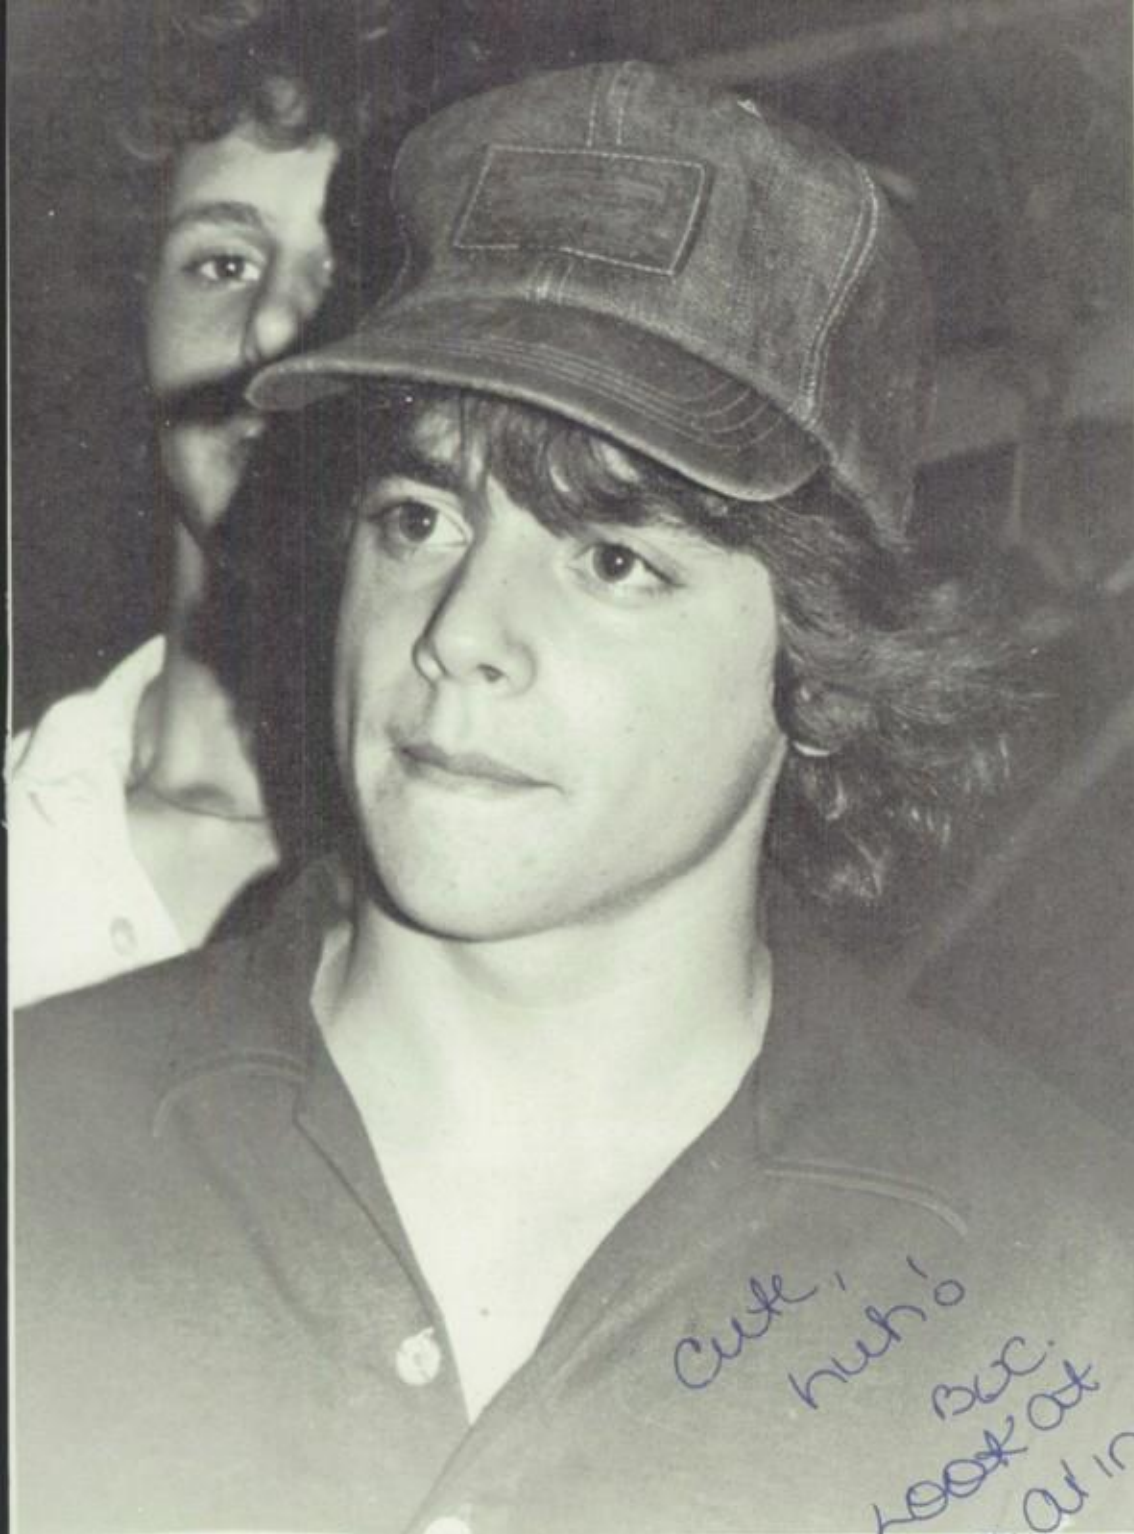

Here, carrying out the first official duty of a senior, Ron Carl and Mike Cameron experience that momentous moment, having their senior portraits taken. Concentrating on the important task of taking statistics is sophomore Danny Scott. It looked here like senior Tom Morissette had finally found a quarry worthy of his pursuit, but who can ever be sure?

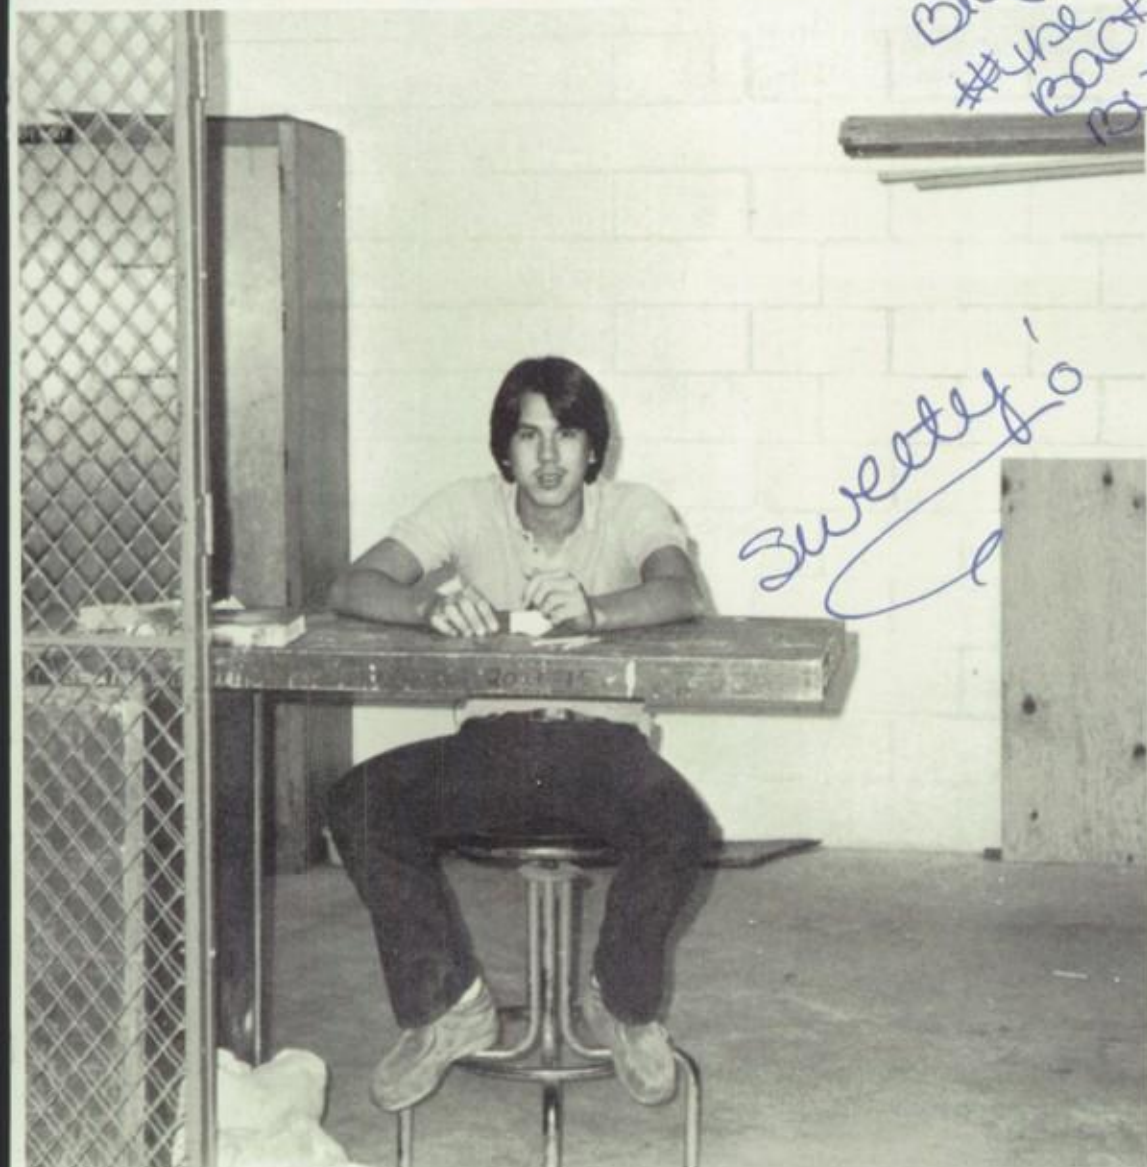

Each class of Palm Bay High tries to leave behind a little bit of themselves for others to learn by. There is no better teacher than experience, but the students at Palm Bay try to watch out for each other. Older students try to prepare the younger ones, share their experience and wisdom, warn them about life.

There are many special students at Palm Bay. Some of these people are special, not because they excel in one certain category, but, because of their personality. They care about others and they won't turn their back on a friend.

Even though some think high school football is a waste of time, Amy Chenevert and Vicki Ibsen seem to be enjoying the game they're watching.

Running after what you want is not unusual, but it looks like Tim Pasonski isn't going to waste his time running, he's decided to shoot down his prize.

The Time Of Discovery

THEN, as a Sophomore, I
 Still couldn't spell the word correctly.
 Finally found my locker.
 Soon discovered that the subjects weren't getting any easier.
 Realized that low grades don't sit well with parents.
 Became involved in many, perhaps too many, activities.
 Began to think of goals to try to reach.
 Found that my attitude towards many things and friends was changing.
 Was informed quite clearly that skipping class wasn't the smartest thing to do.

Once again the diligence of the class of '84 is shown by John Ashley as he works on while freshman Amy Whalen keeps on joking. Although usually full of pep and vitality, Chris Hanwright needs a solemn moment now and then to gather his thoughts.

The juniors displayed their unity and drive when, for the first time in school history, they outscored the seniors in the annual powderpuff football game. The win cemented us as a class.

We've also been very active in fundraising activities and projects, making us one of the richest junior classes ever.

I've never been so proud to be a part of a group of such wonderful people as I do this year. They've made it special for me, and for each other, and that's all that will count in our memories of high school years.

AND, as a Junior, I Got my driver's license,
And also got my first speeding ticket.
Began thinking about college or what I might want to be.
Liked participating in many activities.
Became a new person with new responsibilities.
Found out that real learning was not a piece of cake.
Fell in and out of love, lost old friends and found new ones.
Looked and looked at my class ring and felt so proud.

Kriss,
So, Well This year is coming to a close and I couldn't end
it without telling you what a great adventure we've had together this year. You're really a sweetie (even though you're short)
Good Luck. Kid,
Love Ya,

The Beginning's End

Finally, as a Senior, I

Have rights, and, yes, responsibilities too.
Tried to outwit some administrators and some teachers, but to no avail.

Developed a studious look, but actually worried about graduation and admission to college.

Promised myself never, but never, take a make-up test.

Walked, talked, and I looked TALL because I had clout.

Wondered how I could get through so many subject assignments.

Laughed with my new loves and cried when I lost them.

Realized quite clearly that Palm Bay helped me grow up and develop my capabilities.

Think that I finally do understand and have accepted ME.

We have watched Palm Bay grow, from the unforgettable Class of '79, to the stable, established position it has now. We are the last class who truly got to know and experience the very first complete cycle.

We can all remember hearing, "Palm Bay?
Where's that?" Well, they know now, and we've spent four hard years showing them.
Yes, we've proven ourselves in many ways. We could be winners — but also accept a loss. We could be strong — yet compassionate. Most of all, independent — but also one of the most close-knit classes this school has seen.

We leave now to set new goals, and conquer new horizons. The memories of the past four years are safe in our hearts, but as all things must end, then so shall our days here at Palm Bay. The Class of '82 won't be forgotten though, for we played a vital part in making Palm Bay's transition complete. We are truly
the beginning's end.

This exclusive design was created by the students of Palm Bay High School. This elegant design features your school mascot, the Pirate on the left side. The other side is a special design exclusively for the students of Palm Bay High School. The school name is spelled out around the top and separated by cross swords. Your class ring is a symbol of pride for you as an individual for your achievements in your high school years. Wear it with PRIDE!

"WHERE GOOD THINGS ARE GOING ON"

Looking Back

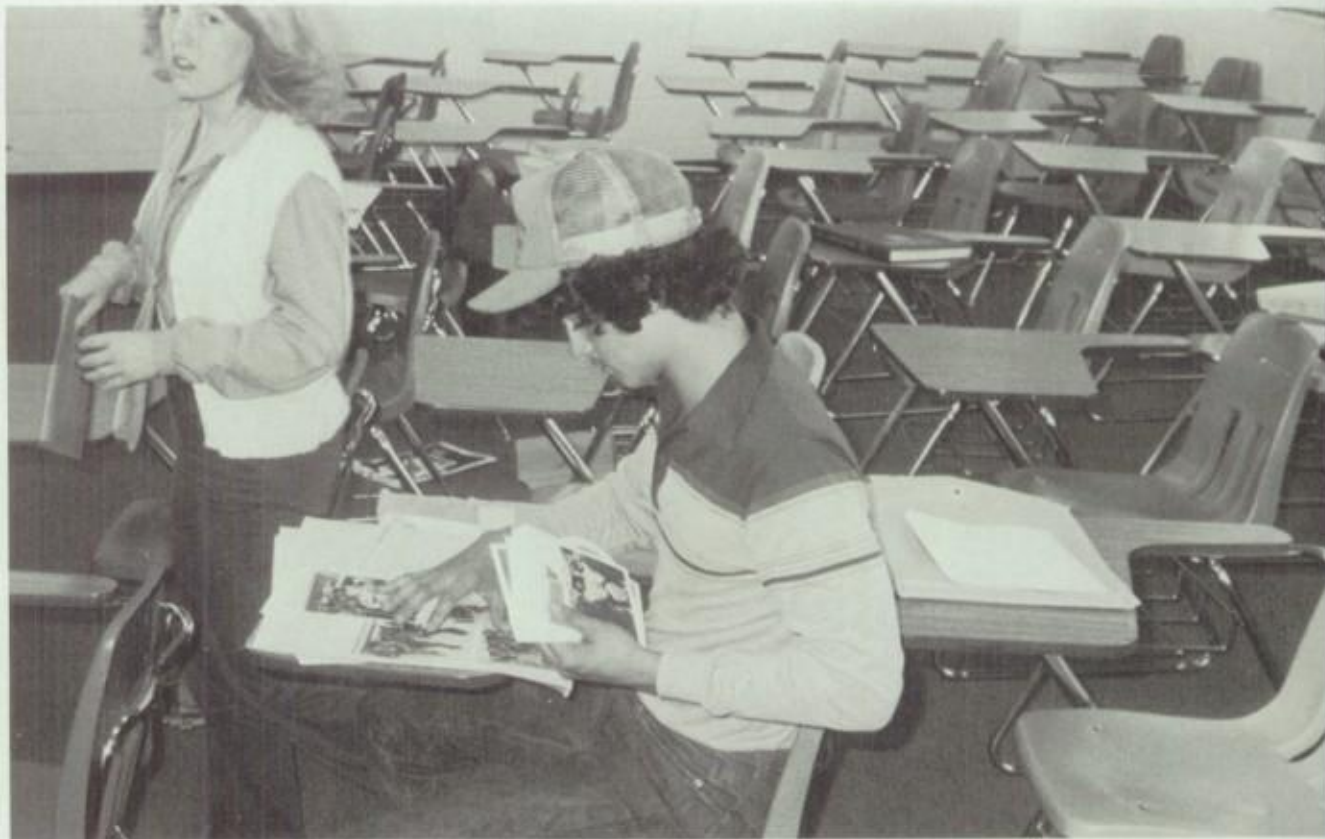

Glorifying the grand 'ole flag, Jeanie Berry marches during the halftime presentation, along with the band members. Team Managers Kristen Johannessen, Stefanie Meyer and Martha Kurth patiently await the mighty Pirates to enter the field before the game against Rockledge. Florida Home Finders catcher, Joe Vitallano, patiently awaits his turn to bat. Band member Frank Hernkind carefully watches his step, while being engulfed by his own tuba.

Look at you! Silky B.

Thirty-Two

You may not realize it, but you've been watched. Your moods, emotions, pastimes, opinions and personalities have been closely monitored and recorded. This is the undercover job of the yearbook staff. Each member is a writer, salesman, reporter and investigator. All of these require a special perception of people in general. We've had an unusually creative and cooperative staff this year. It is a hard job, and they did it well.

Kris, forever
onward & upward to a bigger & better one next year. Best wishes and good luck for now & forever.

For his first year on the staff, Richard Crain made some interesting contributions. Progressing from "Tracy is the pro" which he typed incessantly, Tracy Hines moved up to mastering the fine techniques of yearbook. Pictures of cheerleaders seem to do strange things to some boys. Working on this section, Denese Williams had to deal with the male section of the class. Selling yearbooks is another job of the staff. Tom Loomis was top salesman. In the early stages of their section, was Keeping up with the index was a continual job for Jackie Beasley. Making sure that he didn't get stuck doing dance or sewing, Steve Meyer made some quick notes in the assignments.

 Thanks for all the great help in yr. book. Aren't you proud?
 Keep bein' happy.
 you brighten up
 every where you go.
 Love,
 Husella

One of the few truly organized members of the staff,
 James Allan, always got down to business. Decisions!
 Decisions! Ron Kohel carefully sorted through his pictures to make his lay-out just right.

Head (or maybe foot?)
 Photographer Tom Loomis put countless hours of work into his job on the staff.
 Bob Tutwiler, with his contraband radio at his side, tried to look busy as an overpowering voice, exclaiming "Turn that thing off!" shook the walls of the room.

A collage of three images. The top left shows a space shuttle launching with a large American flag in the foreground. The top right shows the Space Shuttle Challenger in flight. The bottom center shows a small fighter jet flying.

A black and white photograph capturing a moment of triumph in a boxing ring. The central figure, a Black male boxer, is shirtless and wearing white trunks with a wide, ornate championship belt. He has his arms raised high in a 'V' shape, celebrating a victory. His expression is one of intense joy and exertion. To his left, another Black male boxer stands with his hands on his hips, looking towards the victor. He is also shirtless and wearing white trunks. The background is dark, with the ropes of the boxing ring visible. On the right side, a vertical banner with the 'IVECO' logo is partially visible. The lighting is dramatic, highlighting the muscular physiques of the boxers.

WELCOME BACK TO FREEDOM

One of the 51 American ex-hostages shouts and raises his arms as he gets off an Airforce DC-9 medical plane at the Frankfurt Airforce Base Jan. 21, shortly after he and the other hostages arrived here from Algiers, their first stop to freedom after 444 days of captivity in Iran. England's Prince Charles and Lady Diana Spencer, the new Princess of Wales, smile at each other as their carriage draws away from St. Paul's Cathedral in London after their wedding, July 29th. A Swedish security vessel stands next to a Soviet submarine, Nov. 2nd, after the sub ran aground off the Baltic Coast a short distance from the high-security Swedish naval base at Karlskrona.

KRIS,
To a very Sweet girl, who I'm glad I met
this year. Good luck in the next 2 yrs here at this prison. Stay sweet and have a nice summer.
Love BRIAN

The 1981 baseball rookies-of-the-year were both lefthanded pitchers. At left is Fernando Valenzuela of the National League's Los Angeles Dodgers who was also named the league's Cy Young Award winner as best pitcher. At right is the American League's Dave Righetti of the New York Yankees. Striking air traffic controller Bill Haney is joined on the picket line at New York's LaGuardia Airport by his wife and children, August 8th. The striking controllers were fired and their union decertified. A protest of the baseball strike, which halted play for more than a month, is sung by a disgruntled fan outside of Baltimore's Memorial Stadium, June 17th.

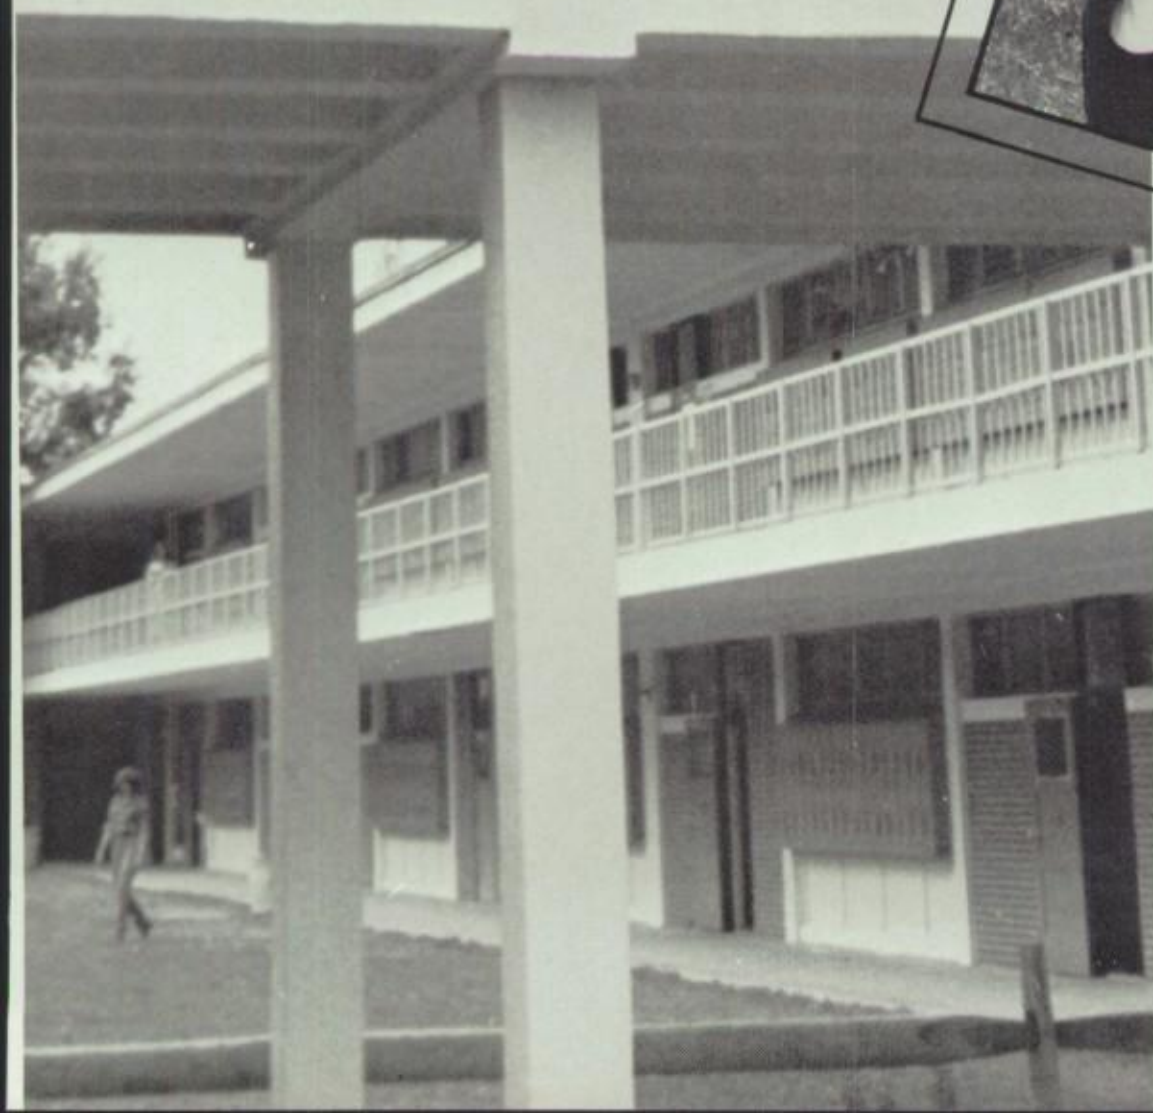

President Ronald Reagan waves, then looks up before being shoved into a limousine by Secret Service agents after being shot outside a hotel in Washington, March 30th. A man in an Egyptian army uniform fires at pointblank range into a reviewing stand outside Cairo where President Anwar Sadat was killed, Oct. 6th. A handgun, circled at left, is pointed at Pope John Paul II in Rome's St. Peter's Square just before he was shot, May 13th.

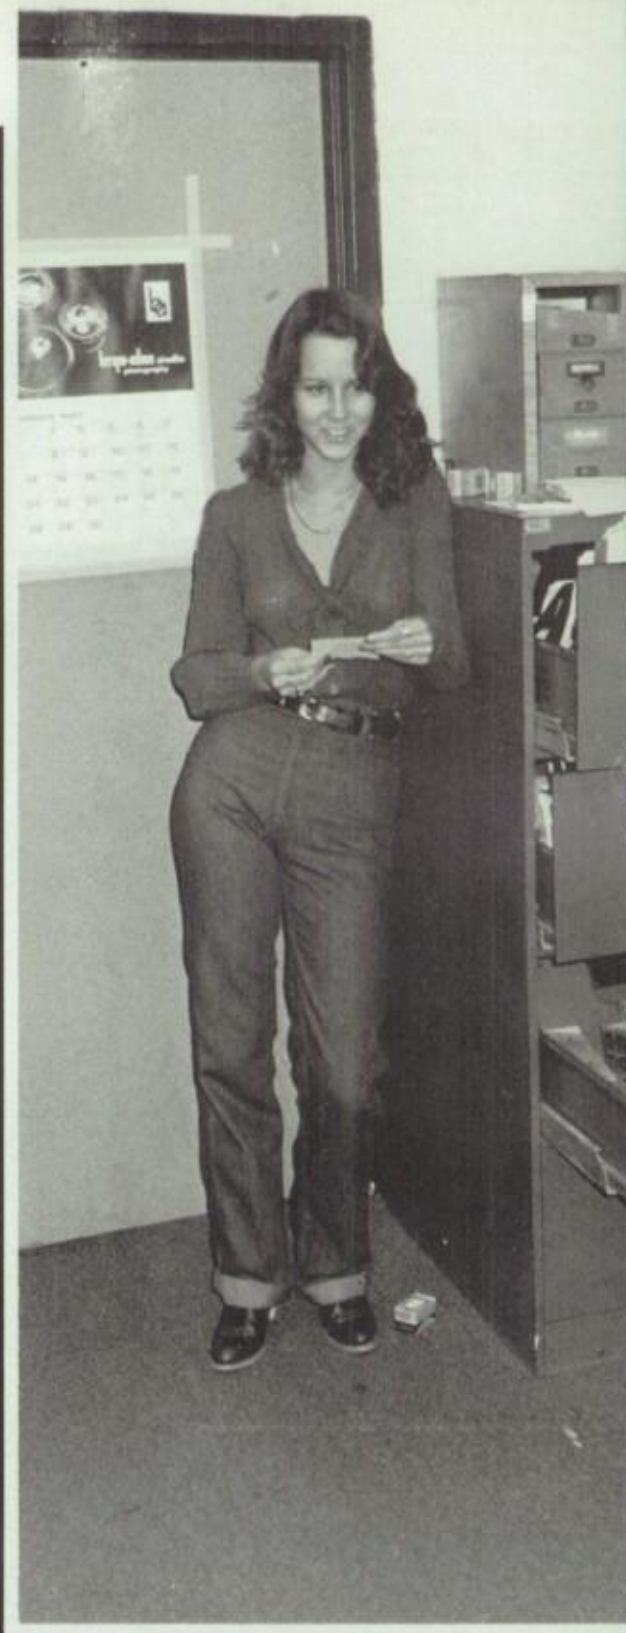

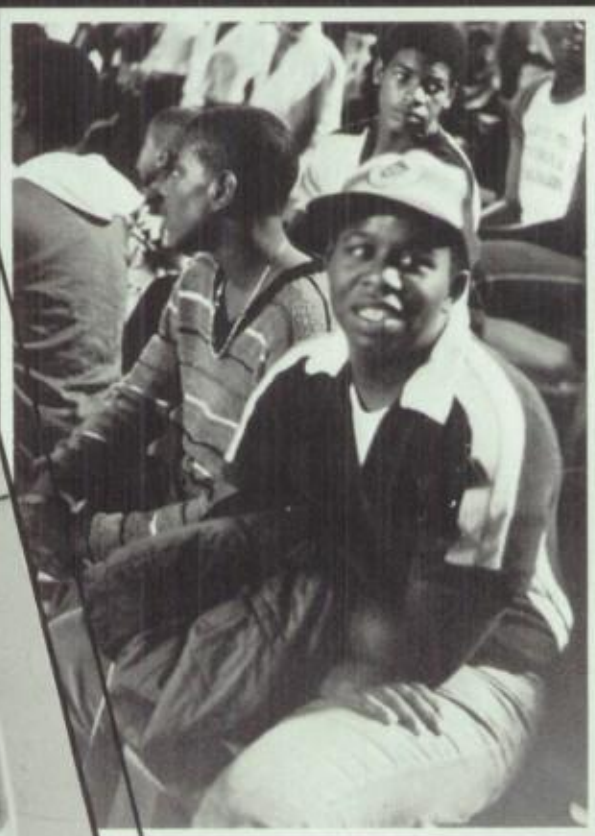

*Champagne is a sign of class.
In academics, we have students who truly excel, in sports, star athletes, and in general, all have an overall finesse.*

Pride, sincerity, and loyalty have been traits of Palm Bay High students for years. It is for these top-notch people that this was made the Champagne Edition.

We must now leave this 1981-82 year, along with all of the warmth and security it has given us. Memories of the times we've shared, the laughter and the tears, the victories and the defeats, the unity and the solitude, are things that can never be taken away.

The times can change and the friendships grow apart, but memories, once made, are everlasting treasures.

*It is now that we look ahead.
The future begins in just a few minutes and the memories we take with us must be made today.
This is your time — if you miss it, you miss it for good. So live today like never before, for tomorrow has yet to come.*

We thank Palm Bay
High School for giving us a place to grow, to find ourselves, and to prepare for tomorrow.

May you always love and be true to this school which has given us so much to hold in remembrance.

Kris,

Hi Chic! Well, this is gonna be hard, coz I really don't know where to start! The first thing I wanna say, is I'm very lucky to have such a good friend, like you! I really don't know what I would've done w/out you! You're my very best friend! We've had such good times this past year & I know that many more lie ahead! Football games, pep rallies, everything, we've all been a blast! I have met so many friends thru you! & I thank you! I kinda hate to see my freshman year go by, I kinda like being picked on! Anyway, this coming summer will be a blast! (as long as you're around & it will be!) You're so much fun to be around! Even if we're doin' something boring, you always make it fun! Well, chic there's not much more to say except,

I love you & I'll always be here when you need me, as you were for me! I love ya' Chic!

Take care! Love to you,

Bobby!
